Days Gone Down

The decade of the 70's was over. During the past 10 years attitudes had changed. The emphasis on worldwide causes and issues that had molded the 60's turned to an emphasis on oneself and personal matters, with few people taking firm stands on issues or fighting for what they believed in.

As the 80's began, world events rattled the American society, stirring all ages to gather in protest over nuclear power and international strife. Sources of energy and the pursuit of world peace prompted people to vocalize their opinions on these and other causes. On a local level the overcrowding of schools and talk of double-sessions raised heated discussions.

The difference of opinion between students was visibly seen as some took a firm stand on matters, clashing with the views of their peers. Others, though, seemed unaware of the changes occurring around them.

A lack of direction as the new decade began created tremendous uncertainty. The effects of past events was not fully realized, leaving only memories of DAYS GONE DOWN.

Mirrors of the Mind

The senior class of 1980 manifested all the many characteristics of society at large. The unmolded freshmen of 1977 metamorphasized into unique and opinionated individuals, whether they be conservative, liberal, or simply indifferent.

Recognizing the united effort by Israel and Egypt to bring peace to their long feuding nations, student leaders made significant strides with minorities for better relationships.

The combined influence of television, cinema, and the musical sounds of the 70's all unconsciously manipulated the minds of the students of that decade.

The message was to conform—to pattern ones appearance after certain celebrated people. Attitudes also were affected by this bombardment as few students dared to speak out against the established social mores accepted by their peers.

The senior class of 1980 would have to rely on their memories to sort out and give perspective to the confusing events which remain only in the MIRRORS OF THE MIND.

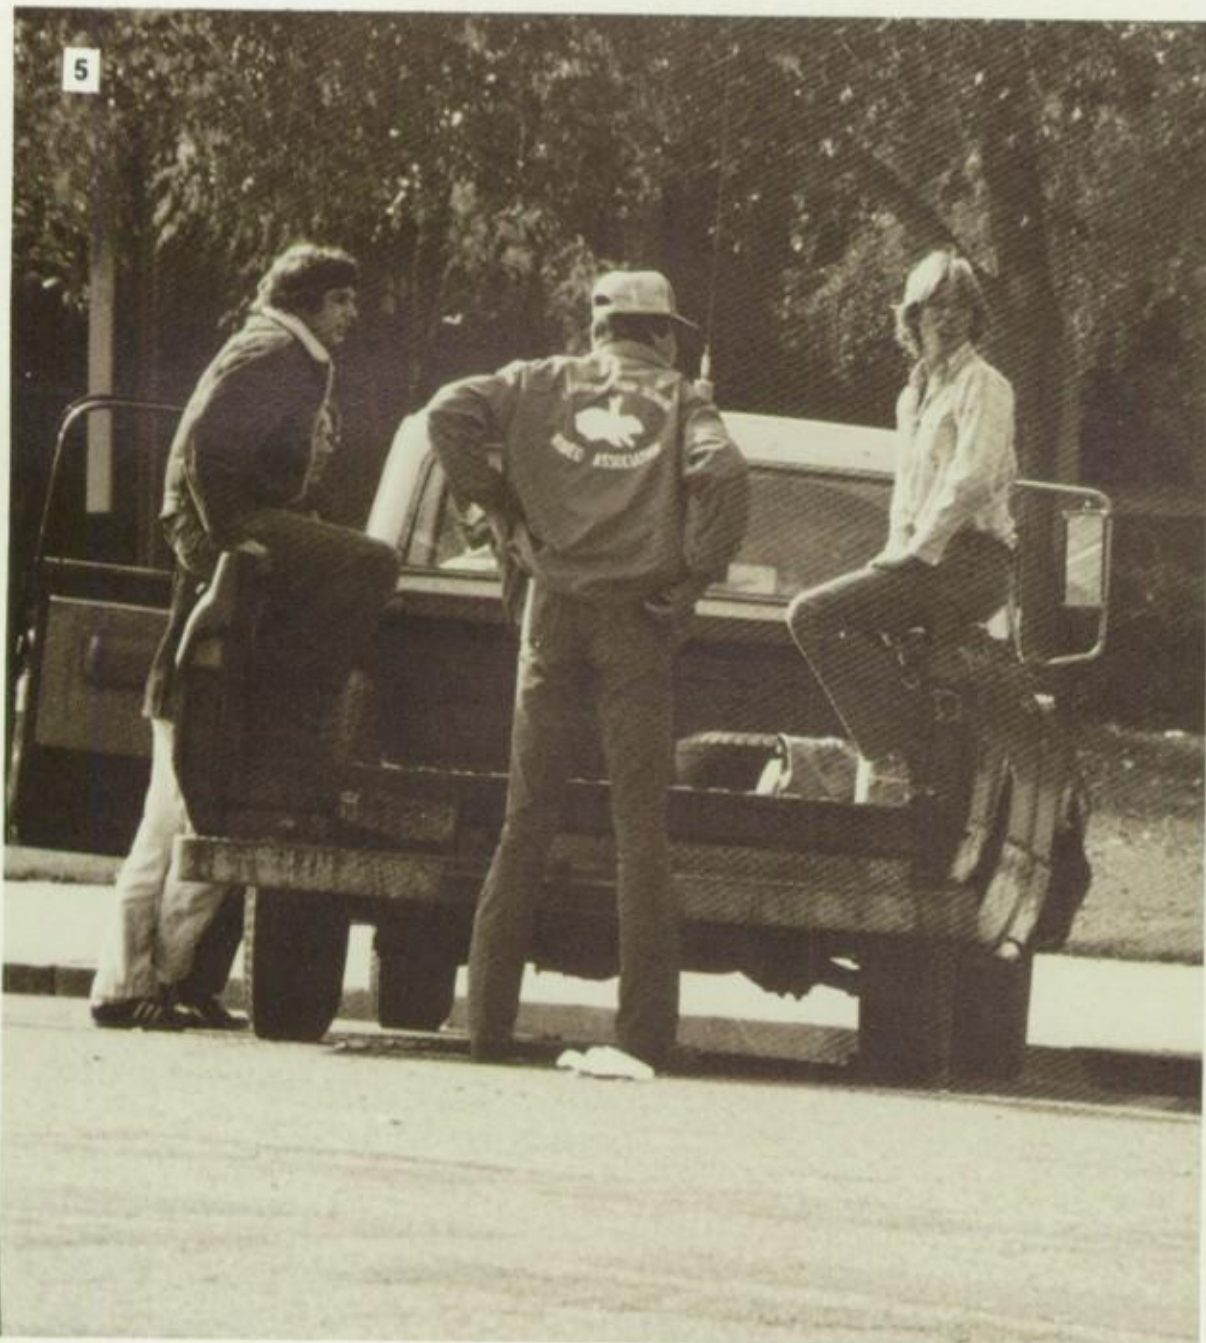

School interests developed as ones high school years progressed. (1,2) Lori Stanley spent her senior year promoting school spirit as a member of A-Song, while as a freshman she worked diligently on the Ways and Means committee in Student Government. (3) Struggling to find her classes as a freshman in 1977, Janis George has no inclination that many hours would be spent within the walls of Lodi High preparing rallies (4) as the Rally Commissioner. (5) Always controversial, Allen Matthews participated in the Victory parade his senior year disguised as a granny, while his freshman year he gave an attention getting speech in his debate class. (7) The 1977 Freshmen class representatives.

(1) Jana Pinkerton participated enthusiastically as a member of Drill Team. (2) The Back-To-School dance provided an opportunity for freshmen to begin new friendships. (3) Drivers Training was a class all wishing to get their license had to struggle through. (4) Ever present to maintain order, Lodi police officers were frequently seen "cruising" past the school. (5) Congregating in front of the school was a favorite pastime for many. (6) Students waited eagerly to be assigned their lockers. (7) Jackie Coenen and Larry Woehl anticipate their arrival at the annual Pigskin Prom.

Beginnings Unlocked

The fear or anticipation of entering high school was soon... a time that would never be again. Knowing not what to expect, one entered into a utopia of experiences that were extremely foreign.

The first prom, getting a driver's license, choosing classes, all these were experiences that many partook in during the four years in high school.

Students' preparations for their life after Lodi High were apparent by their class choices and extra-curricular activities. High school offered students a chance to explore their interests on a much more developed level than ever before.

Some students, on the other hand, felt that attending school on a regular basis was not all that significant in shaping their future. Having curiosities that lie elsewhere, they directed their attention to non-school activities.

While these experiences differed for everyone, high school was a time that would never be again. A time of BEGINNINGS UNLOCKED.

Moments Free

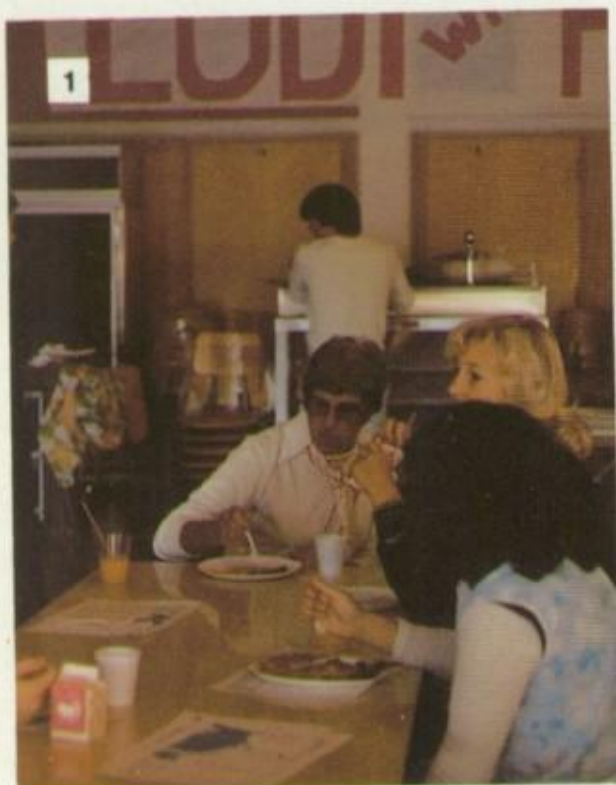

The after-school and free-school time of students was spent in various ways differing to suit the style of oneself. Whether it was band, sports, drama, art, journalism, working at a part time job or just doing what one enjoyed, the after-school hours were filled.

During lunch the masses scattered to the outer corners of the school and town. While many enjoyed eating in the courtyard or cafeteria, the travelers took off by car, bike or foot, to go home or to any of Lodi's fast-food establishments.

During the warmer months, the SAB established lunch time volleyball games to fill the void of time. The Drama department exhibited their talents by staging plays during this time, and different groups sponsored musical acts and informative lectures.

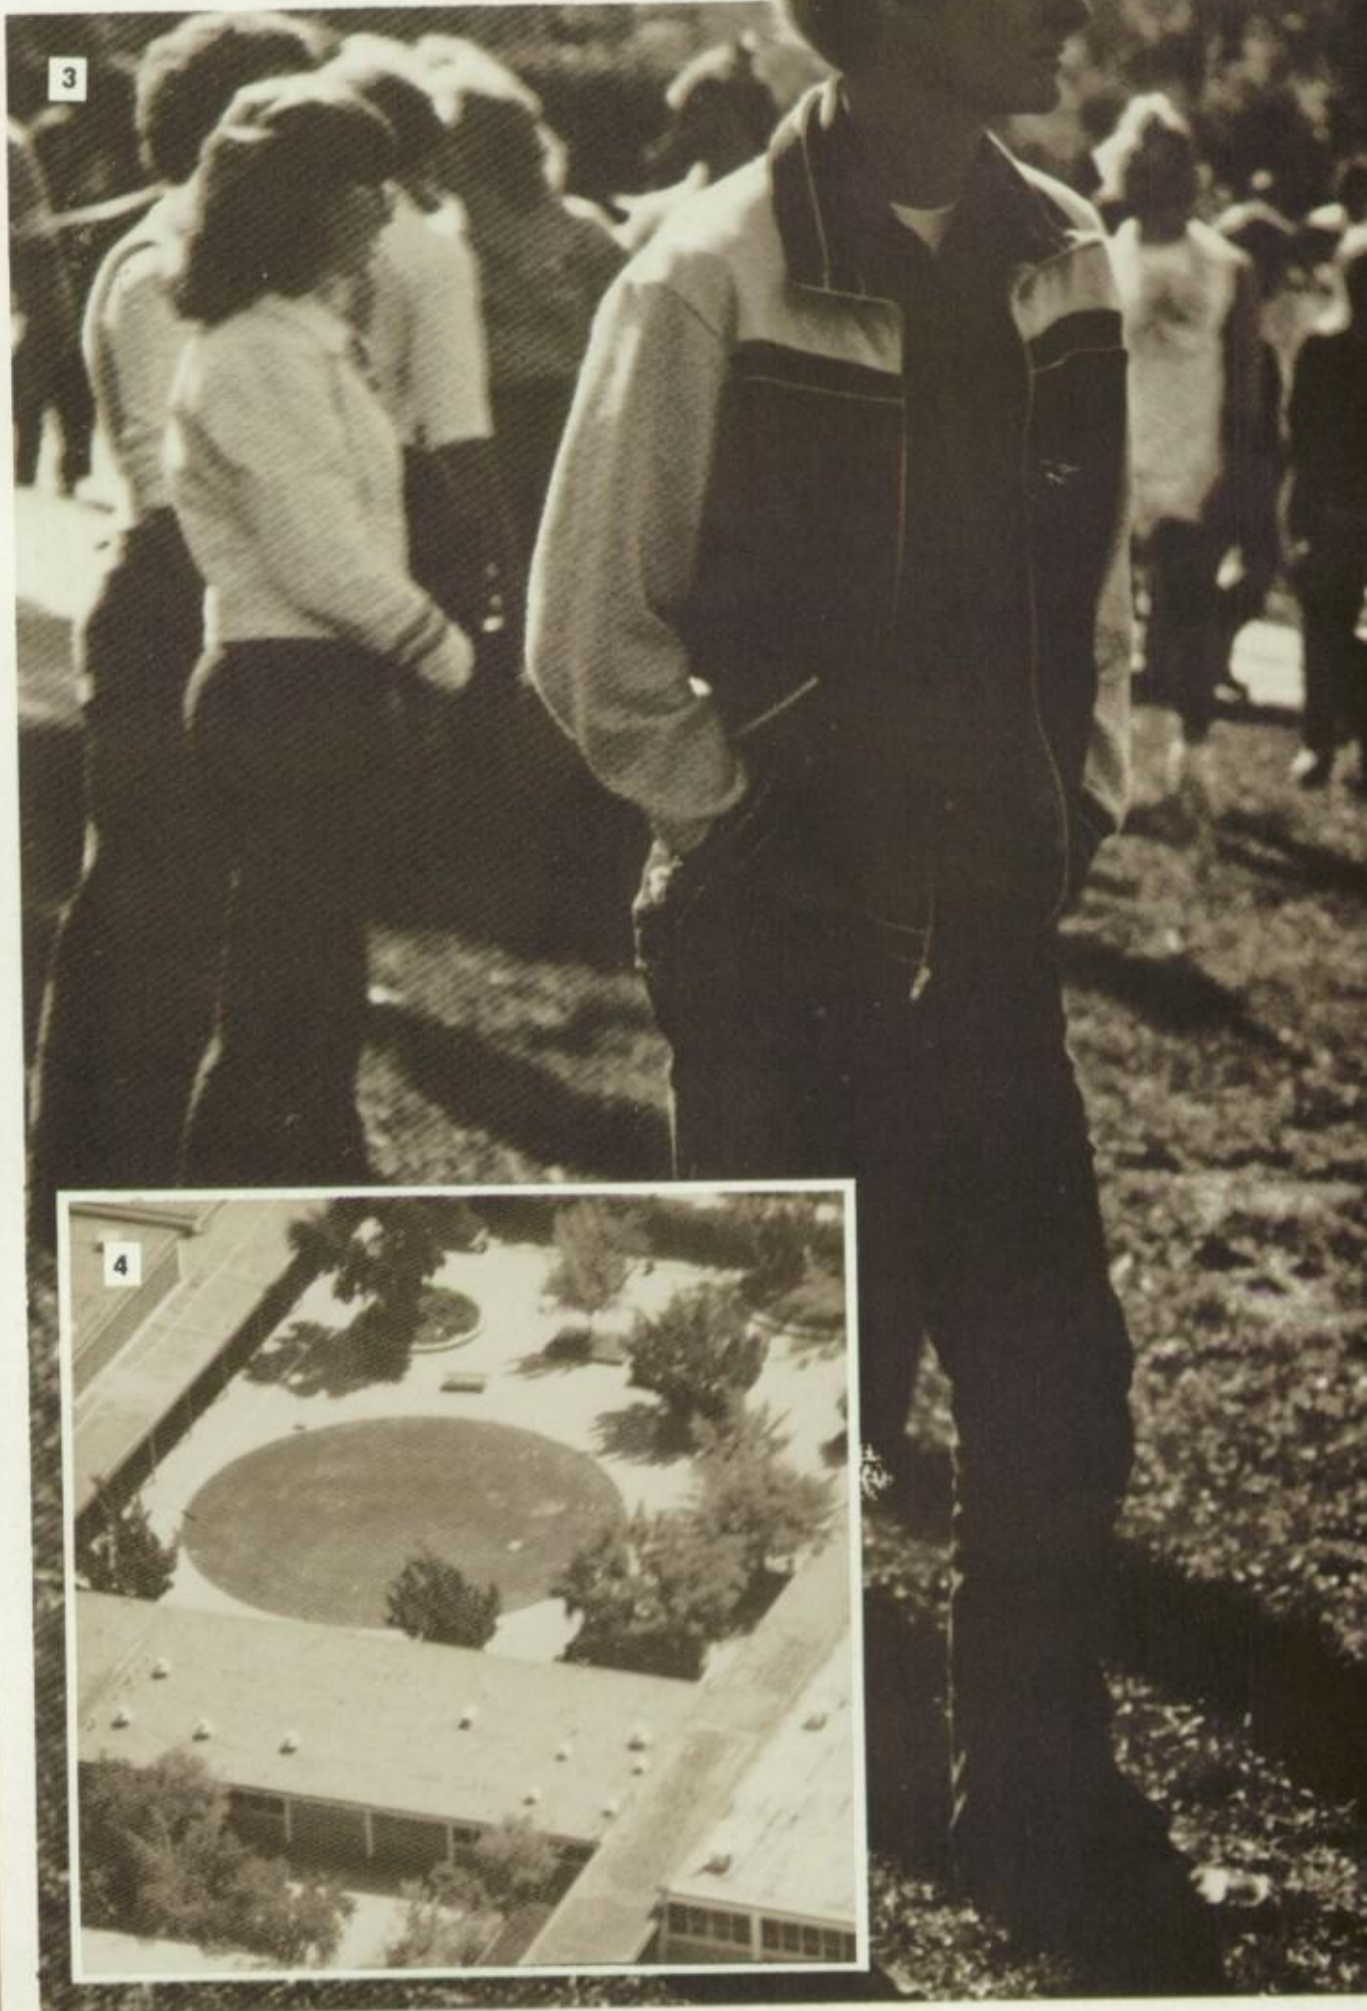

The various ways students spent their time differed from individual to individual, with many activities filling up their cherished MOMENTS FREE.

(1) Mrs. Elvera Melby enjoyed students company while dining at the annual senior class pancake breakfast. (2) students crowded the snackbar during lunches, (3) but found other places to gather during closed hours. (4) Drum Major Daniel Lerma concentrates on "The Pride of Lodi's" uniformity while marching in the Grape Festival Parade. (5) The Pap Band provided music at school events. (6) Lunchtime was a time to talk with friends about the latest happenings. (7) Jaff Dalk pursued his interest in performing by participating in the Drama departments production of "War of the Worlds".

(1) Mr. John Fletcher studied a student's paper before answering his question in a government class. (2) Ed Kawamura intently listens to the issues in Student Government. (3) Marvin Tidwell observes the courtyard festivities surrounding the Girls Serf Sale, (4) while an aerial view of the courtyard displays it at a more serene time. (5) Students await the start of the Victory parade.

Choice of Me

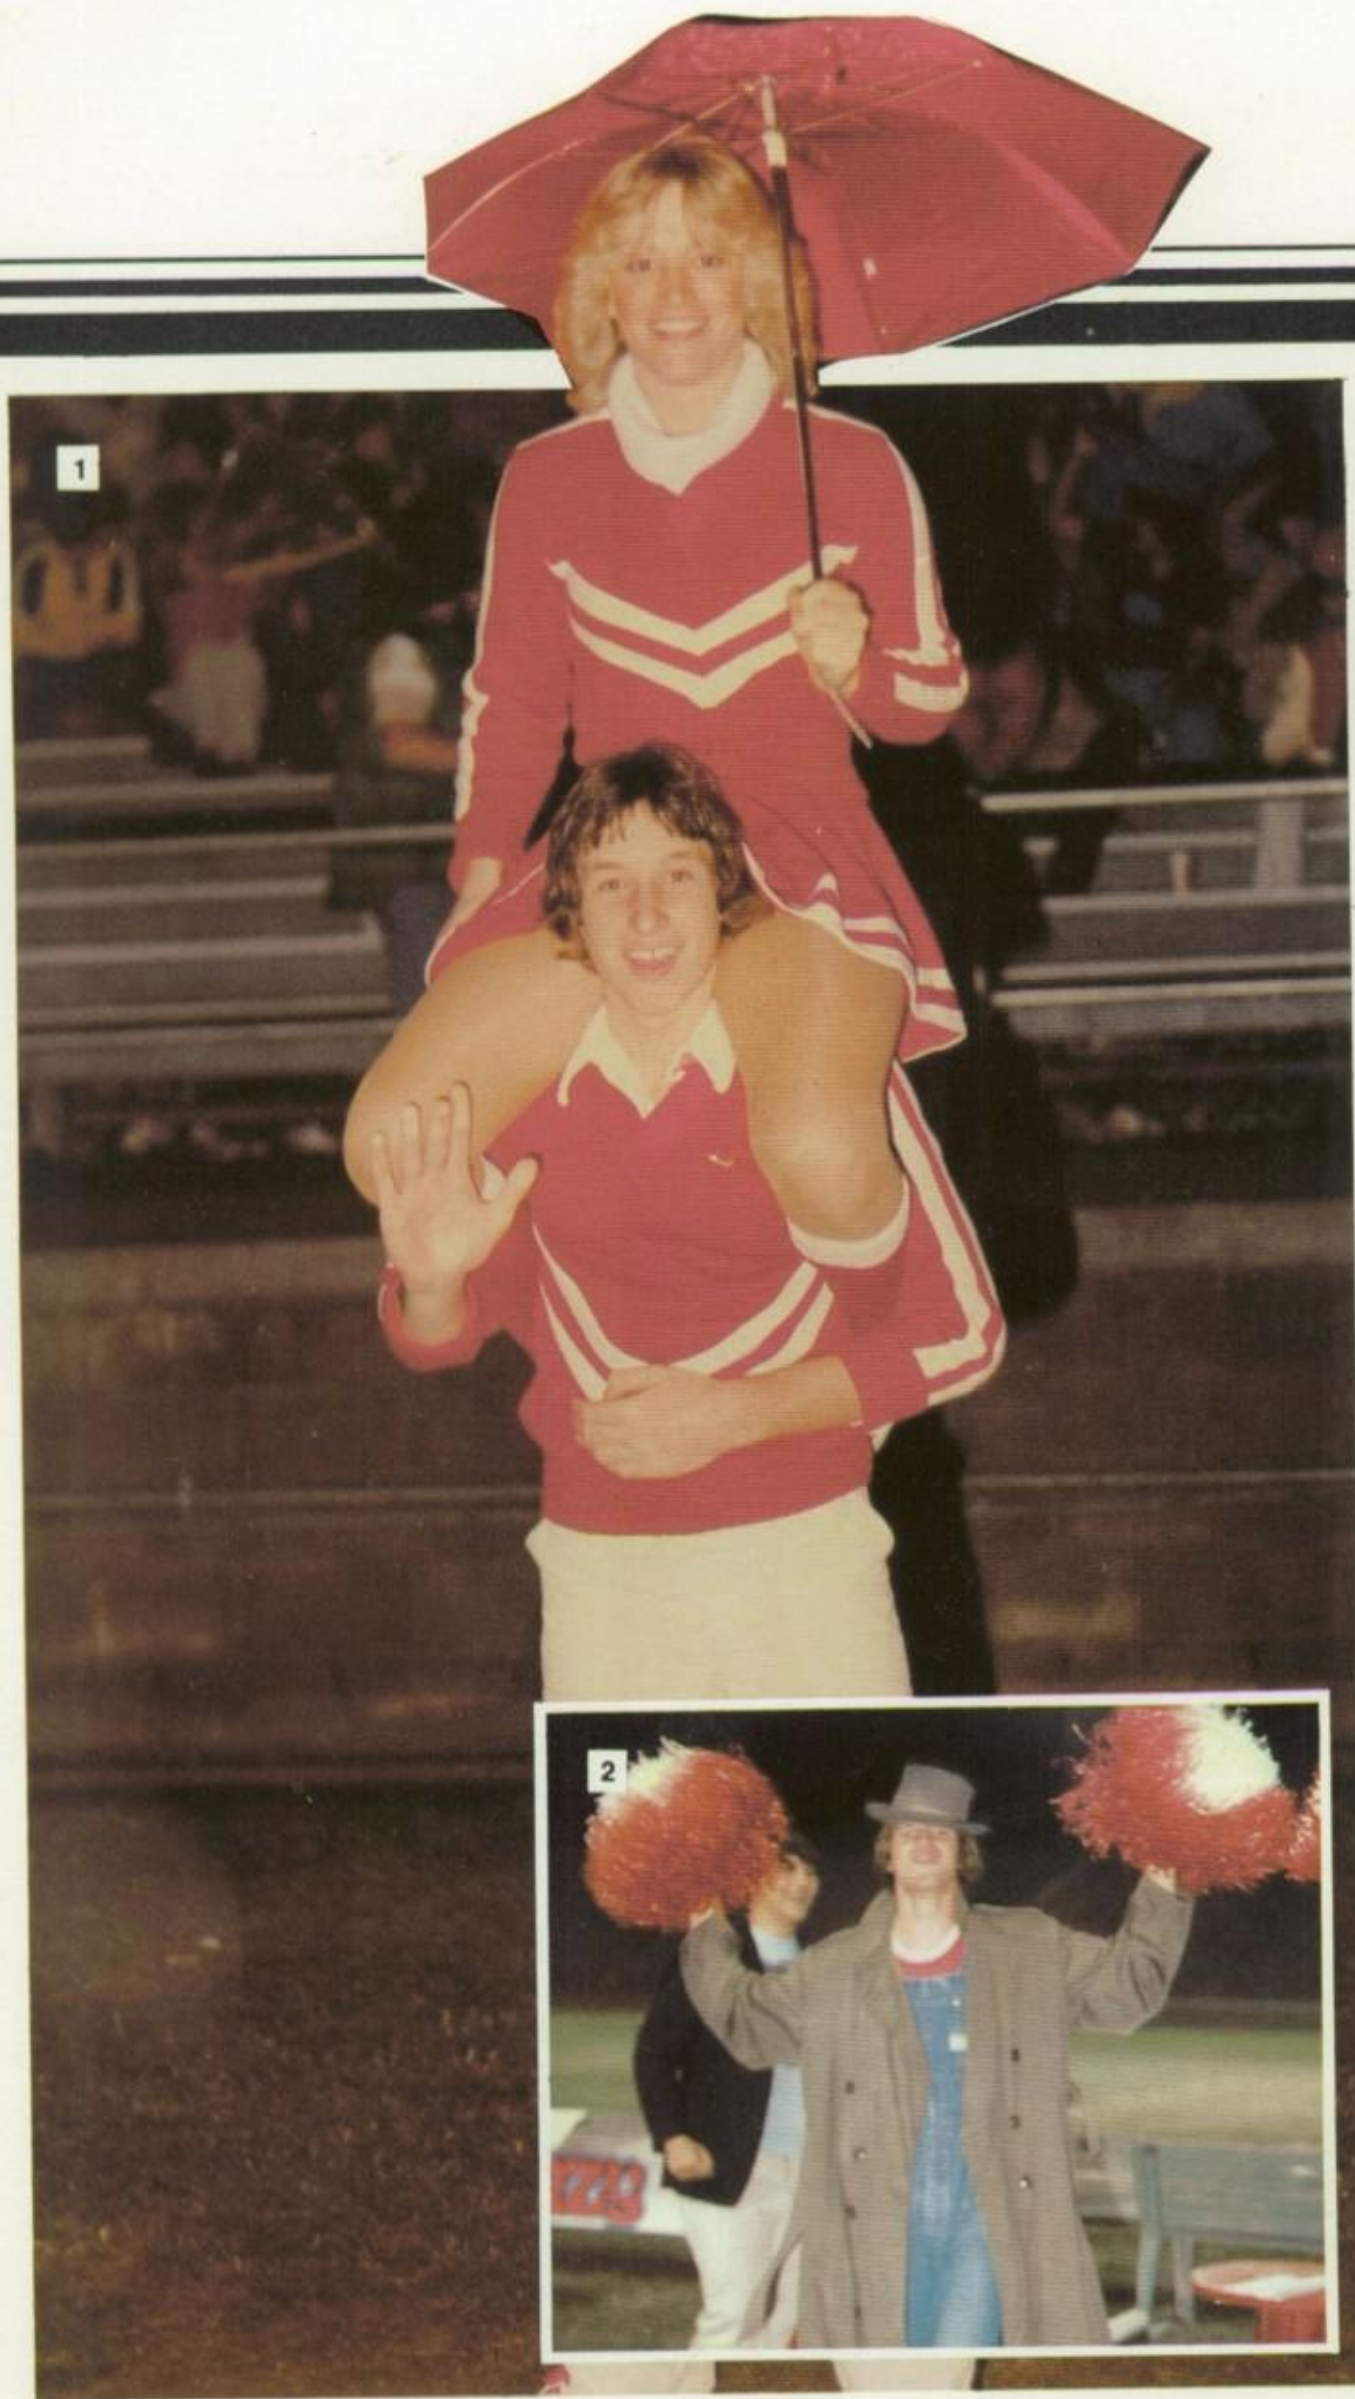

Upon entering high school there were many stages of development. The different personalities of students became apparent as the decision of which path to follow arose and everyone made their own choices. Wherever ones' interests lie there were always others with the same. As friendships were formed there were the usual minority of leaders, ranging from the outrageously rebellious to the consistantly conservative and the same competitive symmetry in the followers seemed ever-present.

People with similar interests flocked to the location where their peers dominated and they felt most comfortable. The area in front of the library, called for as long as anyone can remember as, "Jock Hall", accomadated many of the school spirited.

Students of Mexican American descent spent much of their time in the MECHA room planning club activities. During 4th period, Room 42 became the site of heated debates as Student Government meetings were held.

The decision of which path to follow was an individual CHOICE OF ME.

Experiences Which Pass

The start of the 1980 school year began with confusion, apathy, and a general sense of unrest.

A teacher contract dispute delayed the beginning of school bringing an anticlimatic end to the summer. When school did begin a week later, the students lacked the usual back-to-school fervor. A laid-back attitude was seen, and the first rally failed to regenerate excitement. An exceptionally small crowd turned out for the back-to-school rally and assembly, doing nothing to improve spirit in the flagging seniors or in the excited freshmen. The winning of several games by the football team, and the Student Activities Board sponsoring many activities helped to spark the students' spirit.

International hat day, Jersey day, twin day and Halloween dress-up day added variety to the usual routine of school life, with the parade and girl and boy serf days being highlights of Victory Week.

As school excitement reached a peak, and many students got involved with school, they were partaking in unique EXPERIENCES WHICH PASS.

(1) Dawn Utley and Sean Snell suffer through the rain to cheer Lodi on. (2) John Sibole performs his cheerleading routines. (3) Kevin Potts and Kevin Wild dress alike on twin day. (4) Lisa Bathurum and Carrie Workman relax during lunch on Halloween. (5) The Uplings go Hollywood during the Victory parade. (6) Remnants of the parade linger following the celebration. (7) Hat day brought out the imaginations of the many students who participated.

Fanning the Embers

The irrecoverable days of the 70's were over. In the minds of many students it was difficult to remember the early days of the past decade. As styles, and lifestyles changed, so did the environment in which they occurred with the establishment of a second school.

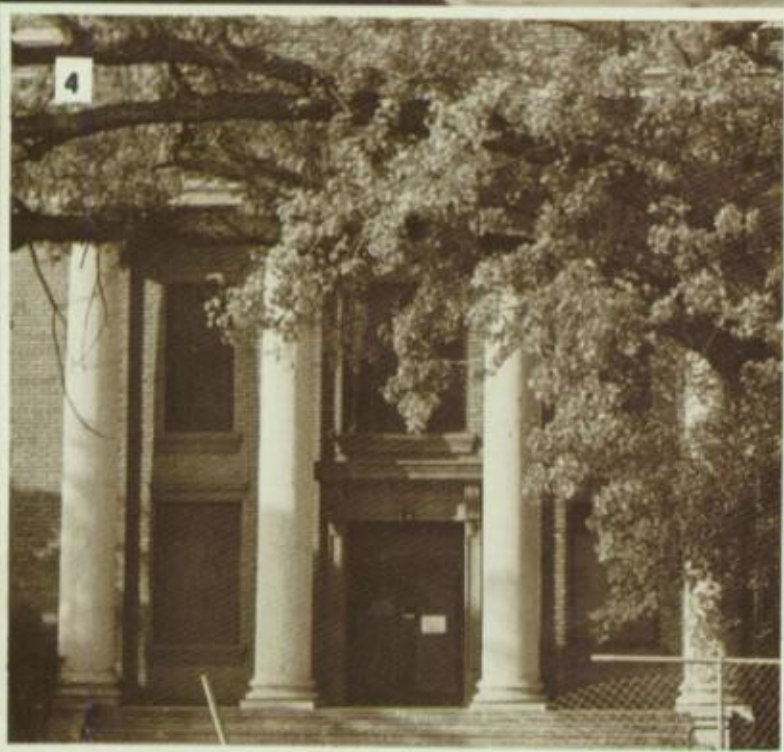

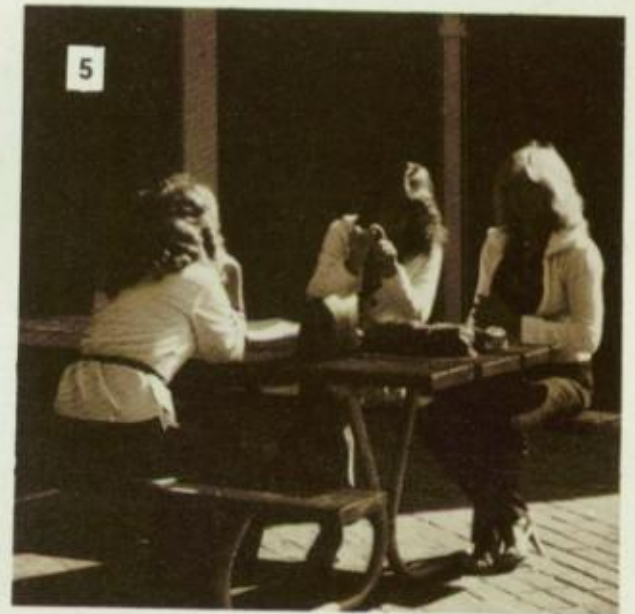

Changing attendance systems at first created a stir until the general population found their ways to beat the establishment.

The changing to co-ed P.E., a direct result of laws passed forbidding sex discrimination, startled and offended many students and parents alike in the beginning, but is something that was more widely accepted and preferred as time went on.

The abolishment of the dress code brought with it a chance for everyone to express their individuality and an added sense of competition.

For many it was difficult to recall the past and these instances were only remembered while FANNING THE EMBERS.

(1) The hallways rarely looked this clean and peaceful during the course of the school day. (2) Lodi High School's attendance system saw a lot of use during the course of the year. (3) Venus Bender buried the opponent in one of the many skits used during the rallies. (4) This is one of the few buildings that remained at the old Tokay campus yet to be torn down. (5) Karyn Schnell, Kathie Ehlers, and Wendy Williams wait for the passing bell to ring before going to class. (6) The plaza was a place to study or pass ones freetime for many.

Our Generation

The fads of the 1979-1980 school year were more widely accepted than those of previous years. Musical styles such as rock 'n' roll, punk and disco all captured their fair share of followers with the latter having a greater amount of devotees. The preference of an individual was clearly visible by his appearance, with students dressing to make a statement, to express their social or musical lifestyle.

The use of hallucinogenic drugs was more visible towards the end of the decade and many students experienced the effects of taking acid, mushrooms, and PCP.

The contract dispute which postponed the beginning of school brought with it a mixture of emotions. Many students and parents alike were made aware of their plight and rallied behind the teachers as the post-prop 13 school system struggled through the adjustment of school financing.

The 1979-1980 school year showed the different facets of the individuals by the various fads they followed. These fads, reflecting constant social change, played a part in the composition of OUR GENERATION.

(3) This car resembles something out of a space age movie, but is actually just one of the new model sports cars. (4) Lodi High was filled with students' cars, making parking a hassle because of the limited amount of spaces provided. (5,6) The heating system at Lodi High left much to be desired, prompting many to think of alternate methods such as solar heating.

Emergence to the Unknown

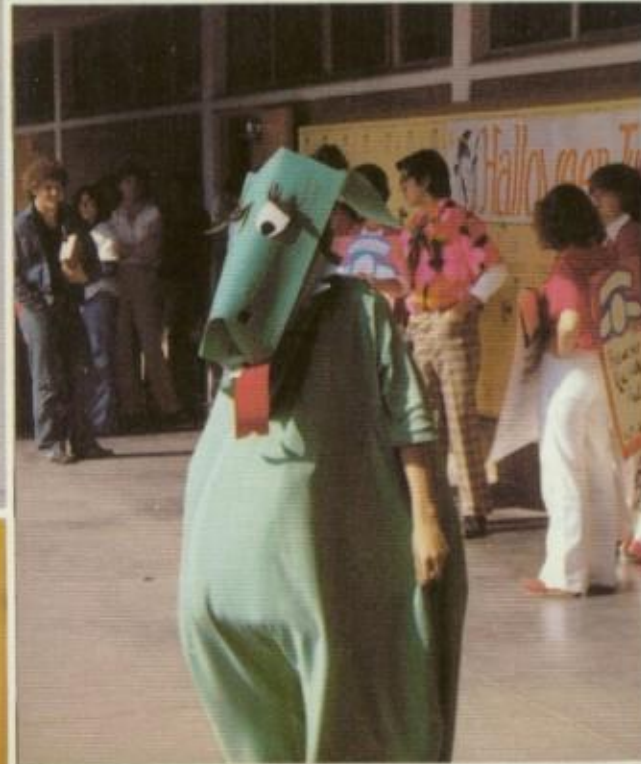

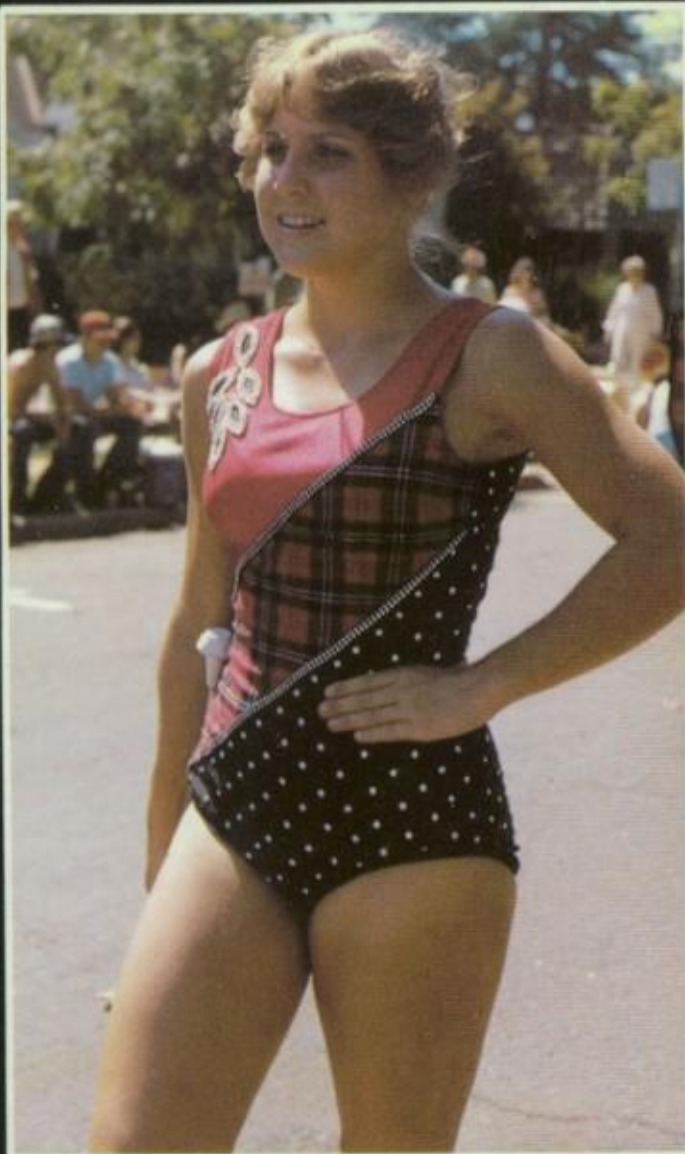

Their future existence lay heavy upon the shoulders of the students, the impending deciders of posterities fate. Finding themselves unfamiliar with the decisions of the future, points of view varied over significant issues such as nuclear power, energy, capital punishment, equal rights and war and violence.

Talk of reinstating the military draft awoke dormant feelings concerning war. With many students vocalizing that they would not submit, others felt the former were unpatriotic.

The pros and cons of nuclear energy were the source of long heated debates. Many felt the risks far outweighed the benefits, while others were in favor of its further development. Those against nuclear energy were far more vocal than the supporters, with many demonstrations erupting at proposed nuclear power plant sites, including nearby Rancho Seco.

With their future existence undecided, none knew what lie ahead, knowing only that they were making an EMERGENCE TO THE UNKNOWN.

ADVENTURES

Victory Week action-packed

The boys' serf sale signalled the start of Victory Week. The usual array of costumed serfs roamed the halls, threatening their owners with plans of revenge. Lunches were brightened by licorice and jello eating contests sponsored by the SAB. Thursday night students cut, pasted and painted to decorate the halls in a Hollywood theme for the annual hall-decorating contest, with the juniors winning the contest. The senior pancake breakfast started the exciting last day.

Highlighting the rally was the announcement of King and Queen and the traditional picking of Mr. Legs, won this year by senior John Forrest. The parade followed, providing an array of floats and cars, with the seniors and yell leaders' floats sharing the first place award. All this excitement was only to be followed by the loss to Tracy 42-8.

(1) Active VICA members rode on their entry in the parade. (2) Herb Meyers shows his form on Boys Serf Day. (3) Keith Mettler returns to his early childhood via the orders of his masters. (4) John Forrest is crowned Mr. Legs by last years winner, Larry Gritsch. (5) Spirit leaders captured a prize with this float. (6) Todd Mallory, dressed as a tree, looks out for his canine companions during the serf sale. (7) Band members clapped along at the Victory Week rally, eagerly awaiting the announcement of the king and queen.

Royalty Reigns over Game

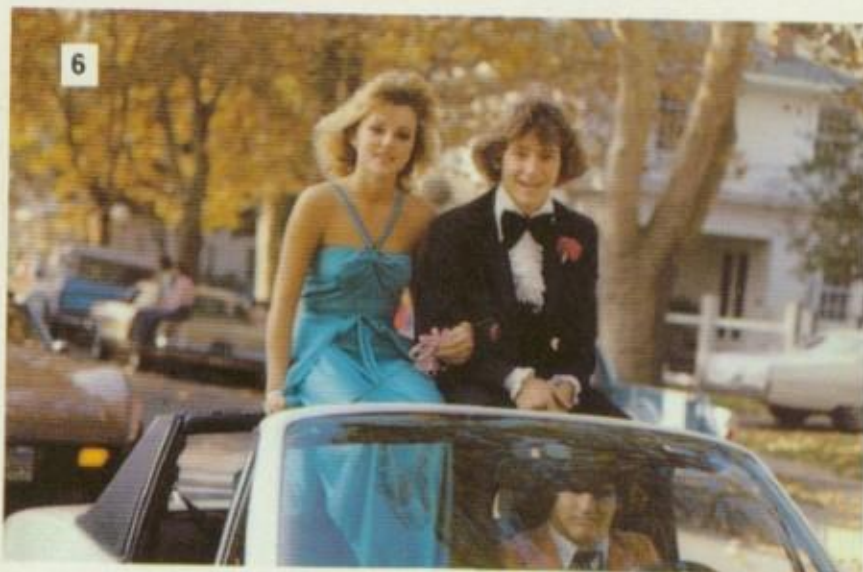

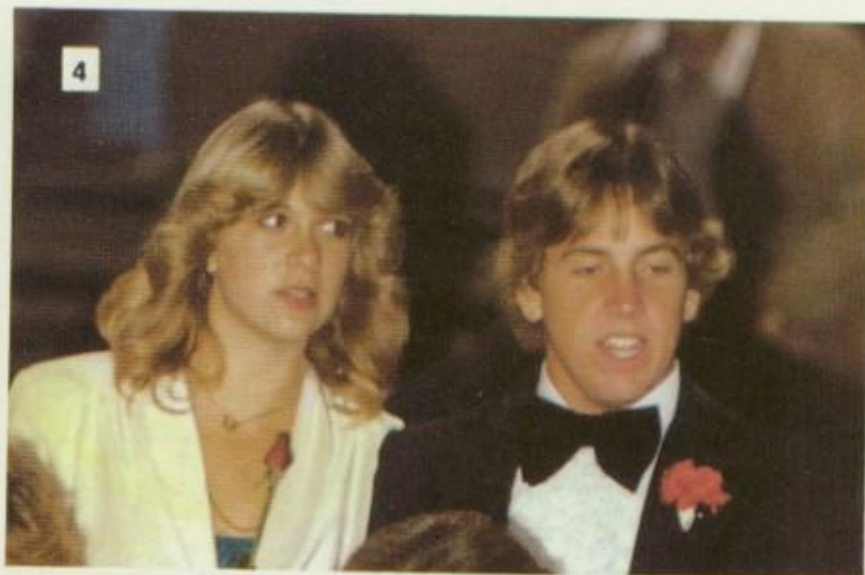

Shannon Carney and Scott Tonn were named homecoming Queen and King to reign over the final events of Victory Week.

The Varsity football team once again nominated the winning queen, with the senior class nominee claiming victory for the king.

Shannon was a member of drill team and a senior assemblyman, while Scott was senior class president and participated in Student Government, becoming speaker of the assembly.

The royalty also included Shari Prickett and Mitch Shannon, Carmen Rice and John Hilscher, Lisa Lieder and Mike Mee, and Brenda Bechthold and Marty Fortier, with everyone involved having a memorable and pleasant day despite the loss to the Bulldogs in the homecoming game.

(1) Queen Shannon Carney and King Scott Tonn excitedly wave to friends during the parade. (2) Brenda Bechthold and Marty Fortier and (3) Shari Prickett and Mitch Shannon cruise along in the royalty cars during the parade. 'Pride of Lodi' hit paydirt again

The Pride of Lodi went through some changes this year starting with their new director, Mr. Ron Raines. The list of changes also includes new uniforms for the flag girls and banner front, having a band clinic where the band put in around 15 hours marching in one weekend, and competing in field competition.

The band not only performed throughout Northern California, but also played at Reese, Washington, Lakewood, and Needham schools. They also performed at five football games, the victory week parade, and the grand opening of Newfield's and Sons.

The band had a lot of firsts this year, by winning their first trophy ever in banners and percussions and their first sweepstakes. The band beat Armijo Super Band in street competition for the first time ever. They won a total of seven first places, five second, two third, two fourth, and one sweepstakes.

"The Pride" has gained quite a bit this year, but also lost a lot. They are losing someone who has helped bring their scores up for the past four years...Miss Kari Guthrie. In the past four years Kari has won nine first, four seconds and three third places in band competition. Her parting words were "I know for sure I'm going to miss the band because i've had four terrific years . But I'll never forget the memories that it has brought me."

(5) The Lodi-Tokay Band Review ran into some bad luck with a bit of rain, but despite the downpour the band marched on.

Spirit groups add to school spirit

Tension was high last May as commissioner of elections Steve Collins announced the winners of the 1979-1980 spirit leaders. The excitement of the moment generated one winner to say, "That was probably one of the most exciting times of my life."

High spirited rallies, tension filled football games, and hard playing bouts in basketball made for an exciting year for the spirit leaders. Trying to please the fans involved hours of hard work in planning rallies and half-time routines. Helping to cheer the team on to victory will be a memorable time in spiritleaders' lives.

"Putting in time after school and coming to school an hour and a half early may not have seemed worth the trouble to some people, but it all pays off when you step onto the fire engine to enter into the game to a bunch of high spirited fans rooting their team to a victory. At the end of the year a cheerleader looks back on the year and sees many times they might not have thought the whole year was worth the time and trouble, but realizes that it was, and if given the chance would probably do it all over again," said A-Yell member Gigi Sievers.

(1) A-Yell members are Keith Mettler, Gigi Sievers, Sean Snell, Dawn Utley, Karyn Schnell, and Tony Haworth. (2) B-Yell members are Michele Baffoni, Dana Paul, Julie Diederich, Suzanne Nakamura, Vicki Morales, and Venus Bender. (3) Lodi cheerleaders show their spirit during the Grape Festival Parade. (4) Karol Reynolds performs a halftime routine. (5) A-Song finishes a rally routine with this fantastic finale. (6) A-Yell member Gigi Sievers cheers on the crowd at one of the rallies. (7) A-Song members are Cami Allen, Debbie Schlenker, Karol Reynolds, Michelle Laurente, Lori Stanley and Tracy Robbins.

Various activities add to school life

The Social Activities Board successfully planned activities to provide a break from the normal school day. Jersey Day, Hat Day, and Twin Day were held at the beginning of the year and sparked school spirit.

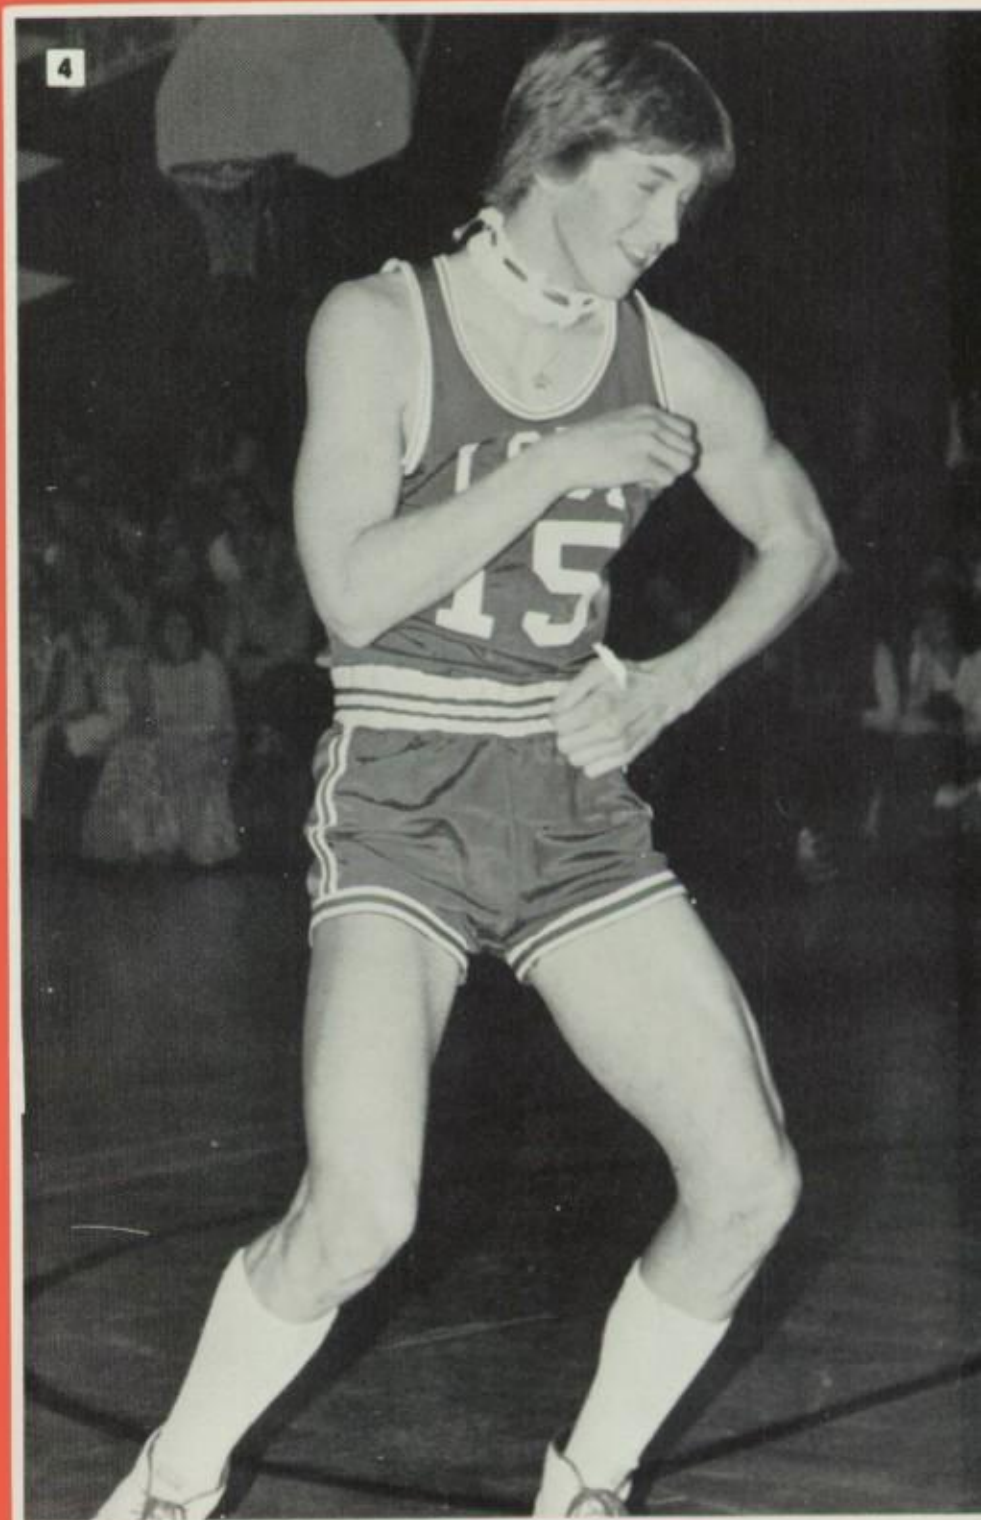

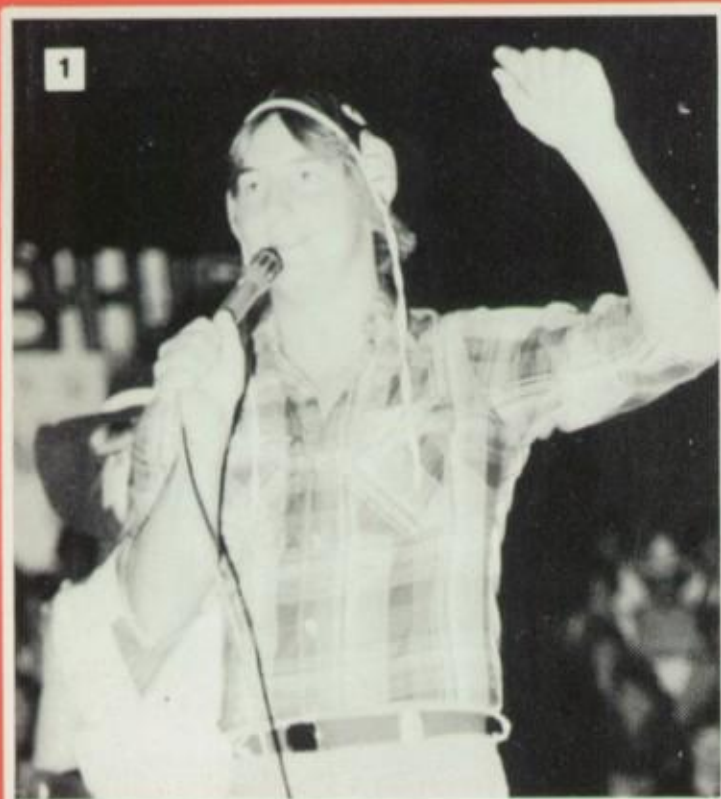

The backwards rally was a favorite of many, highlighted by the drill team's performance of a routine performed completely backwards.

Spirit Week and the traditional Victory Week raised school pride and involved a large part of the student body. Window painting competition and the serf sales helped to raise money to sponsor other activities.

(1) Lisa Bethurum attempts to hang the Spirit Week banner amidst preparation for the festivities. (2) During the backwards rally, Dan Lerma shows his spirit and enthusiasm. (3) Steve Horn describes his hat to the student body with the assistance of B-Yell member Suzanne Nakamura. (4) Paula Stirm and Eric Holden send waves to their partners during a rally on twin day. (7) Two 'Pops Concert' watchers chat between songs.

'Pops Concert' is success for band

Bill Bishofburger was one of the many people that attended the Lodi High Band's "Pops Concert". The band played songs from the 1920's all the way thru today, including songs by The Beach Boys, Barry Manilow, Simon and Garfunkel and Lennon and McCartney.

Despite many mishaps the concert went on as planned to provide the audience with a variety of good music.

Mr. Ron Raines, Dan Lerma, and last years' drum major, David Fuso, were the conductors of the concert. After the concert some band members went to a disco at the skating rink and listened to the music instead of playing it.

Drill team gives the school spirit

Members of Lodi High's drill team held more responsibilities this year than ever before. Student leadership was stressed, with co-captains Anna Barraza, Jana Pinkerton, and Paula Stirm using their three years of experience to the fullest.

Many of the team members had arguments on the issue of the expense of new uniforms but all in all everything came out smoothly with each member receiving a uniform.

Compared to last years "family like" drill team, this years second time members felt they were further apart as far as friendships went. "I just wish that more Mexicans would try out, we sometimes feel discriminated against, other than that drill will be a past experience I will always remember," said Janie Ellzondo.

Lights Out plays for Pigskin Prom

Upbeat tunes from "Lights Out" encouraged dancers to swing with endless exuberance at the Pigskin Prom. Over 400 bids were sold for this annual event which was held November 17.

The Junior Women's Club sponsored the event, making football jersey favors for the excited couples. Senior football players were once again presented with their football portraits.

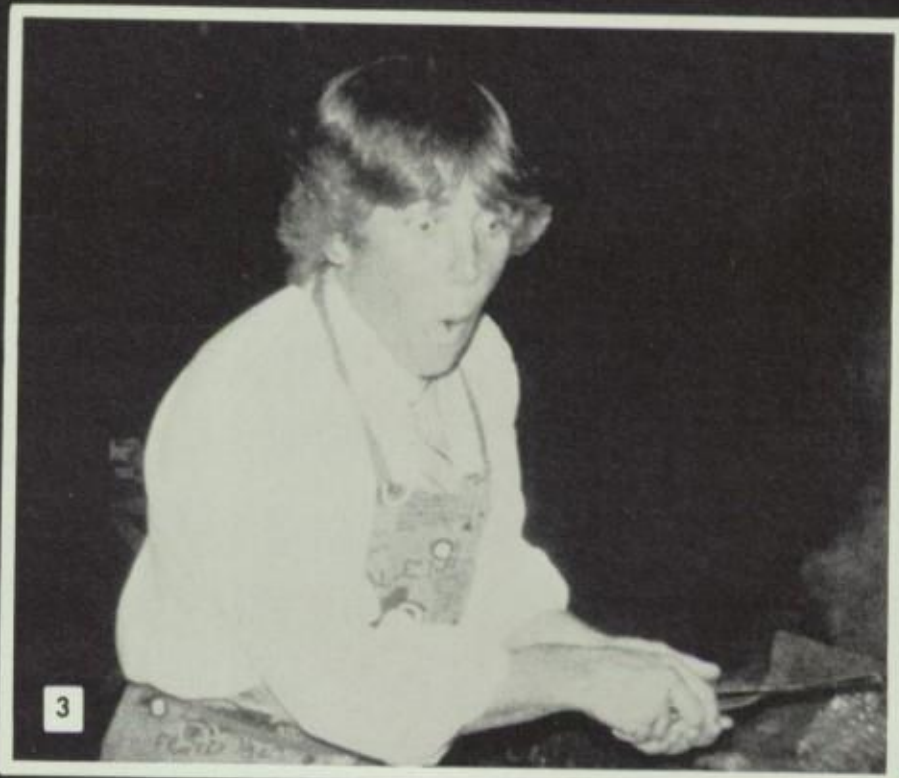

Many dinner parties were held for before-the-dance fun, and they proved to be successful events. "I had a real blast and I think everybody should go if they can," said Carrie McFadden.

"The band was really great at this year's Pigskin, the people I was with were no stick in the muds, we really got into it," said senior Lisa Hellyer.

(1) Preparing to leave the Prom are couples Venus Bender and Tony Haworth with Hobie Schultz and Micki Martin. (2) Eric Holden and Lisa Hellyer attend a pre-dance dinner. (3) Mike Mee plays chef at a dinner party, and even amazes himself at what is possible. (4) Couples express themselves with different moves to the sounds of "Lights Out." (5) Mitch Lawrie and date talk with other couples at the annual Pigskin Prom.

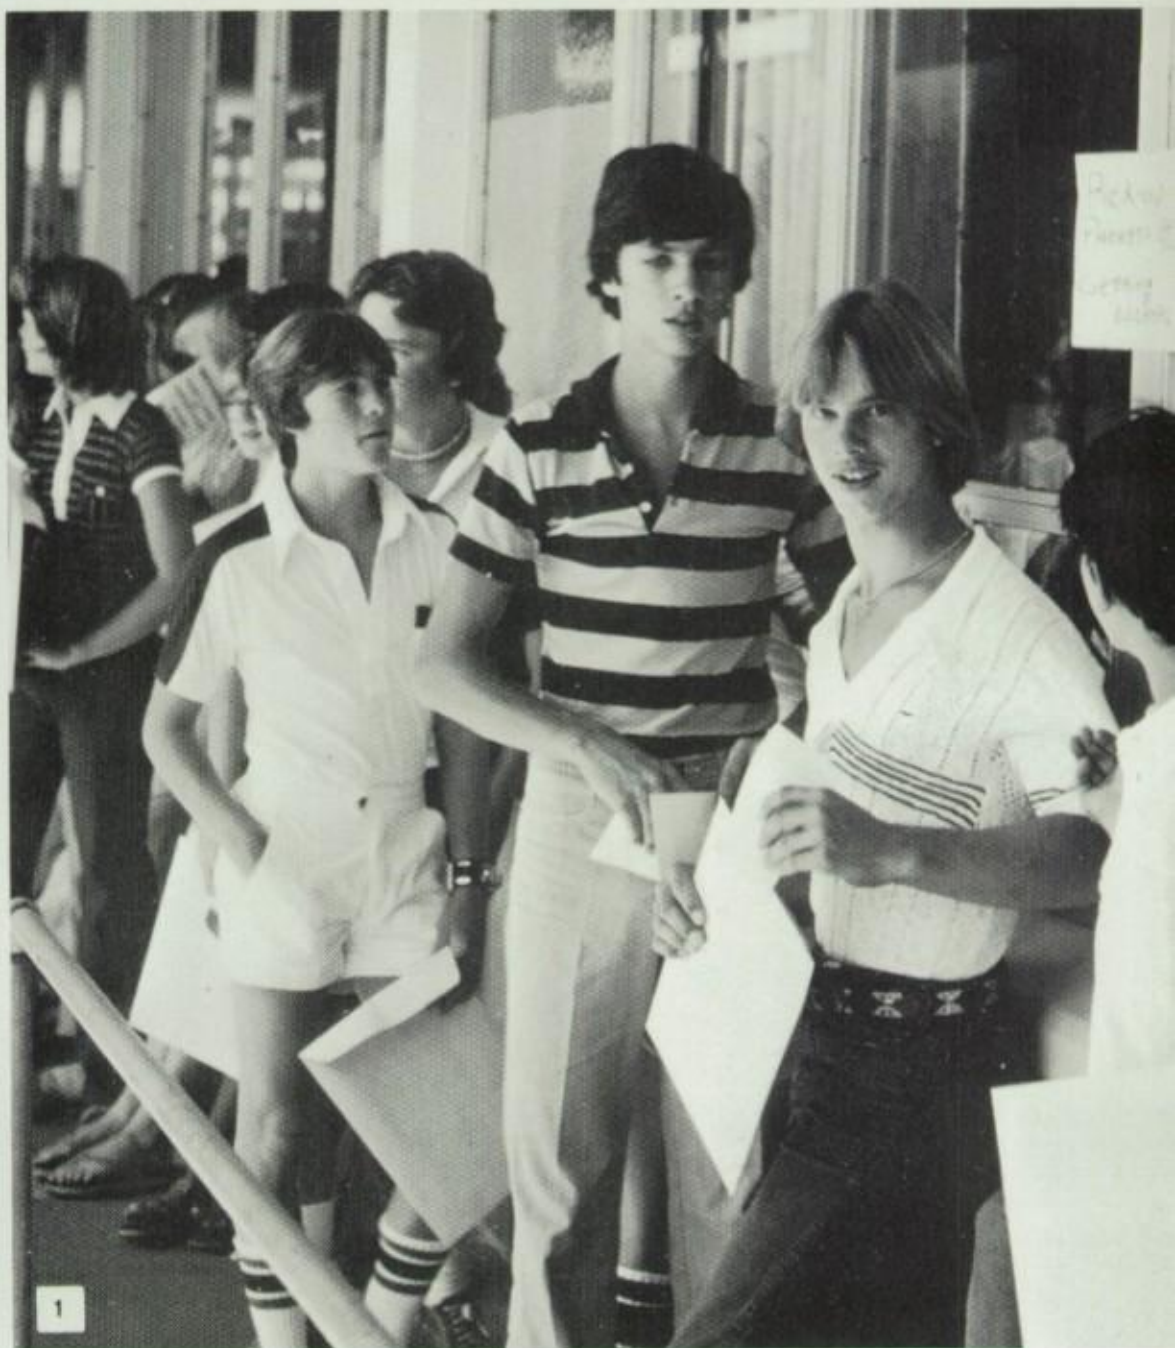

fall & winter

A teachers' contract dispute caused school to start a week late. Freshmen class elections were held in September to fill the empty student assembly seats.

The Grape Festival offered students the chance to get together for an adventurous evening of braving the carnival rides and junk food.

Many students joined in on the fun of Halloween dress-up day and were judged during both lunches. In November, students enjoyed Victory Week. Anxiously students awaited Christmas vacation and joined in the spirit of school activities.

Rallies, football, and basketball games filled many students free time during the winter and fall months.

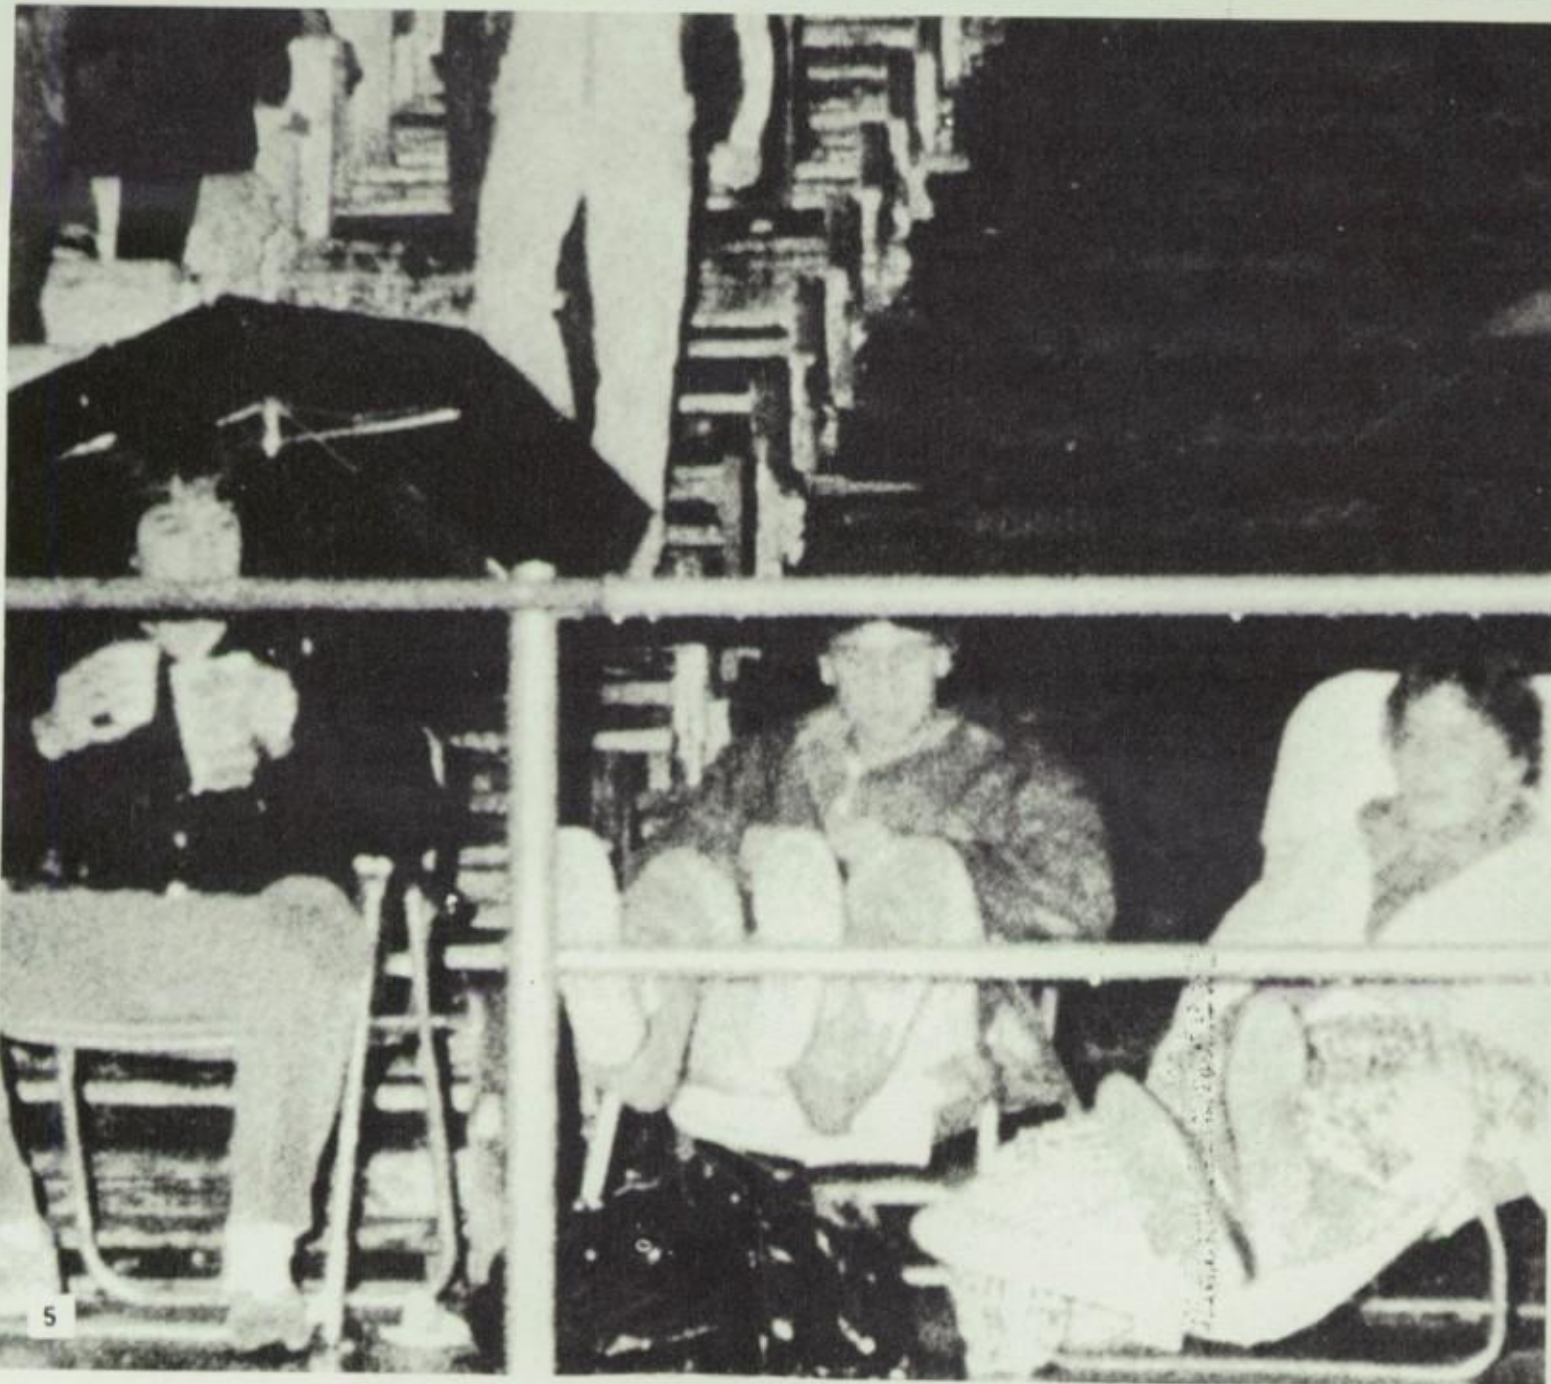

(1) Freshmen wait in line to be issued their locker. (2) An aerial view of the Grape Festival. (3) Mr. Joe Neff talks about the Cross Country team during a rally. (4) Maryann Woods, Dea-ette Sandmler, and Lori Liebelt decorate the sophomore hall during Victory Week. (5) Senior Lori Brown obeys the whims of her freshman owner Paul Galindo.

(1) Lodi graduate, Bettina Naylor reigns over the 1979 Grape Festival. (2) David Stennick makes a casual landing. (3) Wilfred Hetzel gives an amazing basketball performance during an assembly. (4) A clown views the Grape Festival Parade. (5) Lynn Brightwell, Eric Walton, and Troy Scheldeman watch the Lodi-Tokay football game. (6) The Drill team marches in the Grape Festival Parade.

400 couples go to Sweetheart Prom

Couples were brought together at this year's Sweetheart Formal on January 19. Sunflower was the featured band that gave an outstanding performance.

The dance, sponsored by the Junior Women's Club, had an excellent turnout of about 400 couples. Some students felt the dance should have been scheduled closer to Valentine's Day, which would have provided the night with more atmosphere.

Refreshments and favors, made up of ribbons and suckers were offered to Sweetheart couples of the evening. "For my last Sweetheart Prom I'm really glad I went, I had an excellent time," said senior Lori Brown.

(1) Bobby Durham and Patty Taormina wait to have their Prom pictures taken. (2) Sweetheart Prom couples talk before going on to the dance floor. (3) Sunflower provides the tunes at the Sweetheart Prom. (4) Sweethearts Darbie Johnson and Randy Addington capture a private moment.

Spring

Spirit Week was one of this year's fun-filled activities. Some of the highlights of this week were "The Ugly Teacher Contest", the three legged race, and many other activities.

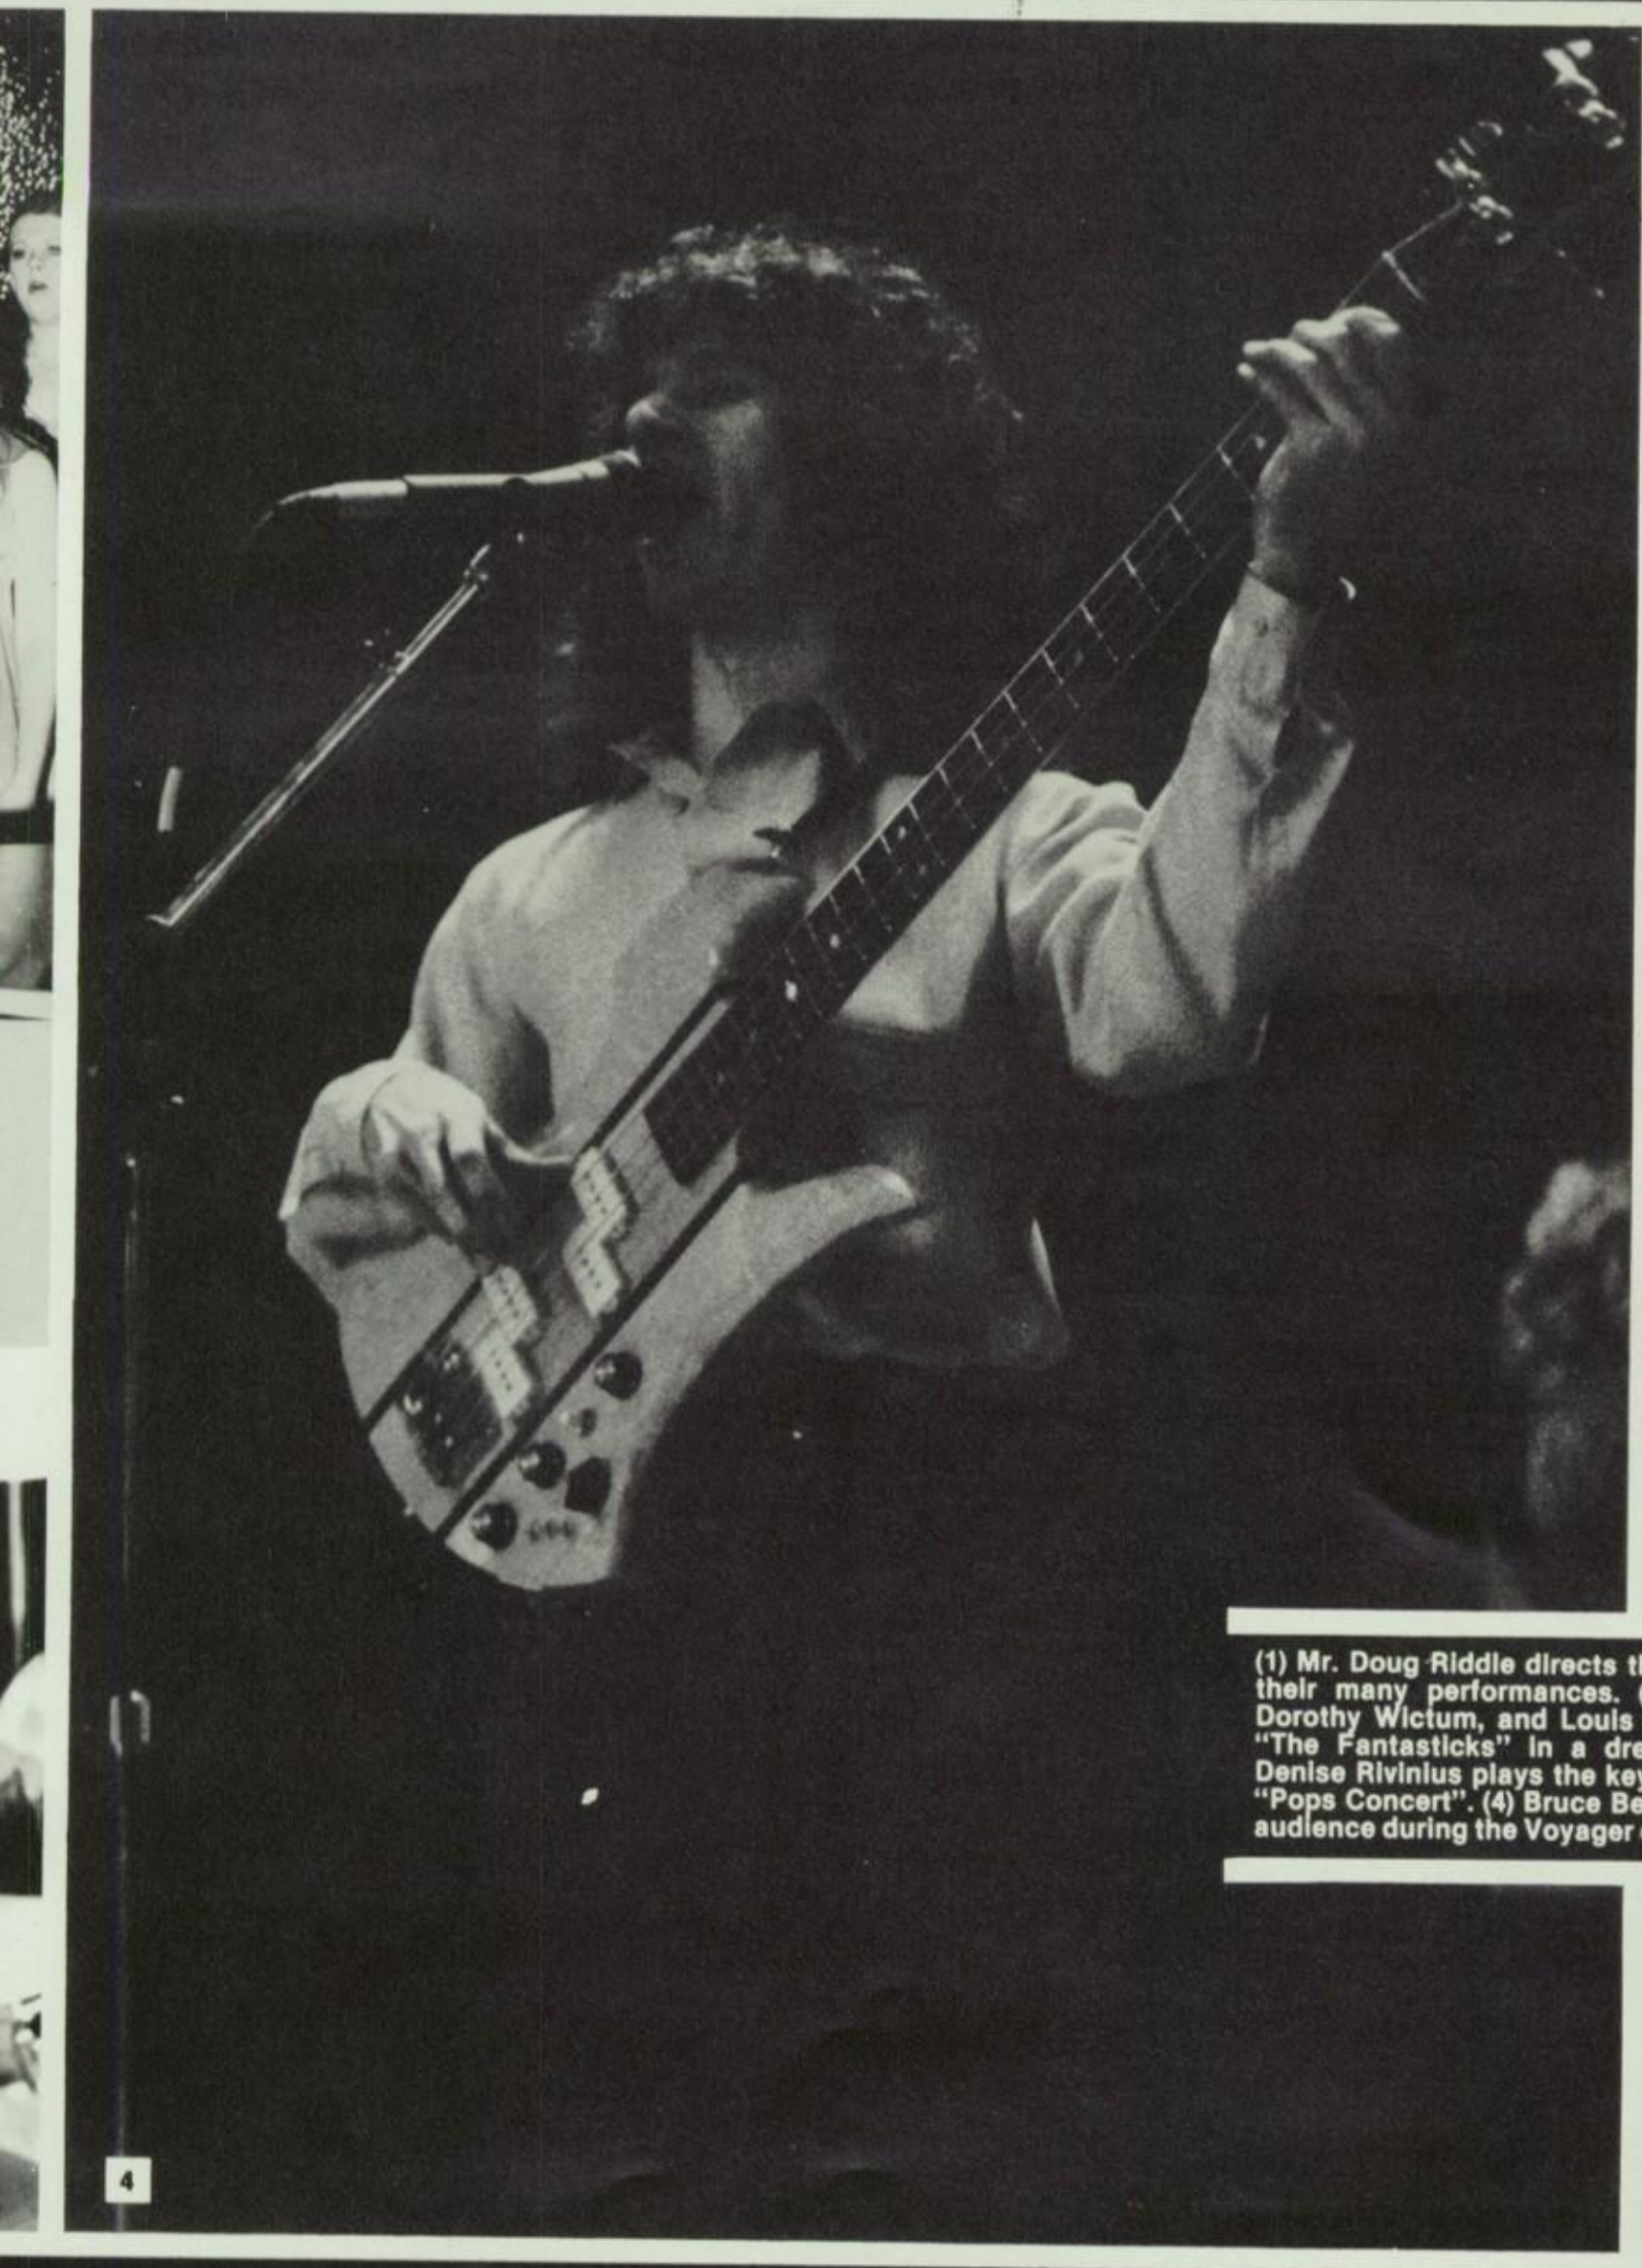

Voyager, a local band, came to Lodi High's campus to spark enthusiasm for their concert on the following evening. The concert gave students the chance to experience live rock and roll without leaving town.

The annual basketball rivalry between Lodi and Tokay was highlighted by the two drill teams performing together. The routine warmed the hearts of everyone despite the disappointing loss.

Lunchtime activities varied from volleyball to just relaxing in the warm sun. The Lodi High Band put on a "Pops Concert" for the enjoyment of everybody.

As summer approached students became anxious for their long awaited vacation. The last spring activities included the elections, spirit-leader try-outs, the awards assembly, and finally the climactic graduation.

(1) Mr. Doug Riddle directs the choir in one of their many performances. (2) Wayne Head, Dorothy Wictum, and Louis Ellis practice for "The Fantasticks" in a dress rehearsal. (3) Denise Rivinius plays the keyboard during the "Pops Concert". (4) Bruce Beck serenades the audience during the Voyager concert.

(1) Kevin Dyer sets the ball for a spike, while Jeff Relawig and Kevin Suess look on. (2) Michelle Laurente and Lori Stanley challenge Laura Easter and Carmen Rice in the three-legged race during Spirit Week. (3) Paige Perrin and Richard Roe enjoy the warm weather by eating in the courtyard. (4) The Lodi and Tokay Drill teams perform together during the Lodi-Tokay game. (5) Wendy Williams and Greg Jackson laugh at the antics of one of their friends during their class break.

'Hillbilly' dance a 'scroungy' time

The popular Hillbilly Hoedown returned this year for the first time in four years. The dance was held at the Tokay gym, and it was requested that no shoes be worn inside, which added a real "Hillbilly" atmosphere.

The band for the evening was Magic, who caused plenty of stomping and romping around the dance floor.

"It was a lot of fun because we got to dress scroungy, which made for a really relaxing evening," said Jill Mettler. Lori Brown said, "It was great that this dance was brought back, seeing people dressed up like hillbillies was really funny."

The Hillbilly Hoedown was held March 29, and was sponsored by the Jr. Women's Club.

(1) Michelle Laurente, Ronnie Gritsch, Julie Diederich, and Marty Fortler relax before going to the Hillbilly Hoedown. (2) Sharon Phelps and Scott Laurente enjoy a quiet moment. (3) Brenda West and Lisa Morales model their Hillbilly outfits. (4) Ronnie Gritsch and Jill Mettler laugh at their dinner conversation. (5) Curt Gillespie and Lori Brown prepare to leave for the dance. (6) Mike Mee and Shari Prickett eagerly anticipate the dance.

Dancers gather in the Dance Club

"I love it," said Mrs. Gail Sauro when asked if she liked being the Dance Club adviser. Some of her students have gone on to become dance majors, and it's like a dream come true for her.

The only qualification for Dance Club is that you are enrolled in a dance class. The club's chief choreographer is Julie Yarborough and the treasurer is Kari Guthrie.

The lack of time to practice was a problem this year, but the group was very experienced and so it had little effect.

Most of the performances were held at the Senior Elementary school, including "Dance the Night Away," and "The Creative Arts Variety Show".

(1) Barbara Zimmerman practices her dance routine before presenting it to Mrs. Sauro. (2) Lola Barba expresses her emotions through dance. (3) Janie Elizondo and Anna Barraza watch intently as a member dances a routine. (4) During practice, Dan Lerma and Lola Barba show their routine. (5) Anna Barraza gets ready to start her dance. (6) Leigh Mitchell and Jana Pinkerton chat while waiting to dance.

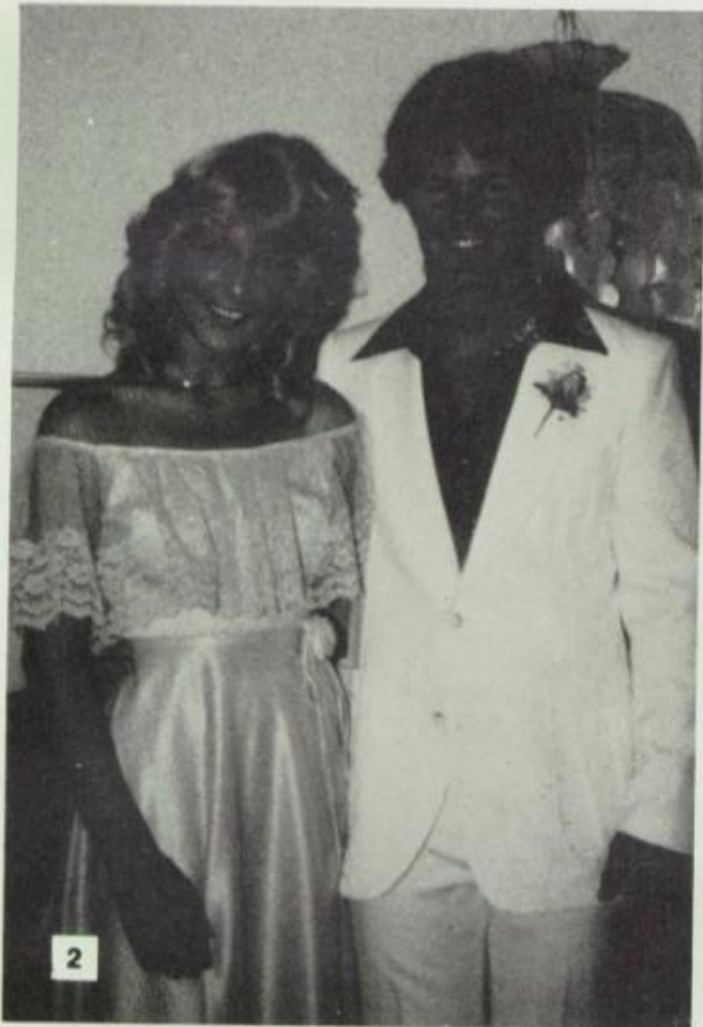

Prom provides romantic evening

April 19th became the most romantic evening of the year as the date of the Junior - Senior Prom. Sunflower provided the music which all enjoyed.

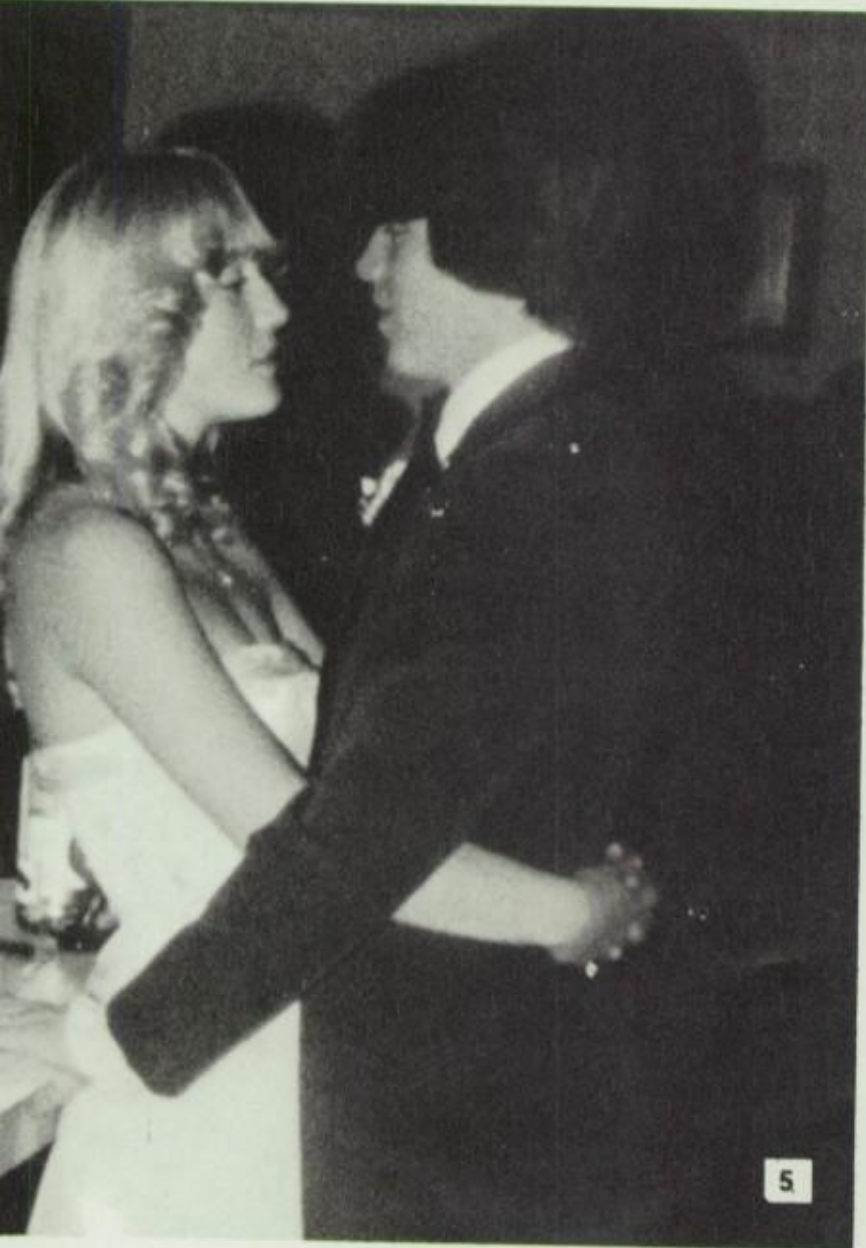

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of King Vince Andres and Queen Brenda Bechthold, who were all smiles as their names were announced.

The Prom was sponsored by the Junior class under the direction of Junior class President Lily Wong. Bids, favors, and decorations were the final touch made by the Junior class.

(1) Andrea Grotheer and Bryon Kauffroath dance to the sounds of Sunflower. (2) Lori Brown and Blaine Tvedt say their goodbyes as they prepare to leave for the Prom. (3) Shari Prickett and Herb Meyers share a laugh before the Prom. (4) Todd Mallory and Chris Dwyer enjoy a pre-dance barbecue. (5) Deanna Powers and Larry Woehl share a romantic moment. (6) Brenda Bechthold and Vince Andres reign over the Prom as King and Queen.

SYNTHESIZED

SA's goal is to beautify school

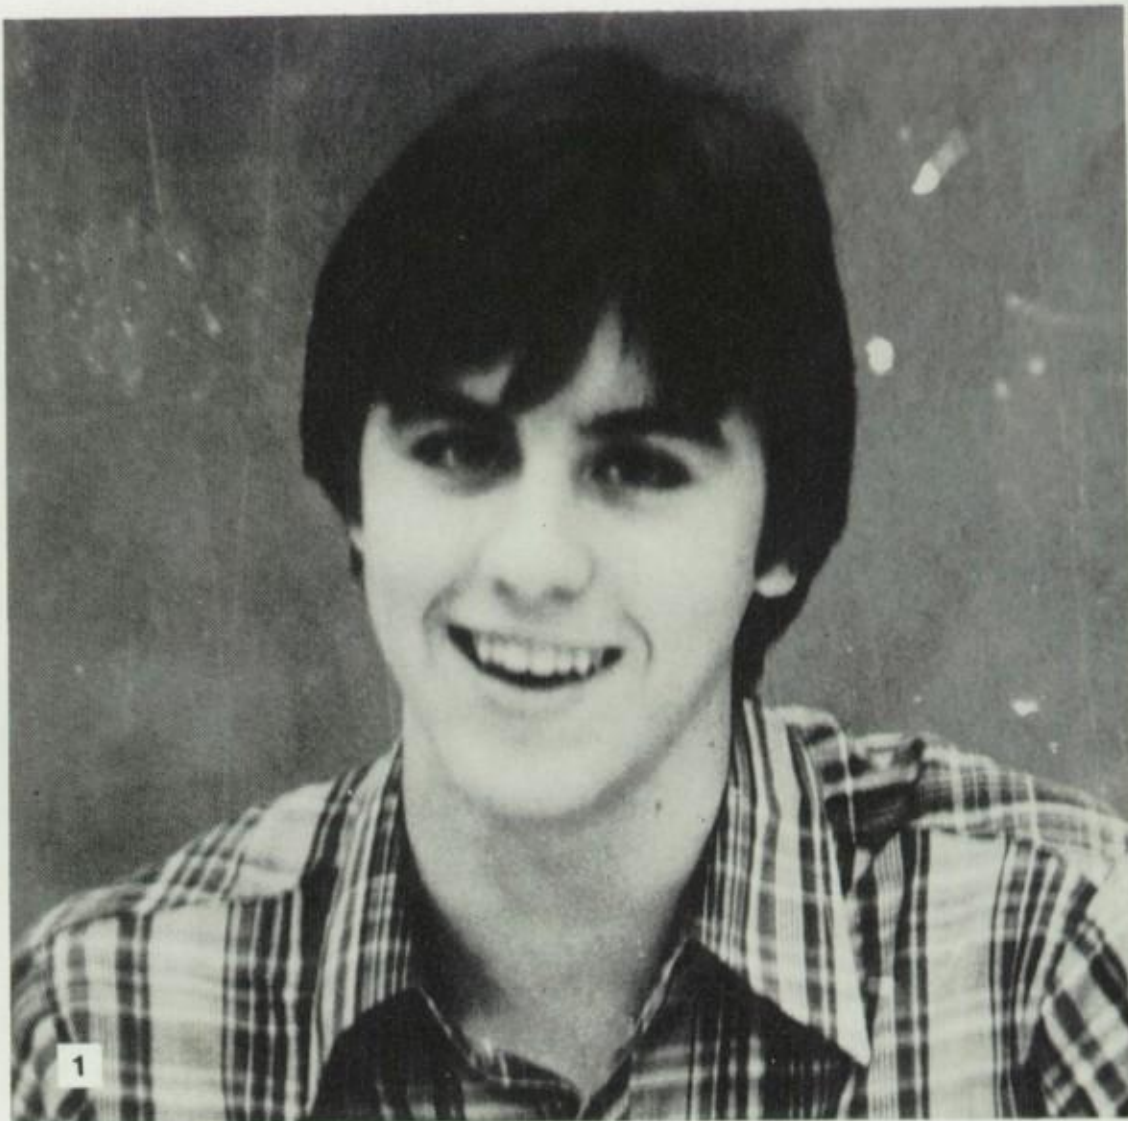

The Student Assembly worked on many campus beautification projects during the year and also concentrated on bettering the relationship between the student government and minority students.

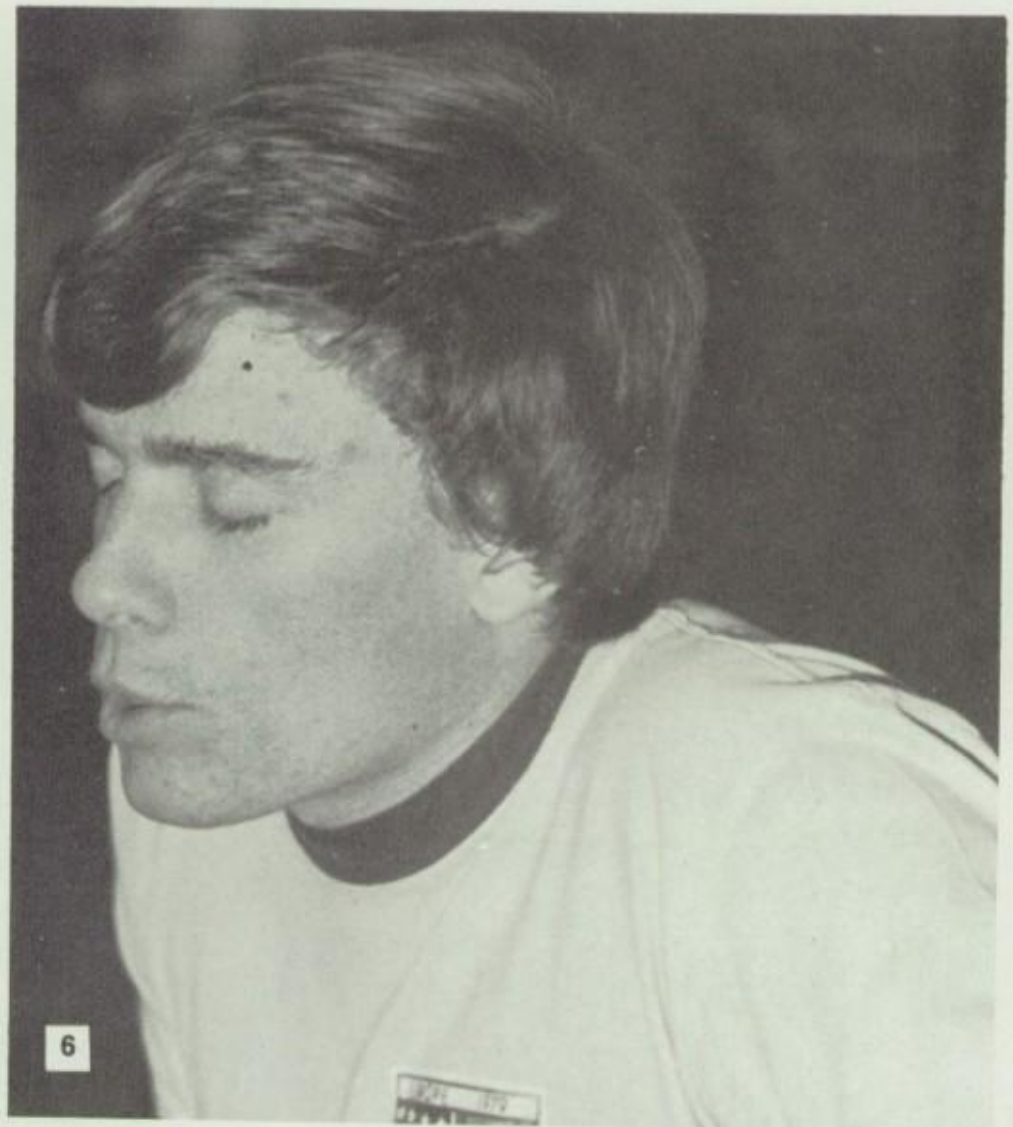

Several of their activities were fund raisers due to the budget cut in the wake of Prop. 13. "Pride Week" was designed to promote a litter free campus and was termed an overwhelming success.

The Ways and Means Committee, headed by Ed Kawamura, spent the first semester planning the year's budget, and working on individual projects.

The Education Committee was led by Jim Roe and investigated and researched all legislation that dealt with education and programming.

Ed Stewart headed the Administration Committee which worked with all legislation which pertained to the administration.

ASB represents student opinion

"We've been working this year to improve the school and represent the students the best we can," said ASB President Mike Bingham.

Bingham's cabinet members were: Vince Andres, vice-president; Kevin DeJong, attorney general; Mike Mee, treasurer; Chris Dwyer and Carrie Workman, executive secretaries; Janis George, commissioner of rallies; Mike Oster, commissioner of elections; Lily Wong and Nora Motoyama, commissioners of publicity; and Julie Yarborough, commissioner of public information.

Headed by Vince Andres, the Social Activities Board consisted of Brenda Bechthold, Martin Fortier, and Carmen Rice.

Student government also finished the school's marquee which had been left unfinished by the preceding years Student Assembly.

"People think that it's an easy class, but you really have to work hard," stated Glee Club member Pat Kelly, and work hard is just what they did. Director Doug Riddle worked hard with the kids to produce four great concerts.

Another Glee Club member, Colleen Straub, said, "People expect a lot from us, so we try to make it perfect."

Treble Clef had a very prosperous year, with "Mandy" being a real crowd favorite. Treble Clef member Leslie Kamrar said, "It was hard work and a lot of practice, but it was worth it." Junior Karen Borchardt, another Treble Clef member said, "It was great, all the performances showed our efforts."

Working well together like one big family, Singers was recognized as one of the finer groups in San Joaquin County. They received numerous invitations to appear throughout the county.

All choral groups participated in selling candy and jewelry to raise money to go to CMEA (California Music Educators Association) and to buy a new sound system.

This year, yet another group of talented young vocalists, the Trubadors, was introduced. The boys worked well together, and had a fun year, learning and laughing.

Embers provides years memories

Editor Julie Berebitsky led a staff of eleven in completing this years book. The staff overcame its initial inexperience through hard work and the expert leadership of adviser Chris Fotheringham.

The inexperienced staff quickly learned the arts of drawing layouts and cropping pictures to provide Lodi High with an accurate and pleasing account of the year. "Hopefully this yearbook captured the ideas and feelings of the year and will serve as a realistic memory of their expression," said Julie Berebitsky.

The small staff had some trouble in meeting deadlines, but were able to overcome the problem with their persistence. First year member Kim O'Brion said, "It was fun. There were many deadlines to meet but they were met."

Conflicting issues covered in Flame

This year the FLAME tackled such controversial issues as Lodi's unsafe railroad crossings and the changing attitudes towards homosexuality. The Gallop award winning paper continued in its winning ways by the objective coverage of these and other stories, providing the students of Lodi High with valuable information.

The paper was developed and designed by a newspaper staff of about 30 people under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Tammy Thomas, Feature Editor Lisa Meyers, Sports Editor Shelley Knecht, and adviser Chris Fotheringham. Lori Ziemann served as Business Manager and Denise Seibel was Ad Manager.

A new system of responsibility was developed with Lisa Meyers saying, "This year we had a decentralized staff. Instead of one editor we had four. The whole process ran a lot smoother than in previous years and most everyone was pleased with the finished product."

(1) The FLAME staff was: front; Todd Mallory, Tammy Thomas, Shelley Knecht, back; Lori Ziemann, Sandy Newell, Kelli Rinaudo, Steve Abatangle, Barbara Corey, Pam Bahlke, Corinne Stroh, Troylene Saylor, Linda Parsons, Terri Hardy, Rosie Cuevas, Teri Bagley, Darren Frazier, Carrie McFadden, Barry Stirm, Matt Pudwell, Landle Moser, Mike Berg, Scott Lemmon, Lynn Meyers, Todd Scheideman, not pictured; Lisa Meyers and Julie Berebitsky. Quill and Scroll sponsors party

Quill and Scroll, whose members make up the FLAME and Embers staffs, was once again led under the guidance of adviser, Chris Fotheringham.

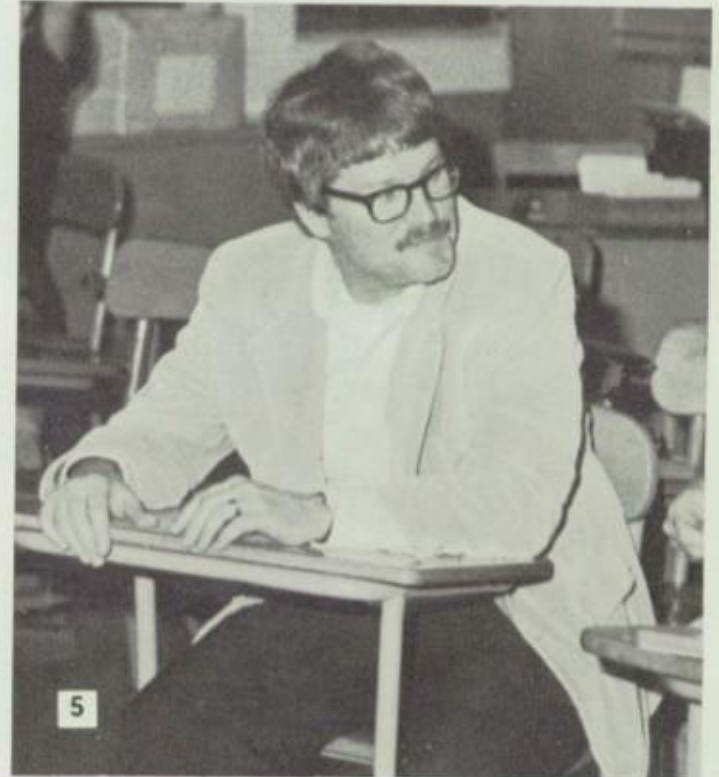

The club organized and sponsored the Annual Signing Party and also raised money through various fund raisers in hope that they could attend the Journalism Education Association's National Convention in Seattle, Washington.

Quill and Scroll officers included president; Lisa Meyers, vice-president; Julie Berebitsky, secretary; Terri Hardy, and treasurer; Teri Bagley.

Elected as officers of Lodi High School's literary club, Pegasus, were: president; Allen Matthews, vice-president; Dave Shintani, commissioner of publications; Sylvia Chevrier, commissioner of records; Dan O'Brien, commissioner of publicity; Cindy Moe, and sargeant at arms; John Sibole. Mr. Jim MacLise served as adviser.

Pegasus attended two plays in San Francisco during the course of the year, "Hay Fever" and "Ah Wilderness". They also published the annual Winged Horse, a book of student works.

"Even though it is becoming a Pegasus tradition to sit in the highest possible balcony, most students still enjoy the trips to San Francisco," said Sylvia Chevrier.

Speech team has successful year

"Even though it was only my first year, I had a very fun time and it taught me to be organized in everything I do," said senior speech team member Ron Handel. This years speech team was the biggest in years making adviser Mr. Tom Montgomery very proud.

The teams main function was participating in tournaments which they spent most of their class time preparing for. The team was invited to many invitational tournaments where they made some outstanding finishes. One such invitational was the Fullerton Invitational Tournament where five members made it into the quarter finals or better. The team raised money to go to the invitionals by selling M&M's and stuffed animals. "We're spending the whole year competing against other schools and working hard," stated this years president Phyllis Nies.

Exciting year for the German club

Christmas caroling, snow skiing, going to San Francisco, and a German retreat to the coast were some of the many activities the German Club had this year. The officers were: Tami Guthmiller, president and Kari Guthrie, vice-president. The German Club had many fund raising activities to send a Lodi High German student to Europe in the summer. "I really think they are a neat bunch of kids, and I enjoy meeting with them out of the classroom," said Mrs. Gisella DeBerry, the club adviser.

Spanish Club has entry in parade

The Spanish Club got off to a slow start this year but began getting involved when they entered a float in the victory week parade. Spanish Club officers were: Michele Finos, president; and David Phillips, vice-president. According to member Dana Hurych, "During the meetings we usually talked about coming activities, if there wasn't any we'd just chat." The club adviser was Mrs. Vicky Wright.

Clubs

This year on campus there were several clubs which were not highly motivated and basically inactive. Despite this a few activities were still held and the year saw the energy of a new club.

Block L is about 50 members strong. The main fund raising activities of the club were managing the concession stands at home basketball games and putting on a student-faculty basketball game.

The California Club took a trip to San Francisco where they visited the Presidio and Fort Point, experiencing California history at its best! The California Club officers were: Tom DeBord, president; Todd O'Connell, vice-president; Michelle Laurente, secretary-treasurer; and adviser Mr. Robert Clemons.

The Chess Club was headed this year by Bryon Ferguson and "around five active members". The club was formed for people who enjoyed getting together to play a game of chess.

The Health Careers Club gathered monthly for a meeting at Lodi Memorial Hospital. They had many special guest speakers come to the meetings throughout the year. "Some members donate 2 to 3 hundred hours of volunteer work," said Mrs. Carol Hanson, club adviser along with Mrs. Barbara Mettler.

A new club, Blob L created some controversy. With advisers Mr. Pat Anthony and Mrs. Joanne Gavin, the club had a float in the homecoming parade and planned a few fund raising events. Mrs. Gavin explains laughingly, "The club is just for fun, they do nothing malicious, its just gentle humour."

NJROTC ended; lack of students

With only 65 students participating in NJROTC this year, it was brought to an end on Jan. 25. "They're (students) scared to join because they don't want to be criticized because of the uniform, marching and some of the stuff we do," said Scott Svitak.

Other reasons for the disbandment include no assistant commander, small classes, and lack of money and space. "Basically its been a hell of a 5 years. A good program left strenuous economic problems within the district. We could have flown in a few years, but we won't get the opportunity," said Chief L.J. Murphy.

During the first semester students studied naval history, oceanography, celestial navigation and naval plotting. Activities for the semester included marching in the Grape Festival parade and participating in "Founders Day" in Sacramento.

CSF participants enjoy activities

5% of the student body joined the prestigious California Scholarship Federation. Members attended the organization's annual Honor Day, where they went on a pre-arranged trip and enjoyed a day off from school.

President Janis George, kept a handle on CSF despite her busy athletic and activity schedule. According to member Stacy Markel, "I like CSF because it's a worthwhile club and it doesn't take up a lot of time."

Exciting year for Mecha members

"Our biggest achievement was improving our communication with student government and the SAB," said Mecha's second year adviser, Rosa Garcia. ASB President Mike Bingham played a big part in breaking the communication barrier by attending meetings and getting Mecha officers involved in more school activities.

Parents of Mecha club members formed the Mexican-American Student Athletes Club in order to raise money for Mexican-American athletes and to sponsor their annual Mecha Graduation Dance.

The club went to Marriotts Great America early in the school year and also traveled to Sacramento State University to talk with a Mexican-American club in February. Money for the club was raised through a bake sale, car wash, and a dinner.

FFA has active and exciting year

The Future Farmers of America offered a "wonderful experience for people who live on a farm," said FFA president Michelle Felton.

Mr. Jeff Thompson, in his first year at LHS, and Mr. Bob Phelps were the advisers. Besides president Michelle Felton, the officers included: Leslie Holmes, vice-president and FFA Sweetheart; Michele Wakeman, secretary; Kyle Knoll, treasurer; Bill Stokes, sentinel; and Rob Kammerer, representative.

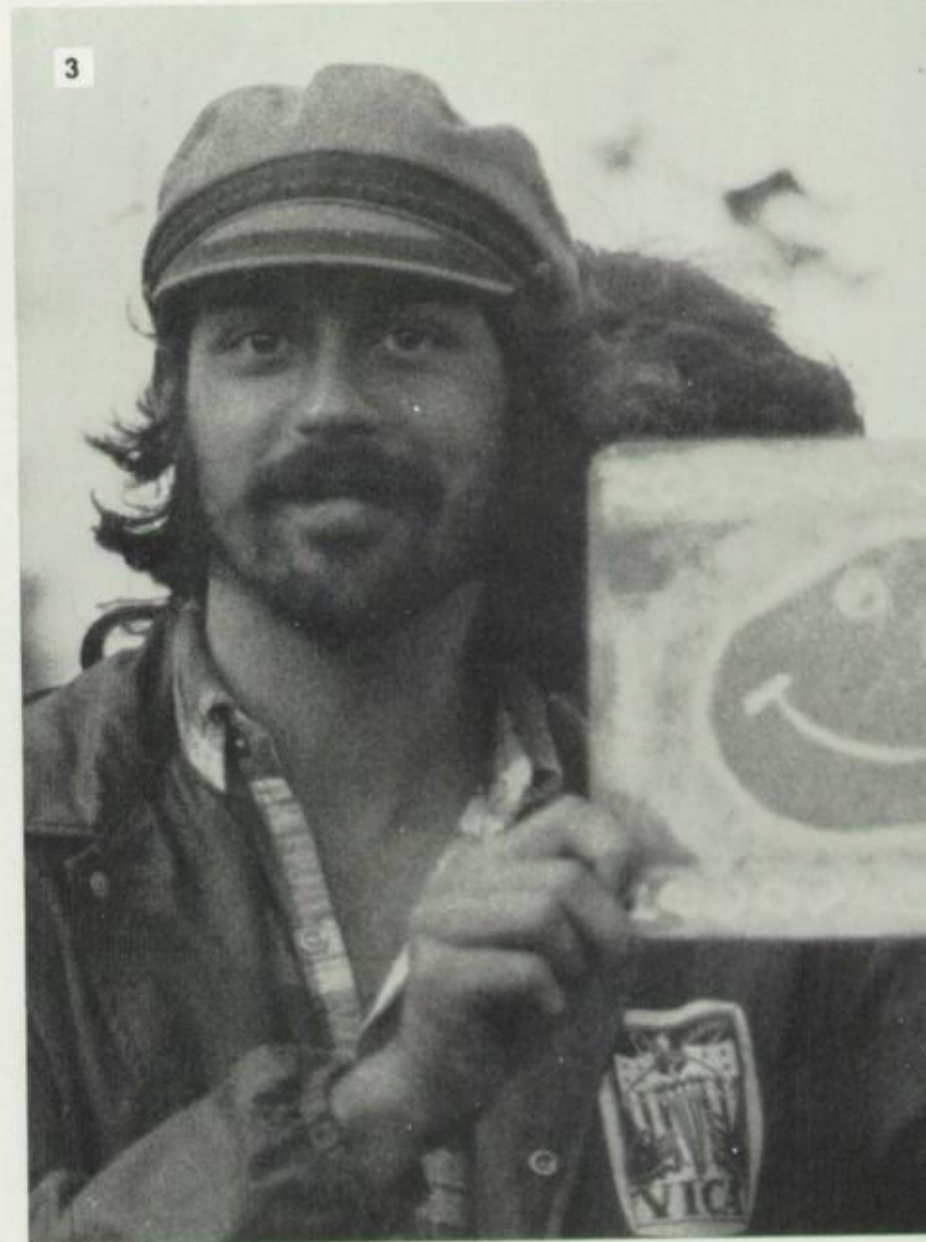

The activities for the year ranged from winemaking in school to sharing with the people at VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) the skills on running a meeting. The club also regularly attended live-stock shows and constructed a float for the homecoming parade.

(1) Vicky Exelby, Stephanie Perrin, and Jagpal Singh attend one of the monthly meetings. (2) Mr. Bob Phelps, one of FFA's advisers, presides over a meeting. VICA raises funds for worthy causes

This years VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) club was unique in many ways. Besides being the only VICA establishment in San Joaquin county, it was also unique in the fact that it was the only club to have handicapped members participate in competition.

VICA doubled its membership this year and is striving to continue this upward trend. The club raised $6,000 in two days at the Grape Festival last year and now has in its treasury close to $12,000.

VICA offers training in many fields, including such diverse interests as auto drafting, nursing and photography. The club is also heavily involved in fund raising events. Many projects have been financed by the club, including painting the Career Center, sending the Lodi High speech team to competition, and taking some patients at Delta Convalescent Home to a Lodi Dodgers game. This years VICA regional competition was in Merced, while the state competition was in Los Angeles and the national competition in Atlanta, Georgia.

New excitement comes to Drama

"I love it!" said first year drama teacher Ms. Melinda Rosselli. "I really love teaching here at Lodi High, and the student's are great to work with!" Ms. Rosselli, who also works at Delta College, came to Lodi with great enthusiasm and rejuvenated the drama program.

"Requirements for the Drama Club are a lot different from last year, students must direct and act in a play each semester," said sophomore Elizabeth Shockley, "the club is a lot more organized this year as opposed to last year."

Some of this years outstanding performances were "War of the Worlds," "Day in the Life of a Hollywood Stand in," "The Christmas Mime," "Fantasticks," and the annual Senior Play. In the beginning of the year attendance was down at the performances because they were only put on during late lunch, but students soon caught on. Ms. Rosselli's confidence rubbed off on her students who brought new life to the Drama program.

World events signal

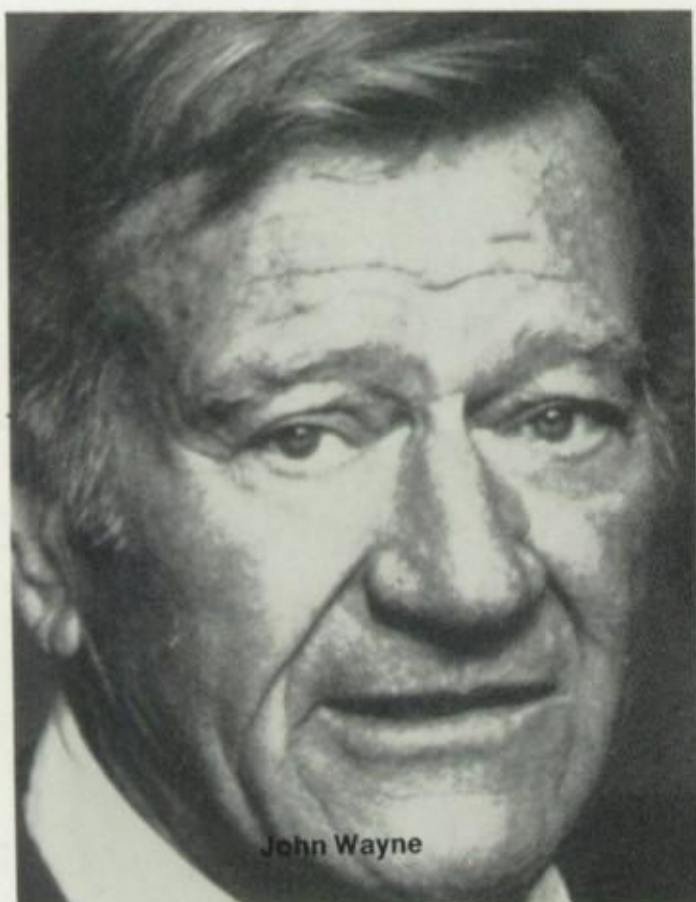

"Tumultuous" is the word which best describes the international scene in the past year. Iran and other third-world countries were amassed in revolution. Focusing on the world energy dilemma, these oil-rich countries began to assert their newfound economic strength into a world of international politics they were not accustomed to. The end result was a degree of instability and seemingly constant terrorist uprisings at U.S. and other foreign embassies around the world. The 50 American hostages held in Tehran for months spurred American unity unseen in over a decade.

The Iranian conflict, along with the Russian invasion of Afghanistan, were the issues which dominated the early presidential campaign. President Jimmy Carter enjoyed early success because of his toughness with Iran and the Russians. However, an inflation rate approaching 20 percent, along with the continuing world crisis, allowed Sen. Edward Kennedy to gain support despite the issue of Chappaquidick and early defeats. On the republican side former President Jerry Ford waited in the background while longshot John Anderson gained support with his liberal views to provide an alternative to conservative front-runner Ronald Reagan and all-purpose candidate George Bush.

As the world situation intensified from a military viewpoint, so did the economic picture. Gold prices escalated to over $800 an ounce encouraging consumers to pawn any trinkets they had. Banks raised their prime interest rates to 18 percent and economists warned of a severe repression and threats of a depression. These were not the problems of the United States alone. It reflected a world-wide economic crisis, primarily blamed on depleting energy resources.

The near meltdown of a nuclear power plant at Three Mile Island, Penn. brought a public outburst against the use of nuclear energy. Rancho Seco's plant was shut down and inspected. The issue was a focal point in national and international affairs.

In the midst of the pragmatilities of foreign relations and immediate domestic concerns, the technological focus was blurred. The "Enterprise" space mission to launch a returnable space vehicle suffered from early failures and lack of funding. But the Pioneer space probe sent back some startling photos of Saturn. In Berkeley a "sperm bank" was formed amidst controversy. This exclusive bank was intended to create a group of "special" persons by offering the sperm of Nobel prize winners to "intelligent" females.

The year was not without its tragedies. In May a DC-10 plunged to the ground immediately after take-off at Chicago's O'Hare Airport killing 273 persons. This prompted a prolonged investigation into air-traffic safety. The uprising at a New Mexico state prison in February left 34 inmates dead after a brutal confrontation between inmates and guards over housing conditions. Severe flooding resulted in death and widespread property damage to homes and agricultural land, as heavy rains hit during the winter in California.

In the entertainment world such movies as "Kramer vs. Kramer" and "All That Jazz" won critical acclaim. The country was inundated with cable television systems, and FM radio started to sound a lot like "Top 40" AM stations as corporate influences co-opted the once underground network. "Charles Angels" and "Three's Company" were the hot programs. Soap operas were expanding to one hour, as were local news broadcasts. The living legend, John Wayne, died. Fred Astaire was remarried at age 80. Bob Hope and George Burns were as active as they ever were.

In sports "incredible" was the word. Incredible wages, incredible upsets and incredible TV coverage. The Pittsburgh Steelers won an unprecedented fourth Super Bowl. The Pittsburgh Pirates dramatically obsconded with a "family" oriented World Series. Salaries soared towards the million-dollar level for such stars as Pete Rose and Bill Walton. The U.S. Olympic Team was upset because of the President's boycott of the summer games in Moscow. But, the U.S. Hockey team upset the Russian team during the winter games, winning the hearts of Americans for their gutty performances which led to a gold medal.

It was a year of upheaval. After a decade of relative reflection, especially following Viet Nam and Watergate, the pressures had built up. The decade of the '80's was approached with a re-evaluation of ideals and direction. This, along with the realities of economic and political difficulties, beckoned a decade of transition.

Local lifestyle reflects

The lifestyle of LHS students remained much the same with the exception that they took on color and variety of passing fads. Music continued to be an influencing factor on high school students. The year saw the decline of the once obsessed disco culture. Disco artists were suddenly not enjoying their celebrated reign over the top 40 charts—a new and exciting style of music had taken over. New Wave, a milder and more sophisticated form of punk rock, captured the fancy of teenage music fans everywhere. Led by such artists as The Talking Heads, Elvis Costello and Joe Jackson, New Wave had replaced disco as the music people most loved to dance to. Rock and roll still remained on top of things, however, with students flocking to the Bay Area to see such acts as Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Styx, Todd Rundgren, Jefferson Starship and Journey.

With Lodi offering little in the way of nightspots and entertainment, students ventured out of town in search of excitement. Whether it be to Stockton to catch the latest movie, the Bay Area to catch their favorite band, or to Santa Cruz to catch some rays, the grass always seemed greener on the other side. But, for those who did stick around, hot tub and jacuzzi parties became a frequent occurrence.

A new hangout was established in the Grand Auto parking lot offering an alternative to the established Pizza Garden crowd. Lodi Lake, once a most popular place to cruise your auto, now saw mostly the faces of past-graduates.

Many members of the student body spent their winter weekends careening down snowy slopes, as skiing remained the favorite sport at LHS. A ski club was established on campus and will most likely remain a permanent fixture.

most national trends

Marijuana, cocaine and hallucinogenics were used by more students than ever before. A Lodi High School FLAME survey conducted in February revealed that over half of the student body had tried marijuana. Drug taking was more openly talked about and there was less of a stigma attached to those who were frequent indulgers. Cocaine was used by the elite who could afford the $110-a-gram price. Movements to ban the sale of paraphernalia to minors instigated controversy between generations.

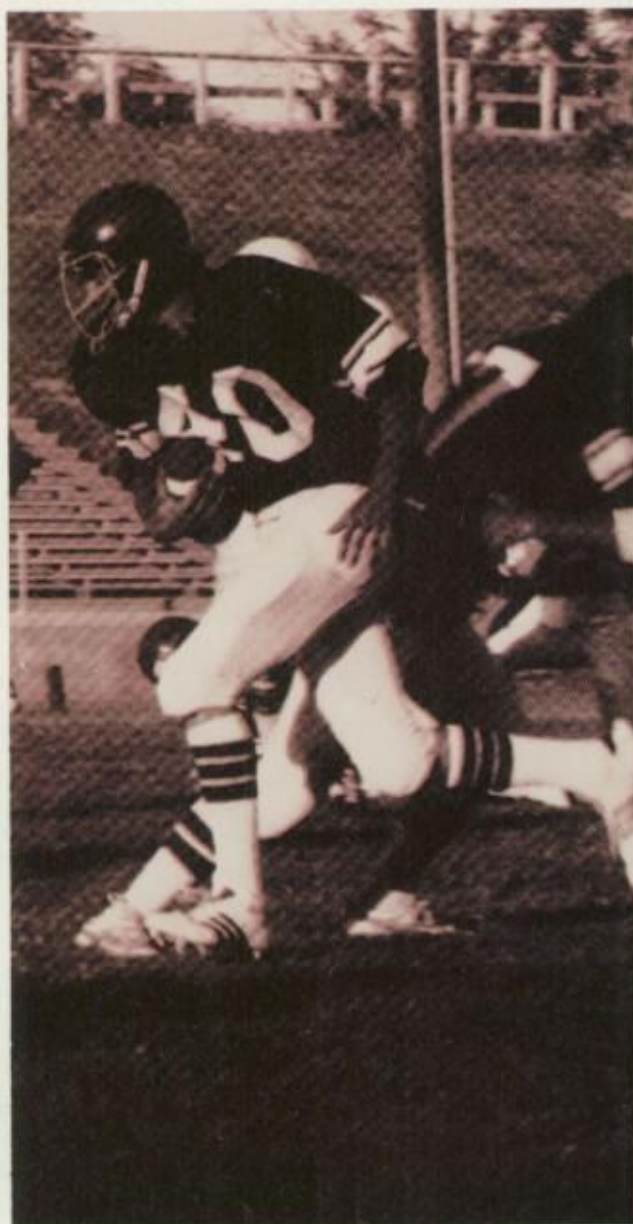

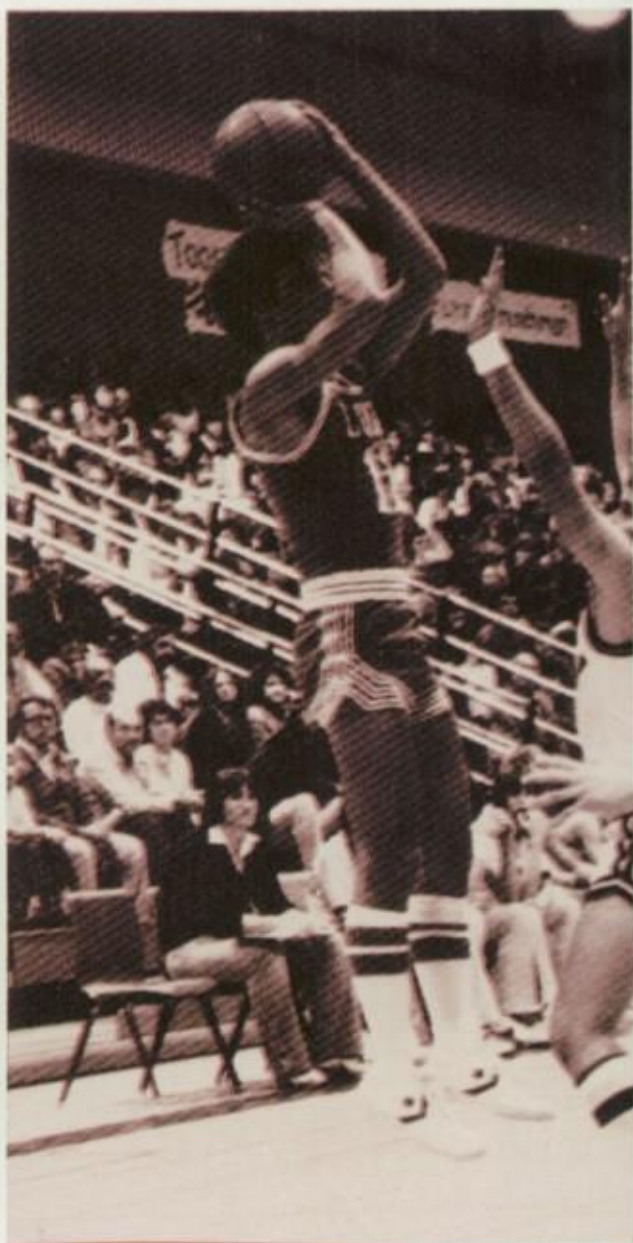

In the motion picture department, Meryl Streep and Alan Alda were hailed as the years' meritorious contributors receiving among other awards, Harvard University's "Hasting Pudding" honor. Francis Ford Coppola's long-awaited "Apocalypse Now" was met with mixed reviews but most agreed it was a flawed masterpiece. The Starship Enterprise landed in theatres across the country "in time for Christmas." Though markedly aged, Captain Kirk, Spock, Bones, and Scotty delighted "trekkies" everywhere.

Bo Derek of "10" fame replaced Farrah Fawcett as the world's most marketable sex symbol in many peoples minds. Derek's braided hair sent scores of women rushing to their mirrors in an attempt to capitalize on its chic popularity.

Baggy pants were the fashion standouts of the year. Coming in every color, shape and texture imaginable, they captured the desire of those same girls who the year before were purchasing french-cut jeans. Blazers and jackets, often with padded shoulders turned a rather casual outfit into a dressy one. Pins shaped from everything from parrots, moons, bananas, and ice cream cones to Mr. Bill, adorned many a lapel and LHS students remained on top of the national trends and fads.

Flames take 7 in winning season

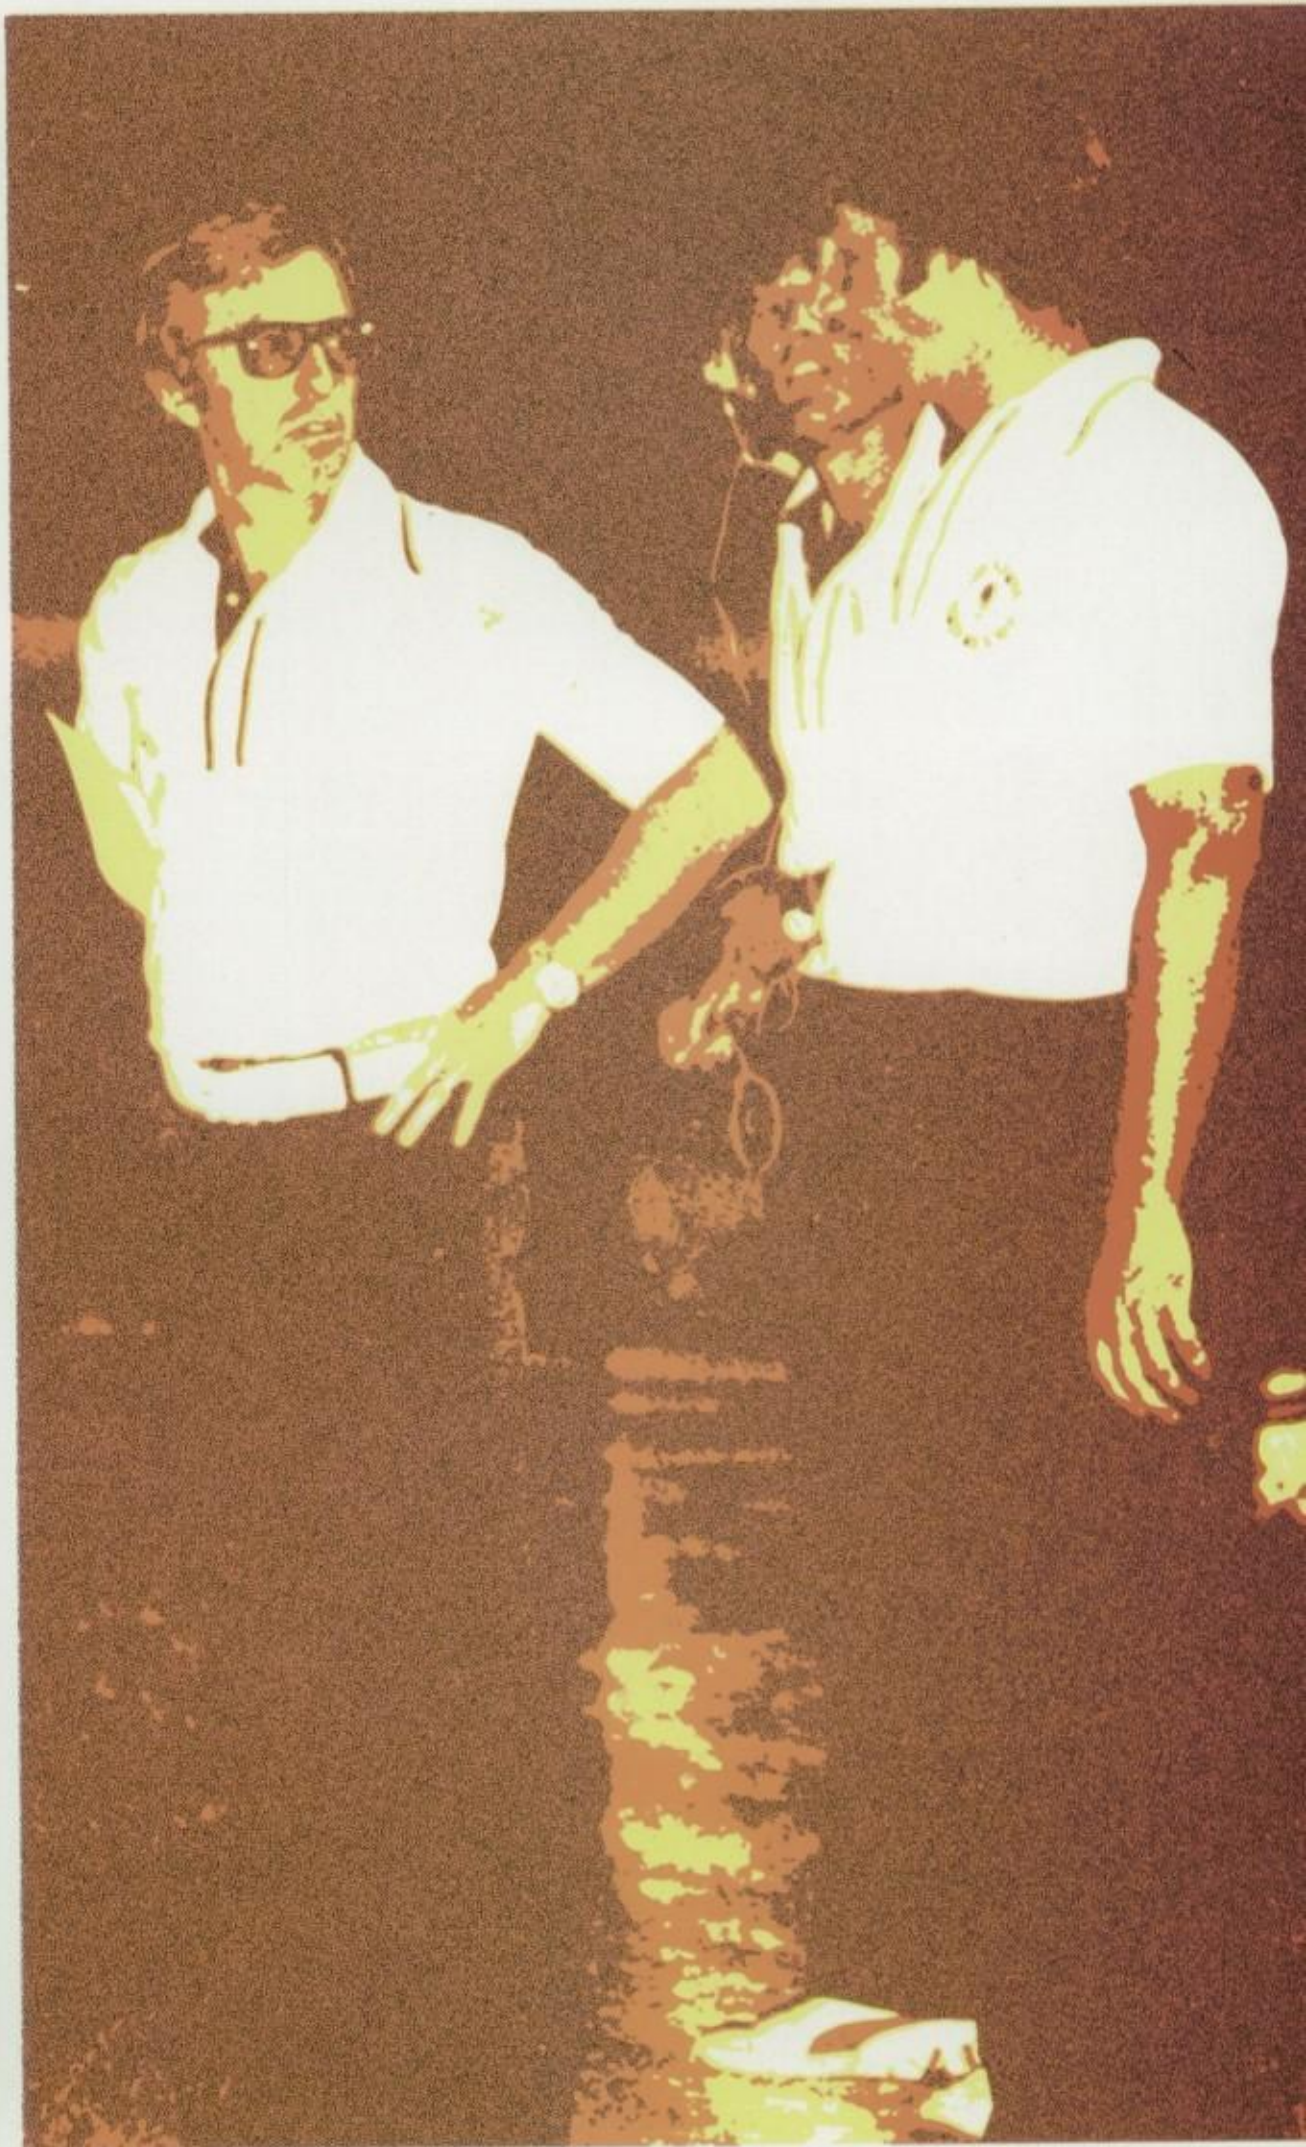

The beginning of the 1979 Varsity football season began with an optimistic attitude with Coach Jim Sowers saying, "If anybody has a weak heart this year towards the team, they better take a vacation to the east, because it is going to be a really exciting football season." And it was. The Flames spirits soared when the team won the first 5 games, but plunged with the loss to Edison.

Lodi's offense was led by Tom Vance and Rick Kauffroath. "School spirit and just the tradition of Lodi lead to the success of the year," said Coach Sowers. Offensive tackle Wes Sibole and tightend, Hobie Schultz made the SJAA first team with numerous Lodi players making the second team or honorable mention.

The successful season came to an end with the defeat of Tokay, 14-7, and Flame spirit burned bright.

Game by Game

THE SEASON OPENER promised a successful season as Lodi defeated the Sacramento Dragons 12-3.

A "REAL GAMBLE" sparked the 8-7 upset over Downey, when the Flames went for the win in the last minute.

A REAL YAWNER followed the first two games as the Flames edged Modesto 2-0 on a last minute safety.

THE UNDEFEATED FLAMES played conservatively against Franklin's "nothing to lose attitude" for a 6-0 win over the Yellowjackets.

THE DECISIVE TD was set up by Lee Anderson's interception and return of 10 yards, while Tom Vance controlled the ground attack with 125 yards in the 7-0 victory over the Rams.

THE WINNING STREAK was halted as the "bigger and stronger" Vikings beat Lodi by the score of 19-7.

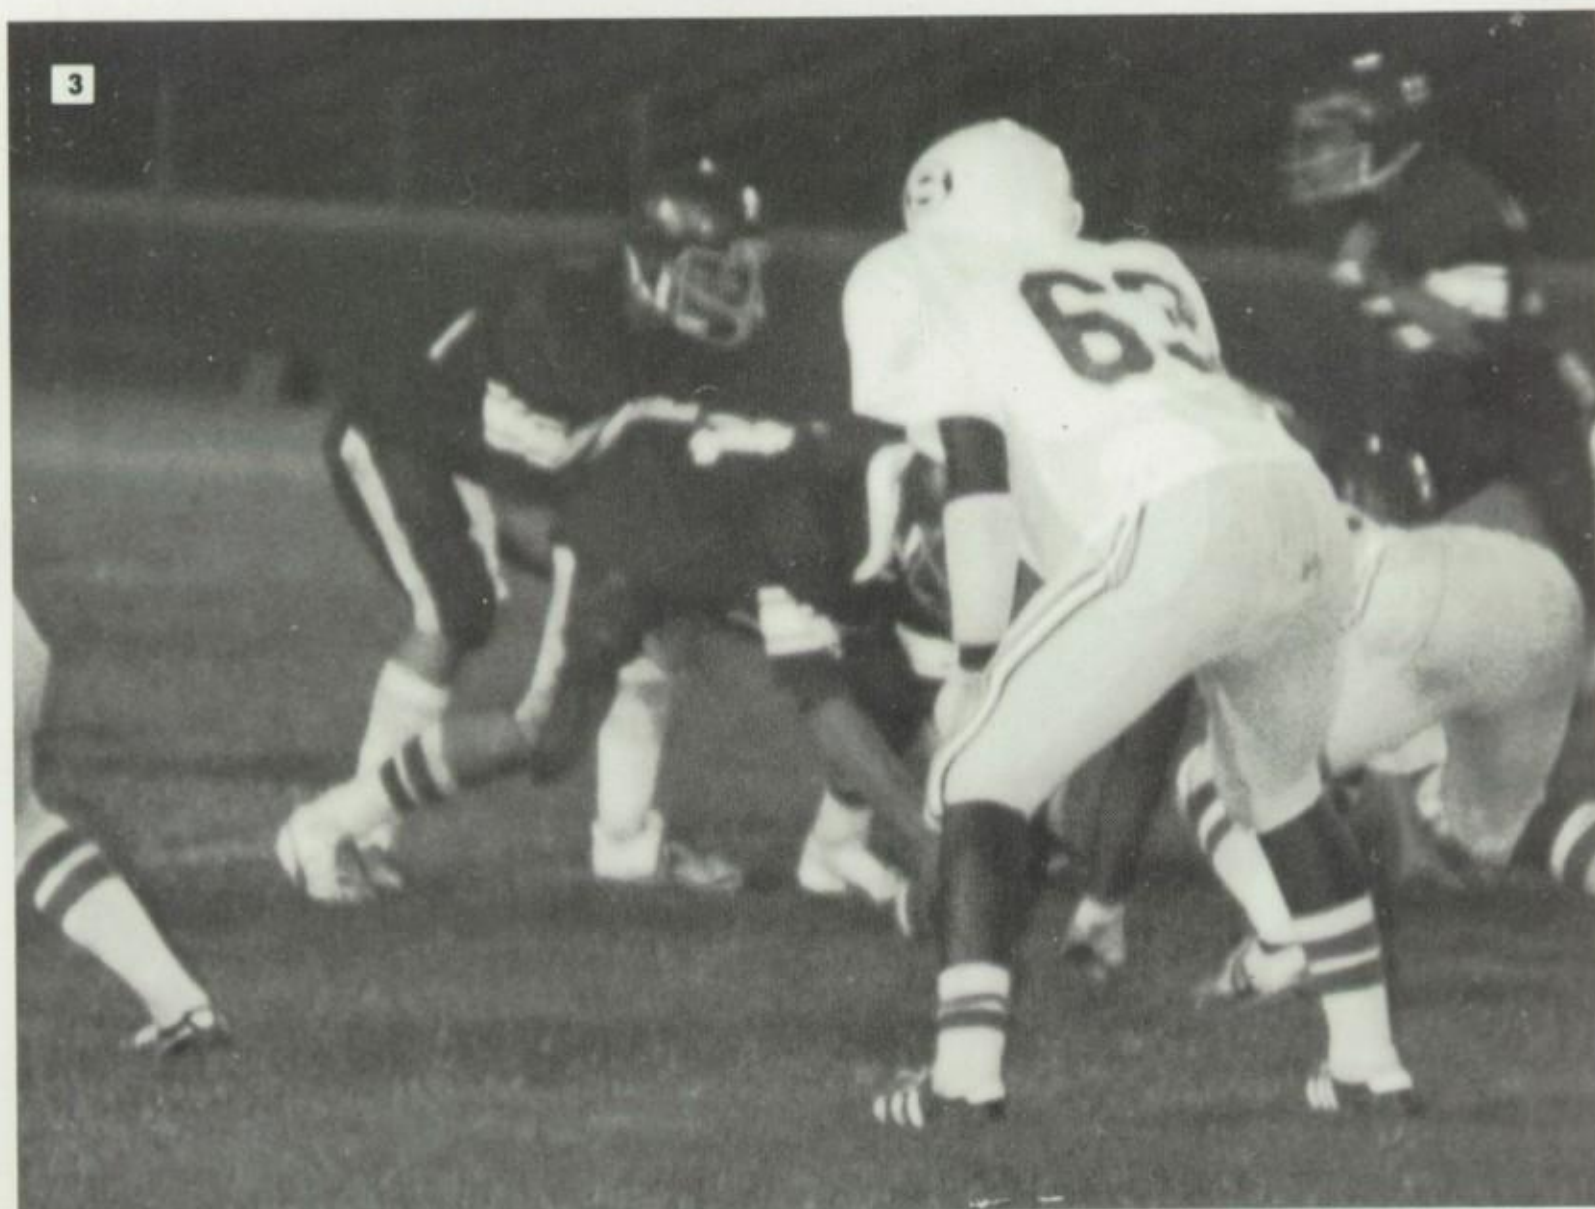

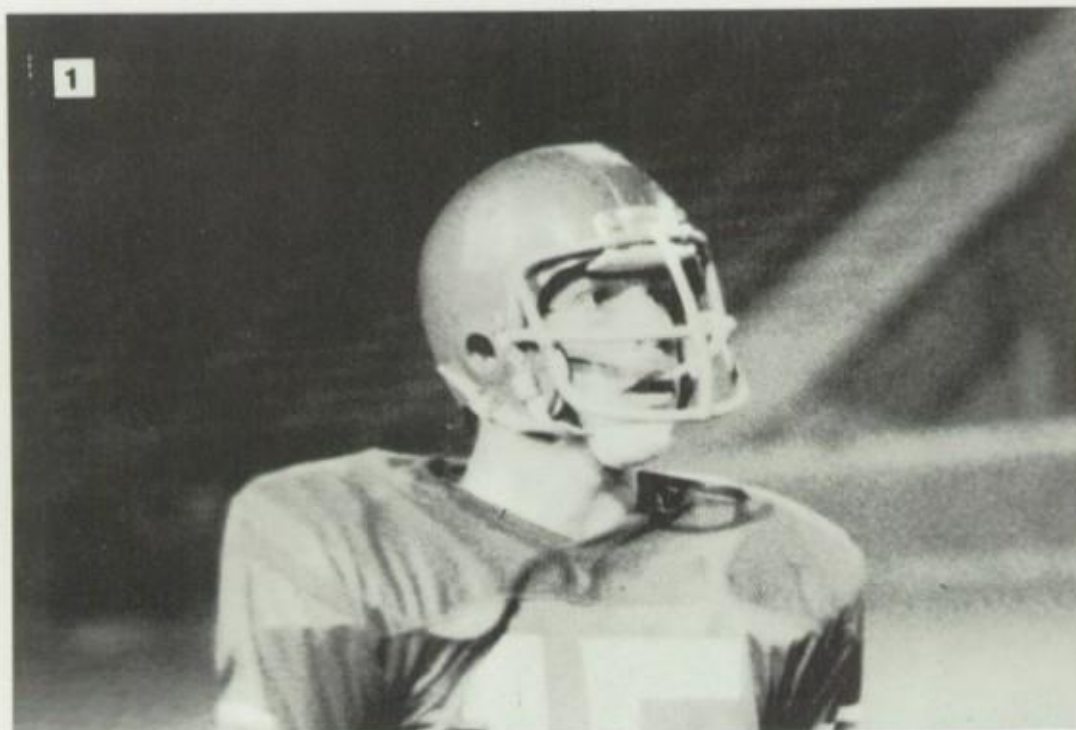

THE OVERMATCHED FLAMES nevertheless gave it their best in a 21-6 loss to Stagg. The Lodi reserves hit hard against the Delta Kings first string.

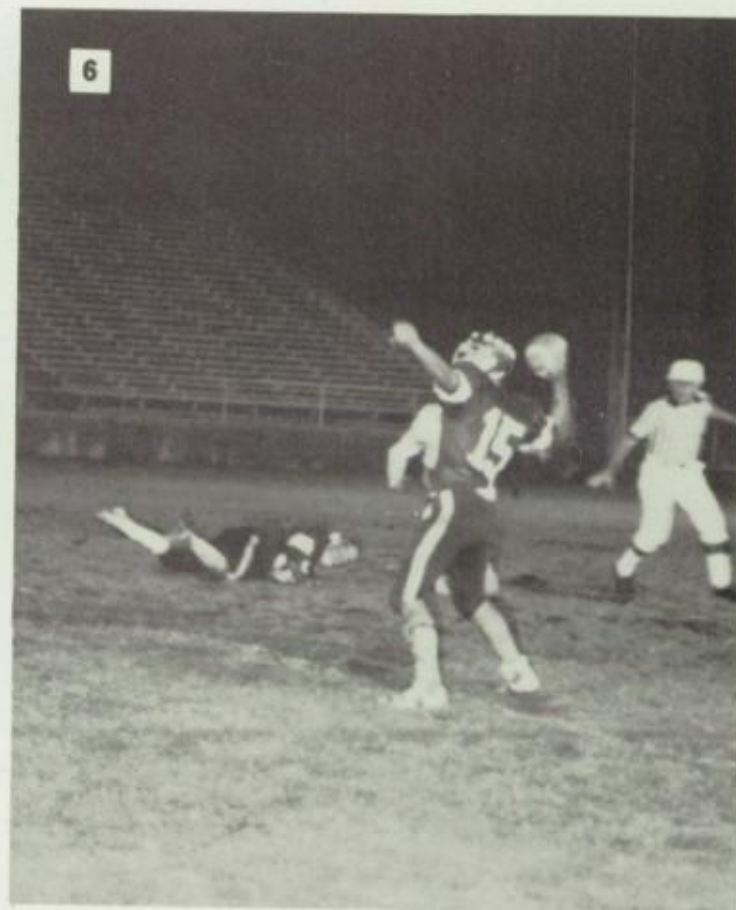

A CLOSE AND tough battle between two even teams resulted in a 7-0 win over Lincoln, Lodi's first victory over the Trojans since 1975.

THE FLAMES WERE extinguished by Tracy in the Homecoming game 42-8, with the Bulldogs piling up the points.

AS THE FINAL SECONDS ticked off the clock Vince Andres made the tackle to stop the Tigers on the last play of the game to preserve the 14-7 win over cross-town rival Tokay.

SJAA win for CC; second in subs

"It was the best year ever for the Lodi High Boy's Cross Country team. They placed first, second, and third in the sub-sections," said seventh year coach Joe Neff.

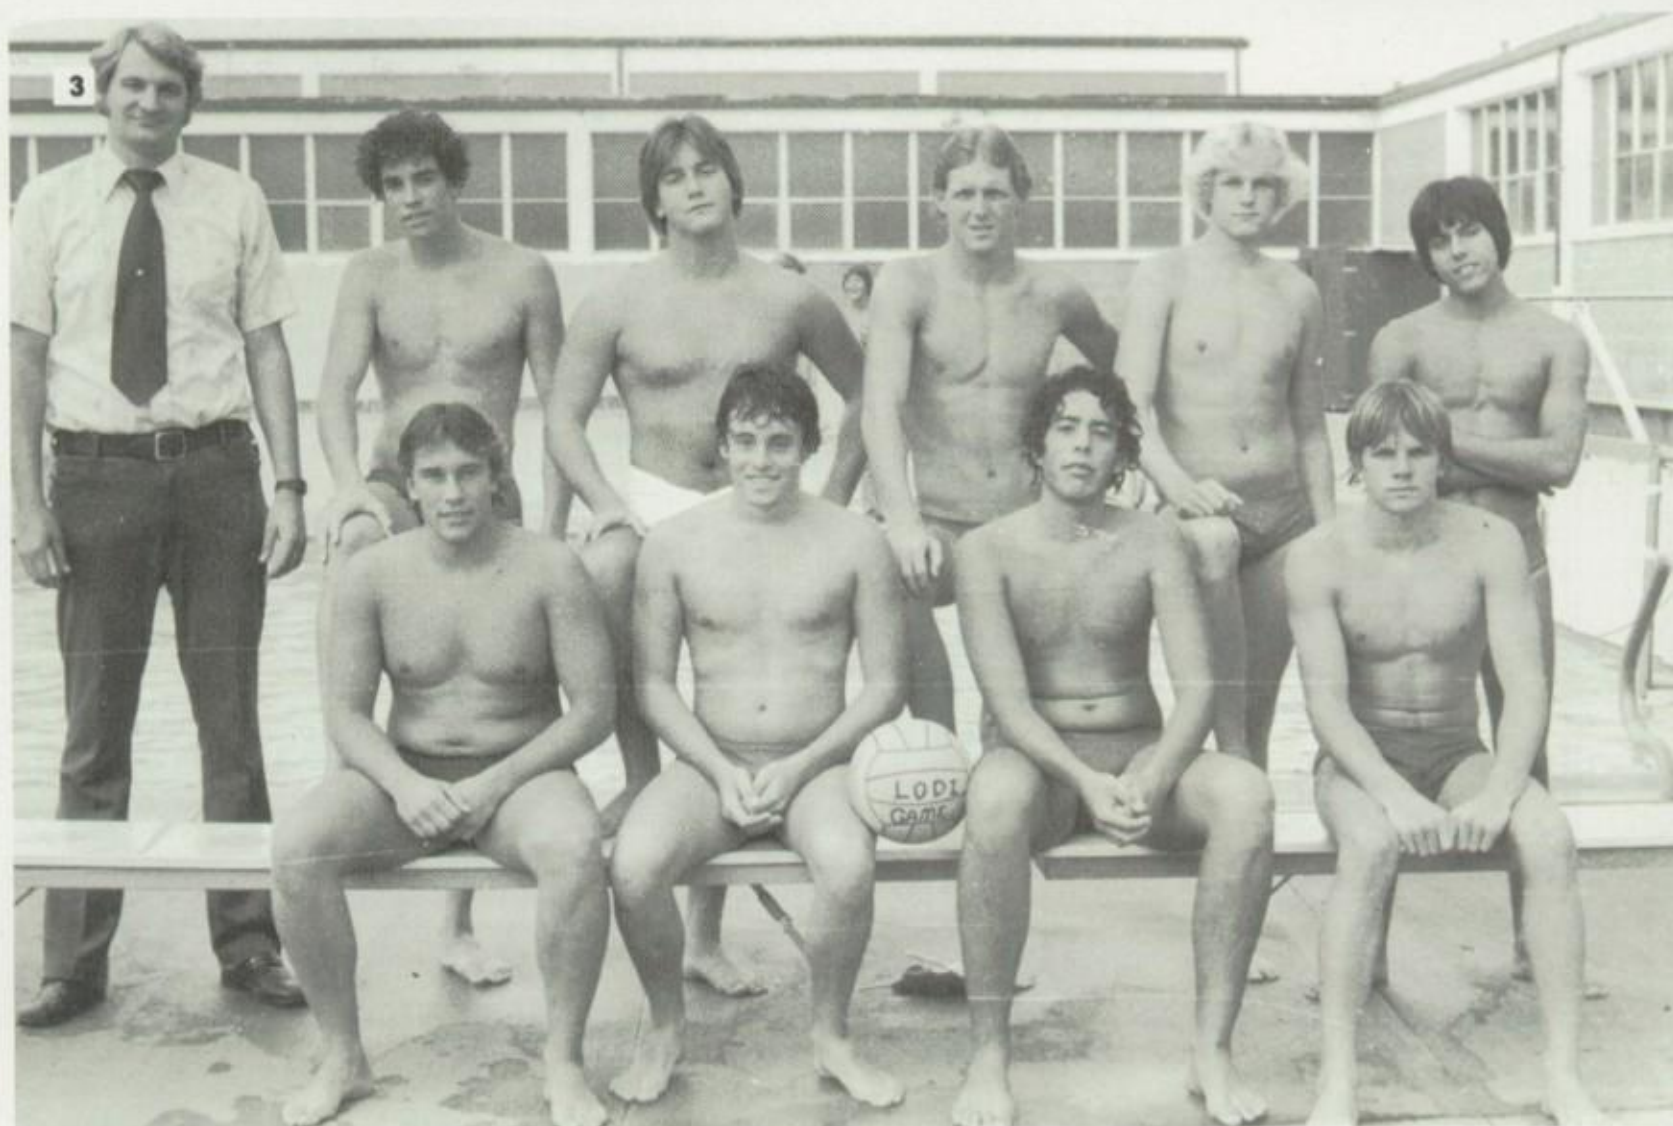

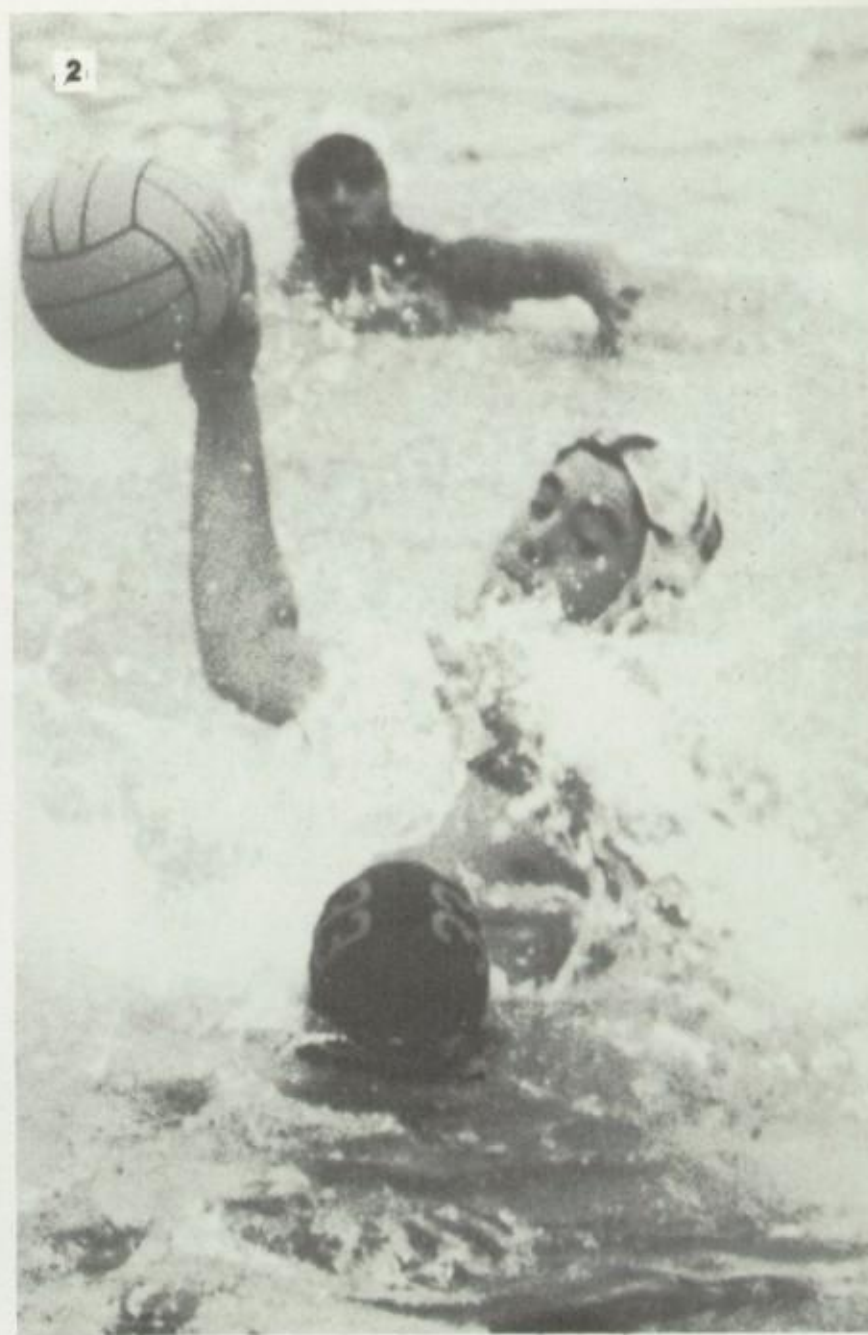

The team came in first place in SJAA league play this year with Lincoln and Edison providing the stiffest competition for the Flames. "The cross country teams were like a family and we had a great year," said senior Tim Brown. "It was a good year and a great experience," said Junior Orlando Gutierrez.

The team placed first in the sections. "It was a lot of hard work but it all payed off in the end," said cross country runner Steve Merck.

The team compiled an unblemished 7-0 record with the outstanding varsity runners being Jon Agnew, Ted Franse, and Tim Brown.

Lodi kills Stagg; finishes in fourth

"The league was really tough this year. Lincoln and Tokay dominated the league. The season was fun, we partied a lot after the games," said senior water-jock Todd Mallory.

The team, which was set back by some bad breaks, showed their best performances against Stagg, beating them twice. The Tokay Tigers proved too much for the Flames, beating them twice easily on their way to capturing the league title.

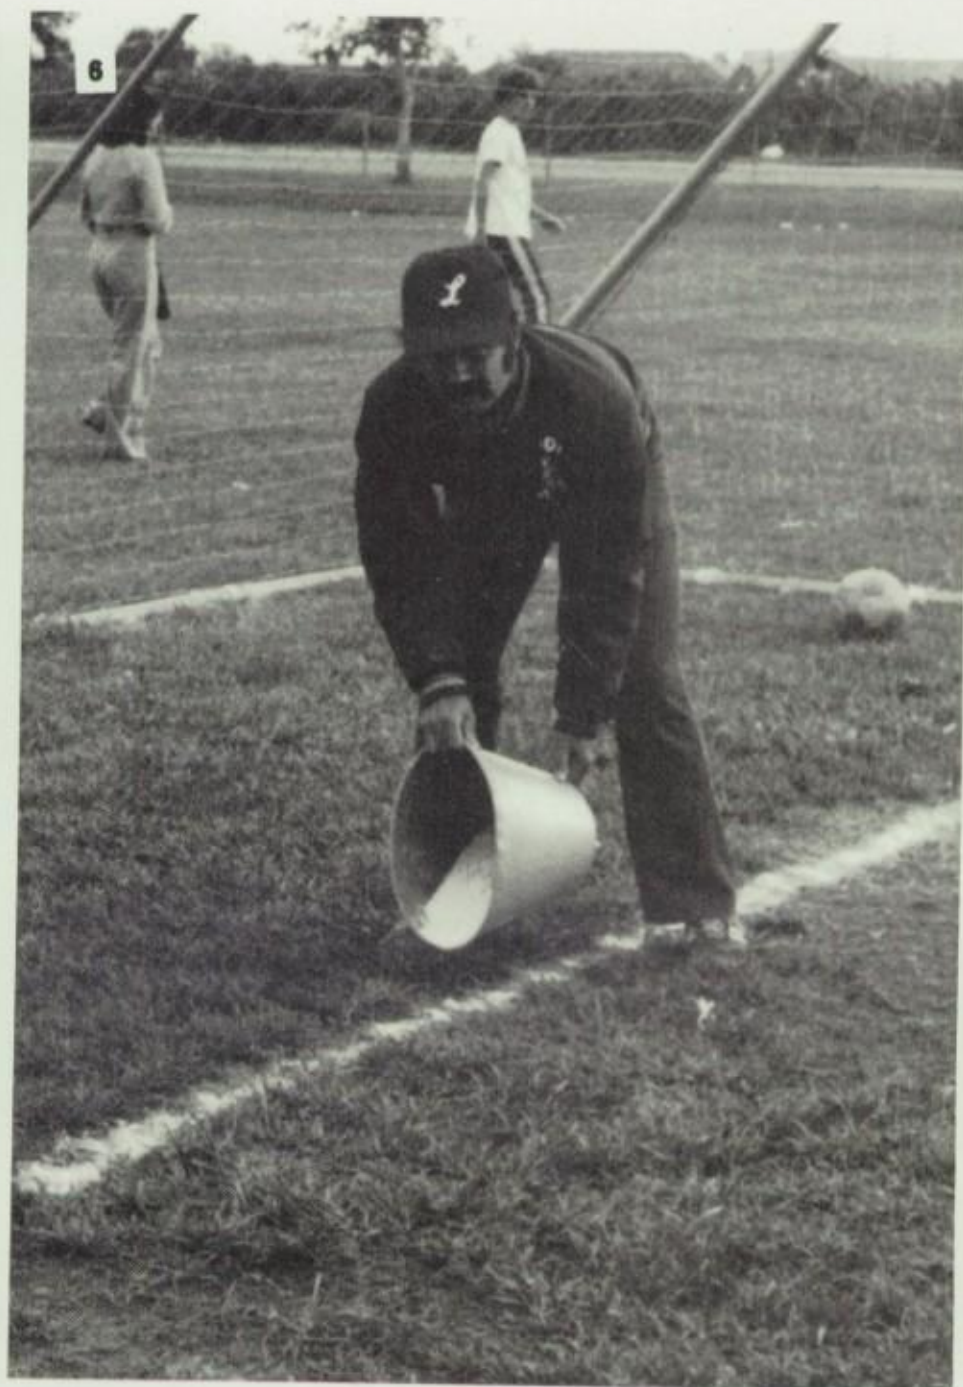

"We worked hard this year. We had fun, we would have liked it better if we would have won, but if we lost we still had fun," said second-year coach Ken Thielen. The Flames tied for fourth place in the SJAA.

Following in the footsteps of his brother Grant, Larry Rogero showed outstanding performances, but without the help of his teammates the team would be nowhere.

The team which cried out for attention pulled stunts such as fights and flashing their fannies to girls from Franklin. Overall the year was good for the Flames with even higher hopes for next year.

Kickers place 3rd with 9-6-3 record

The 1979-1980 Varsity Soccer team finished the SJAA season with a 9-6-3 record and third place overall. Their defense and continuous plays proved to be their strong points of the season. "Definitely our defense was our strongest point," said fullback Jon Strohmaier. "It was a kinda disappointing season. Next year will be one of our better seasons because we have a young team."

"I don't think I could pick any one person that was the best player. We had a pretty balanced team," said Coach Don Rostomily.

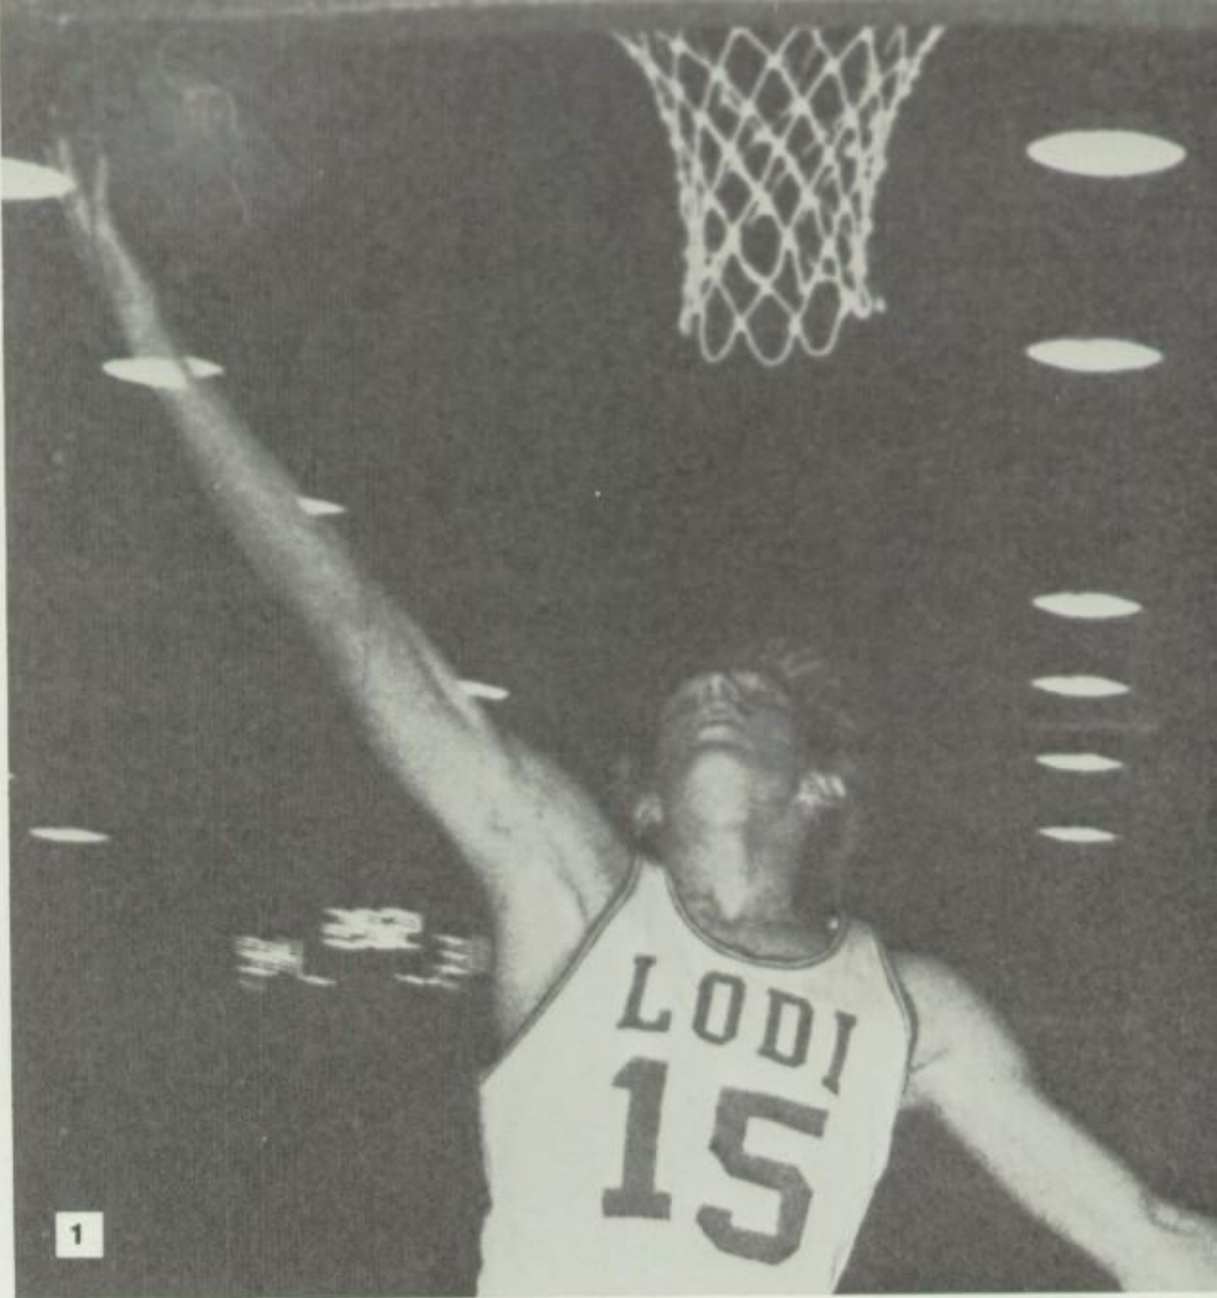

The game against Tokay proved to be the toughest with a loss to Tokay 3-1. Rostomily feels that the loss was a result of speed. Roy Chadwell voiced his opinion that, "Next year we'll be better and beat Tokay."

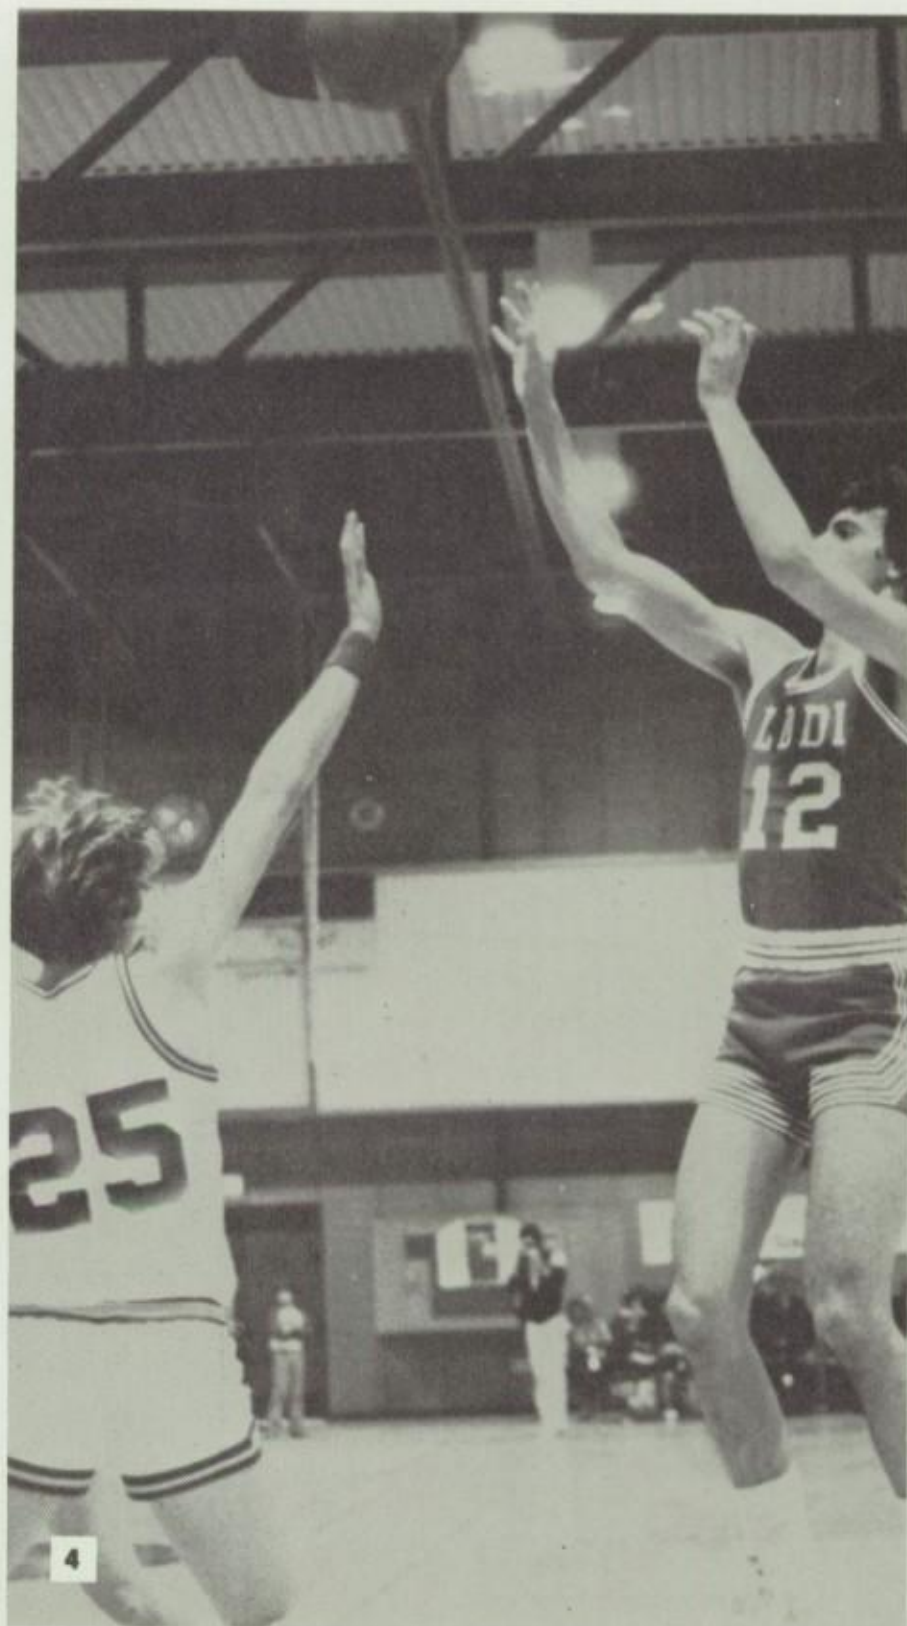

Pride not deterred in losing season

The Varsity Basketball team finished its season with an 0-14 league record. Despite the poor standings the team never seemed to give up the battle for a win.

The Flames had many close losses including the games with Franklin and Tracy in which they lost after heart-breaking overtimes. Mike Takahashi, a senior, said, "I felt that we had a good season despite our losses. Playing under (Coach Pete) Saco was a lot of fun. He was a great coach and a great person as well."

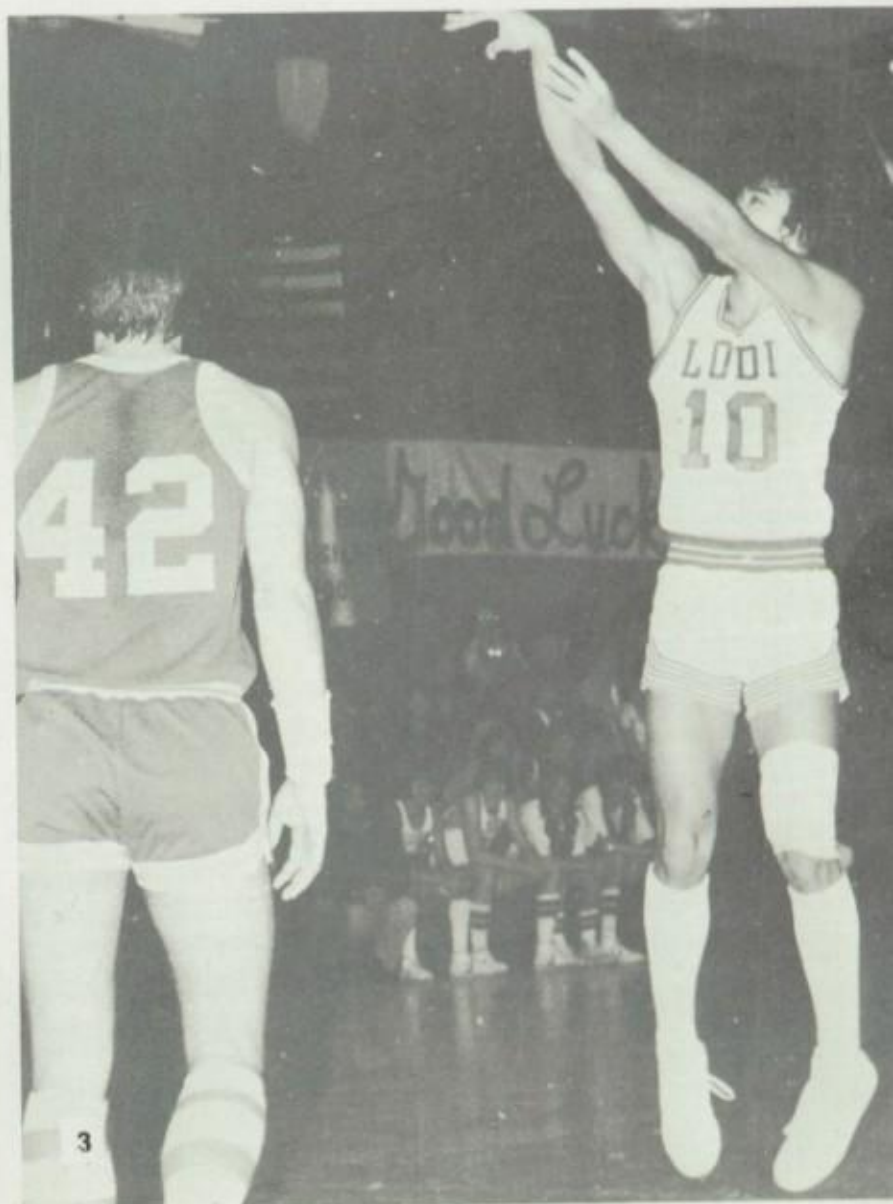

Led by Coach Saco, who was in his first-year at LHS, the Flames won the consolation bracket at the Turlock tournament at the beginning of the season. For the first time in years, the Lodi-Tokay game was held in the LHS south gym. The game packed in many fans and it did seem to lend support and make the team a little bit more comfortable in the big game.

Wrestlers attain improved record

An improving wrestling program brought words of encouragement from first-year head coach, Ted Anagnos. "We had the best frosh-soph team in the history of Lodi High." He said, "The strength of the team is our youth as 90 percent of our team is sophomores and freshmen." Discipline problems meant trouble for the varsity, however, as three players were out for most of the season and one player was kicked off which hurt the team's record.

Even with all the setbacks, the team still managed to compile a 5-5 overall and 2-5 league record.

Alan Bettencourt and Matt Weishoff were the outstanding wrestlers of the team, each having records of 28-7. The pair performed in outstanding fashion in the sections and sub-sections with Bettencourt taking second in sections and going on to state.

With the majority of the team being freshmen and sophomores, the team will be in league contention in the years to come.

Conditioning key for varsity team

"Promising members" were what Coach Joe Neff was counting on for a successful track season.

Coach Neff said the team was "pretty well-rounded" but ran into some problems because "We did not have a great deal of depth." Tom Vance said, early in the season, "This year should be a pretty hot year with the team keeping in as good as shape as possible." Senior Tony Haworth said being on the team, "has left me with the feeling of being a winner."

Coach Neff had high hopes of Haworth winning the league championship in pole-vaulting. Other outstanding members of the team were Steve Mettler and Vince Andres. With these three leading the way, the Flames continued the winning tradition established in past years.

Future is bright for varsity nine

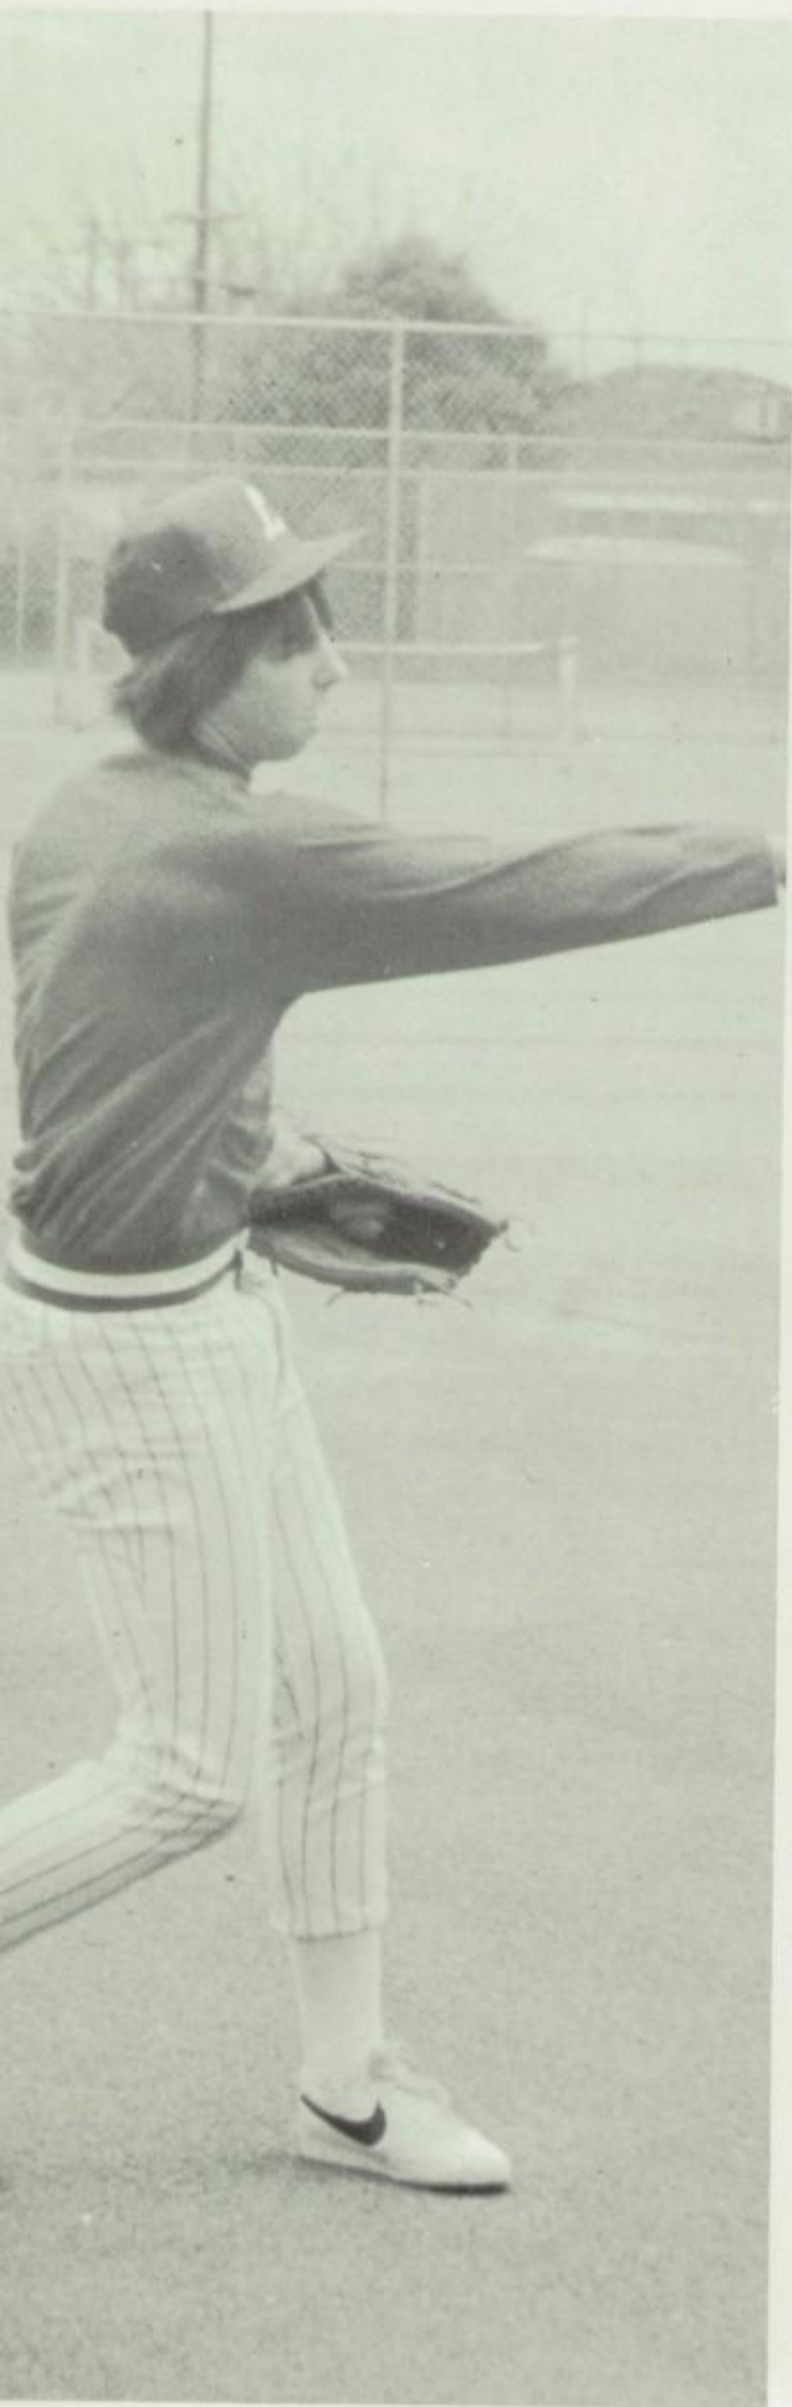

The 1980 Varsity Baseball team showed a lot of potential with moments of excellence popping up throughout the season. After losing their first game to Turlock, the Flames bounced back the next day to limit a strong Christian Brothers team to only one hit.

Fourth-year coach Don Rostomily said, "The team is inexperienced, but our goal is to finish third and at this point the prospects look good."

Hobie Schultz, Todd O'Connell and Keith Mettler were the only returning lettermen on the team, so to add speed and more offensive punch, Coach Rostomily called up sophomore Walt Harris.

The outstanding over all player for the team was Schultz, being depended upon for his pitching and hitting skills.

Golfers use skills to get job done

Five returning lettermen and two J.V. lettermen made the Golf team a tough league contender. According to Coach Steve Wolf, "We had a nucleus of seven good golfers who have the ability to break 40." The team's outstanding player was sophomore Jack Lipelt, who had his eye on the individual sections after sub-section competition.

The strongest foe the team faced was Stagg. Captain Mike Berg said, "The better the competition, the better we play."

The team practiced five days a week for three-and-a-half hours at the Woodbridge Golf and Country Club, where they also played some of their tournaments. It was a unique season because most of the team will be back next year and bid again for the opportunity to go to state competition.

Swimmers/Divers have hard training

Many long hard hours of practice made the Swimming team a challenge for all those who participated. Team member Todd Mallory said, "This years coach, Gary Dosier, did a real good job, he was definitely a factor in our quality. We had three morning workouts a week at five in the morning that we dreaded, but overall we had a good time, I think."

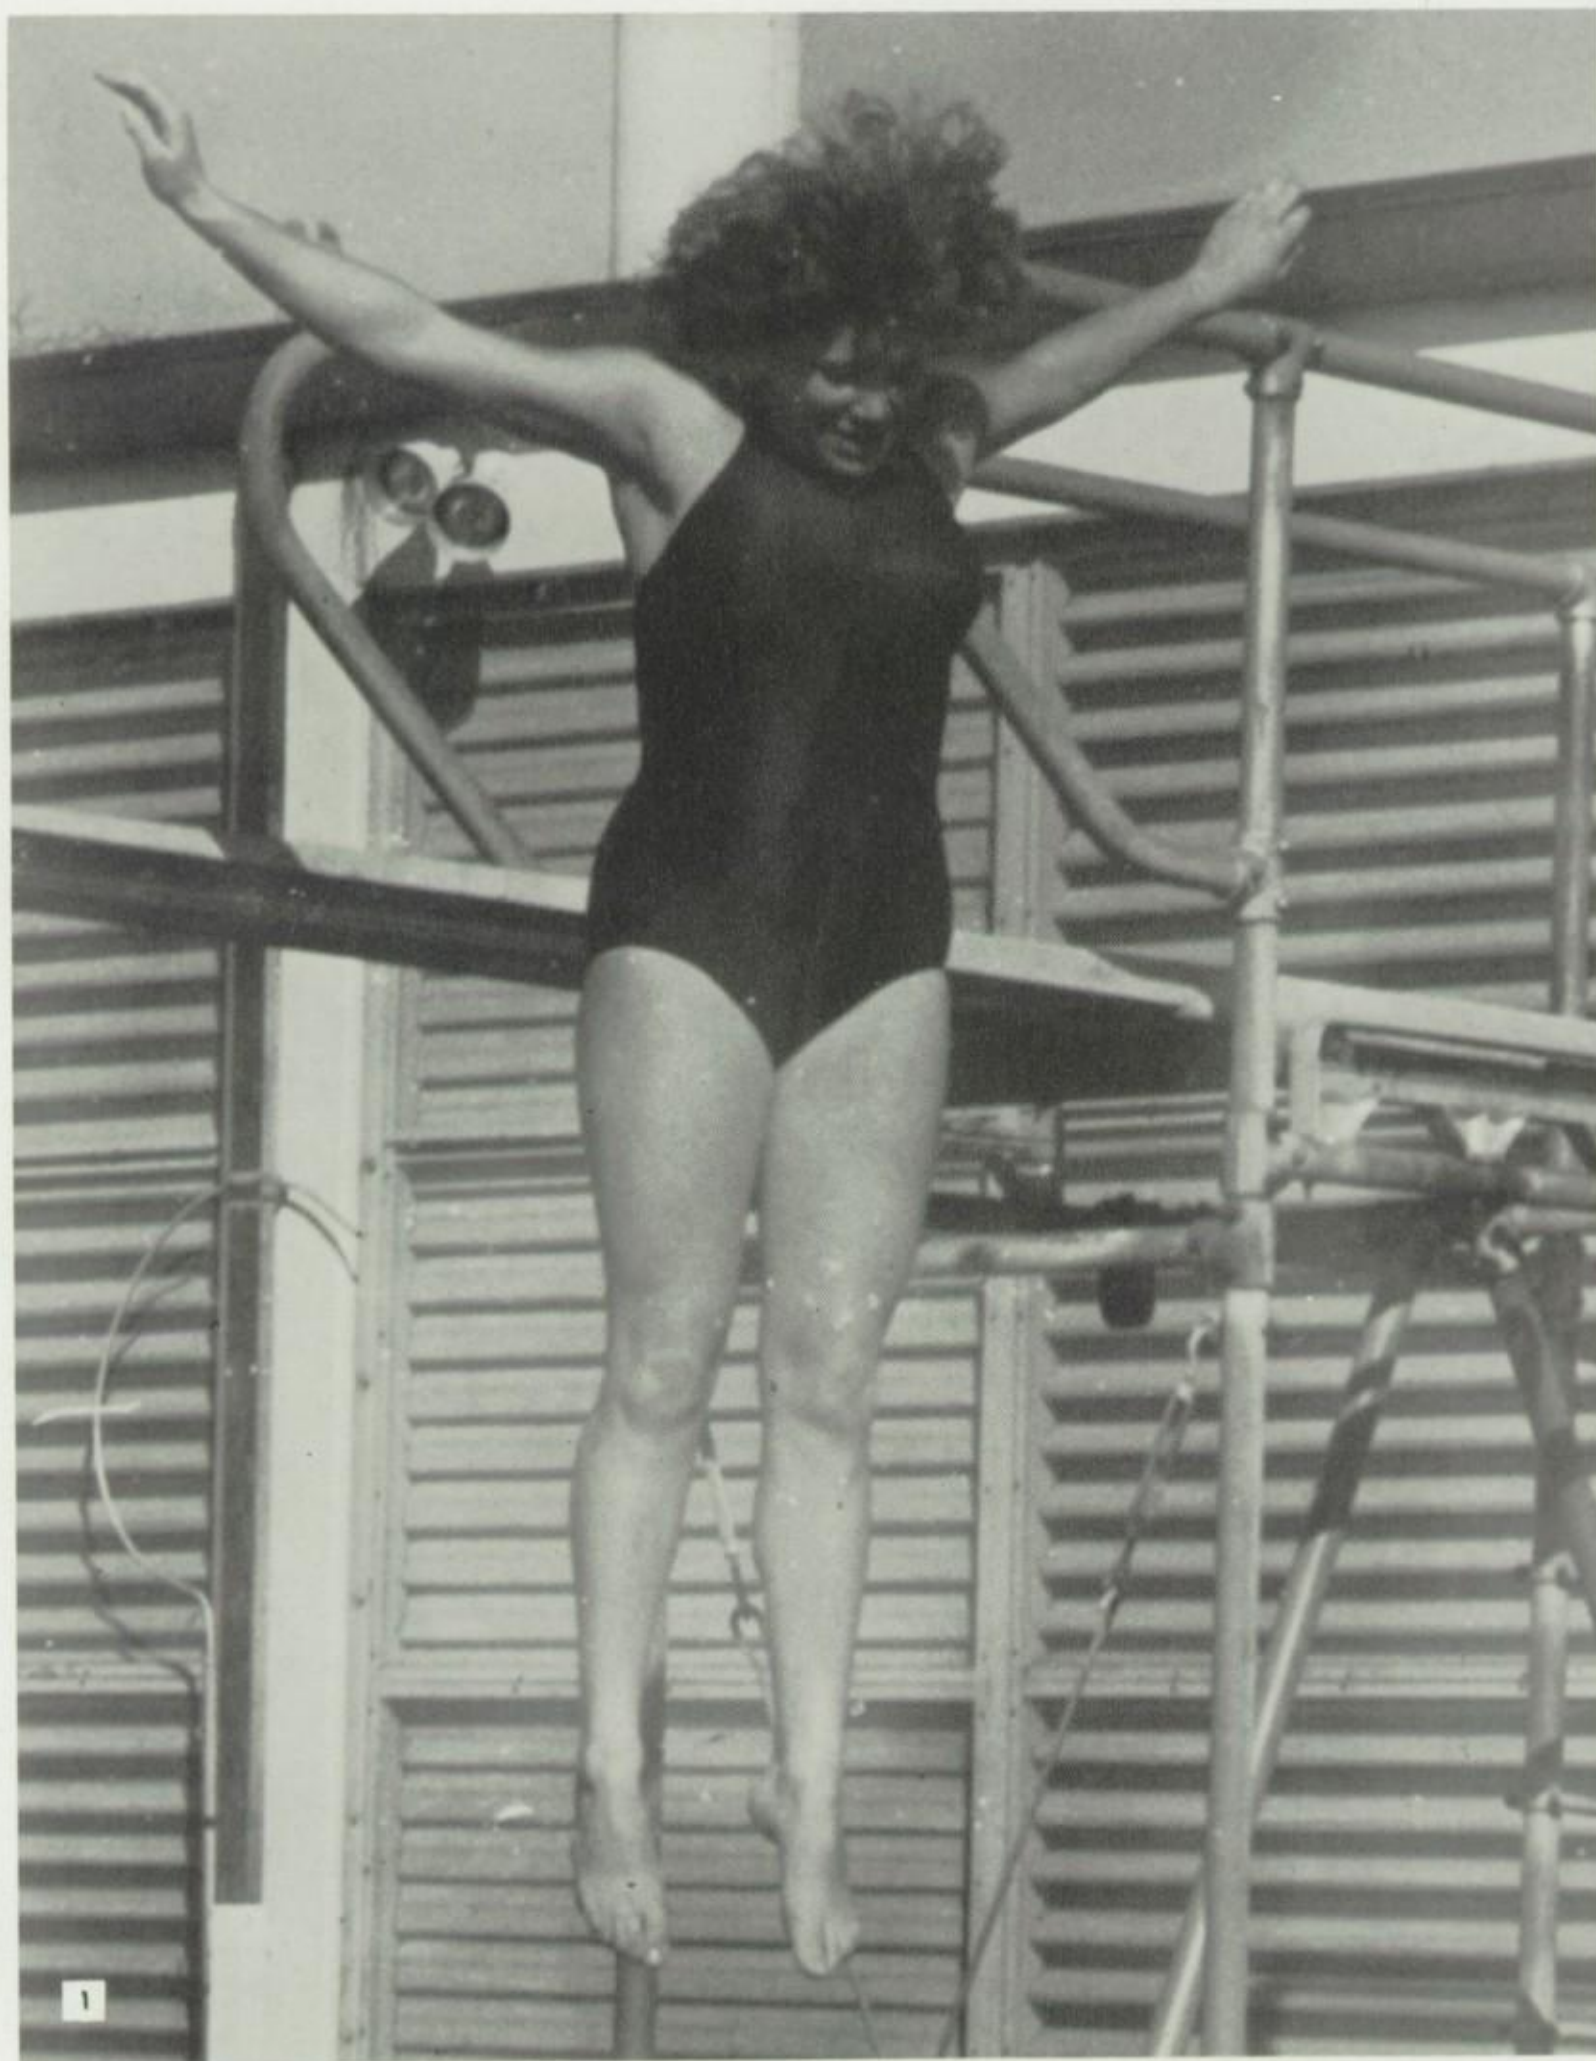

The Diving team consisted of only four members. Having practiced and improved a lot they should do very well. Coach Johnson said, "They are expected to do extremely well in the sections. The Diving team is a fine bunch of kids. They represent one of the spirits here at school."

Tennis team is filled with pride

"Having a strong team and a lot of pride isn't all there is to having a good tennis team," said one member of the team.

Practicing regularly and specific game days kept an organized manner. With many returning players, the team was much stronger than it has been in the past.

Second year coach, Jack Loducca, who was a tennis pro for many years, did a good job of coaching the team and occasionally participated during practice. The team got along well together and had a lot of fun. The team was young with many new players returning next year for an even stronger team in the future. The hard work of the team paid off in winning matches.

The strong team pride carried them throughout the year, and never died throughout the long season.

Only loss in two years for Sophs

The aggressive sophomore football team, playing with an abundance of confidence, almost captured the league championship with a record of 9-1. Coach Dan Salisbury raved about his team this year. Salisbury said, "Everyone worked as a whole team, and played to the very best of their abilities." Salisbury also said, "The team was very balanced in the offense, as well as passing and running the ball."

This year's team was unusually skilled in all areas. With last year's fourth and fifth string playing first and second this season, they gained a lot of experience and Salisbury praised the team members for their improvement. The only loss in two years was in the homecoming game in which Tracy out-scored Lodi, 19-7. The team was still in the league with the best, with this year as proof that the team puts their all into every game signaling a bright future for Flame football fans.

Freshmen win 7; team spirit soars

"This group of men have more Lodi heart and pride than any frosh team in modern Lodi history," said first year head coach Ted Anagnos.

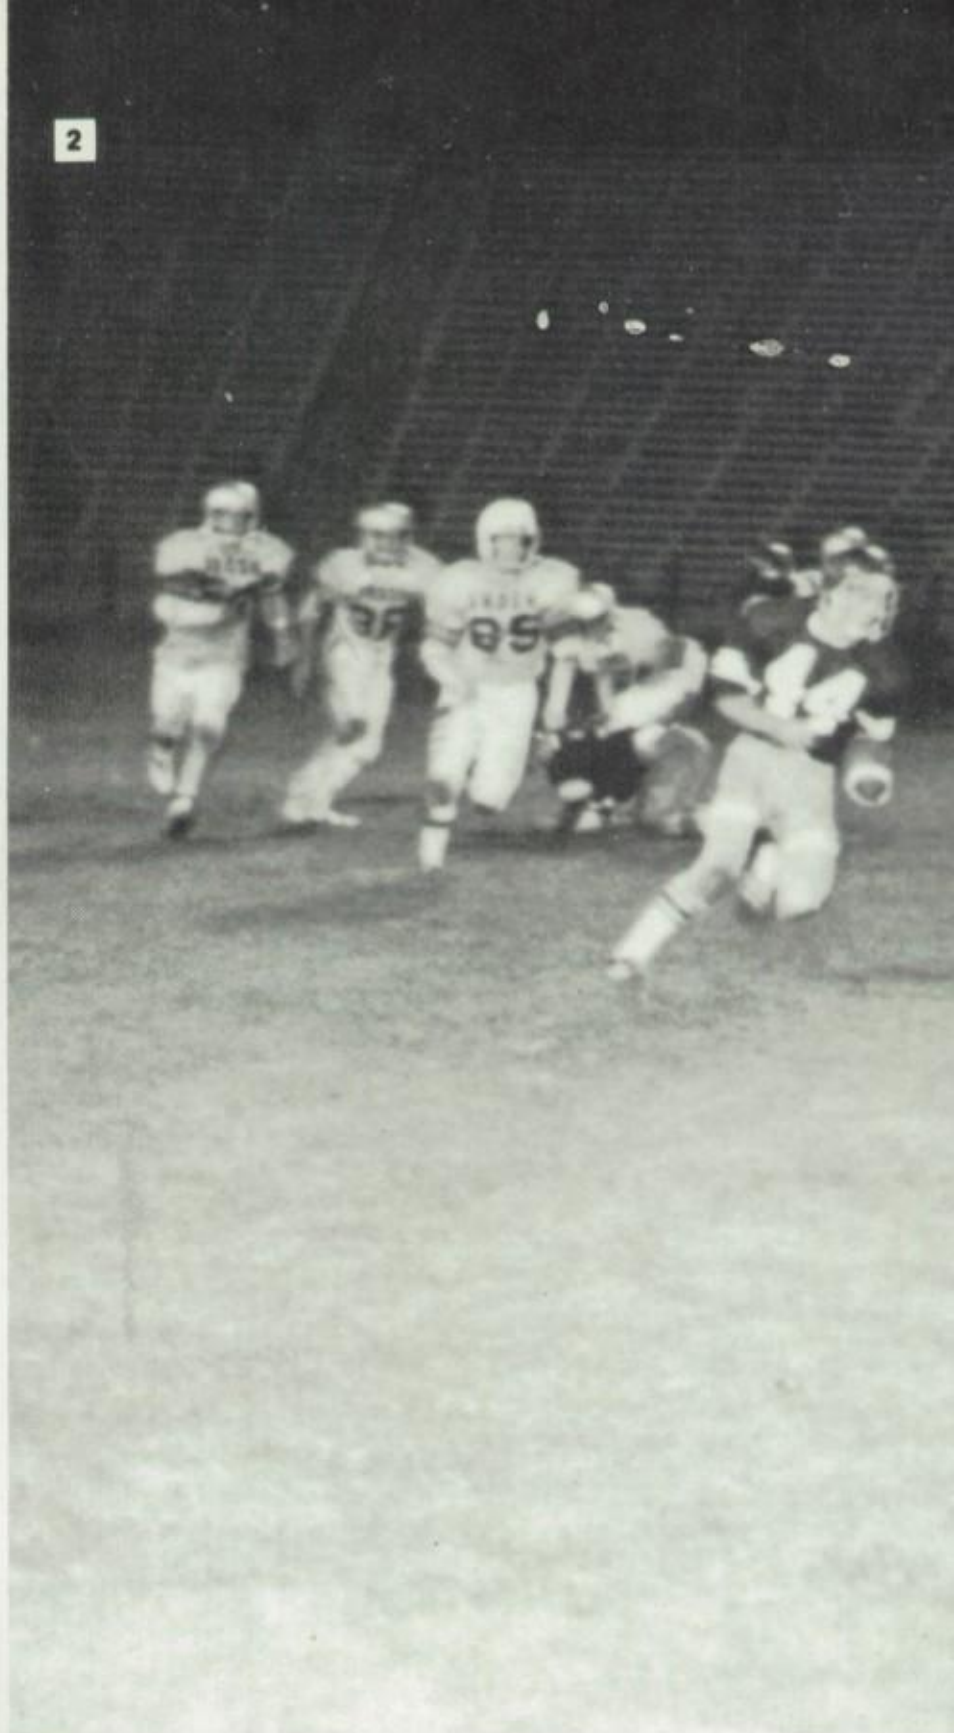

A strong offense and defense was led by fullback Dean Mettler and talented quarterbacks Jeff Seibel and Corey Okazaki who had an astounding season with a 60 per cent completion average which is "unheard of in Lodi".

Compiling a 7-2 seasonal slate, the freshmen averaged 19 points per game. Their only losses were to Tracy who defeated Lodi twice. "I feel our toughest games were our losses to Tracy, but we'll get them next year," said Okazaki, who was named the team's captain. The team had its share of luck as only one injury was incurred during the season, suffered by linebacker Jesse Galvan who was out the entire season with a broken ankle.

"It was a great season because the team stuck together as a tight-knit group through our wins and losses," said Anagnos.

The spirit of the Flames was strong throughout the whole season, with the victory over crosstown rival Tokay highlighting the season.

CC wins league; perfect 7-0 record

"The guys worked hard and it really payed off," said Junior Varsity Cross Country Coach Joe Neff. Tracy provided the most competition for the Flames with the team capturing first place in the SJAA. Robert Summerfeld said, "The year was a lot of hard practicing but it was all worth it in the end."

The team came in second in the sub-sections and seventh in the sections. Freshman Alfredo Martinez said, "A lot of credit should be given to Coach Neff for working and developing us along."

The team which was made up of six freshmen and five sophomores compiled a perfect 7-0 record. The outstanding runners who led the team were Dave Miller and Alfredo Martinez.

Poloists take 2nd; 2 losses to Tokay

The Junior Varsity Waterpolo team captured second place in the SJAA, an outstanding showing for the team.

The team lost only two games (both to Tokay) which was expected. "The team this year was led by Bret Sackett who really showed the most leadership, and right behind him was his brother Greg who is just a freshman but was outstanding," said Todd Scheideman, a member of the team. Besides Tokay, Lincoln also proved to be a tough contender. "There were a lot of cheap shots the whole year," said Scheideman who inflicted a cut on an opposing player which required eight stitches.

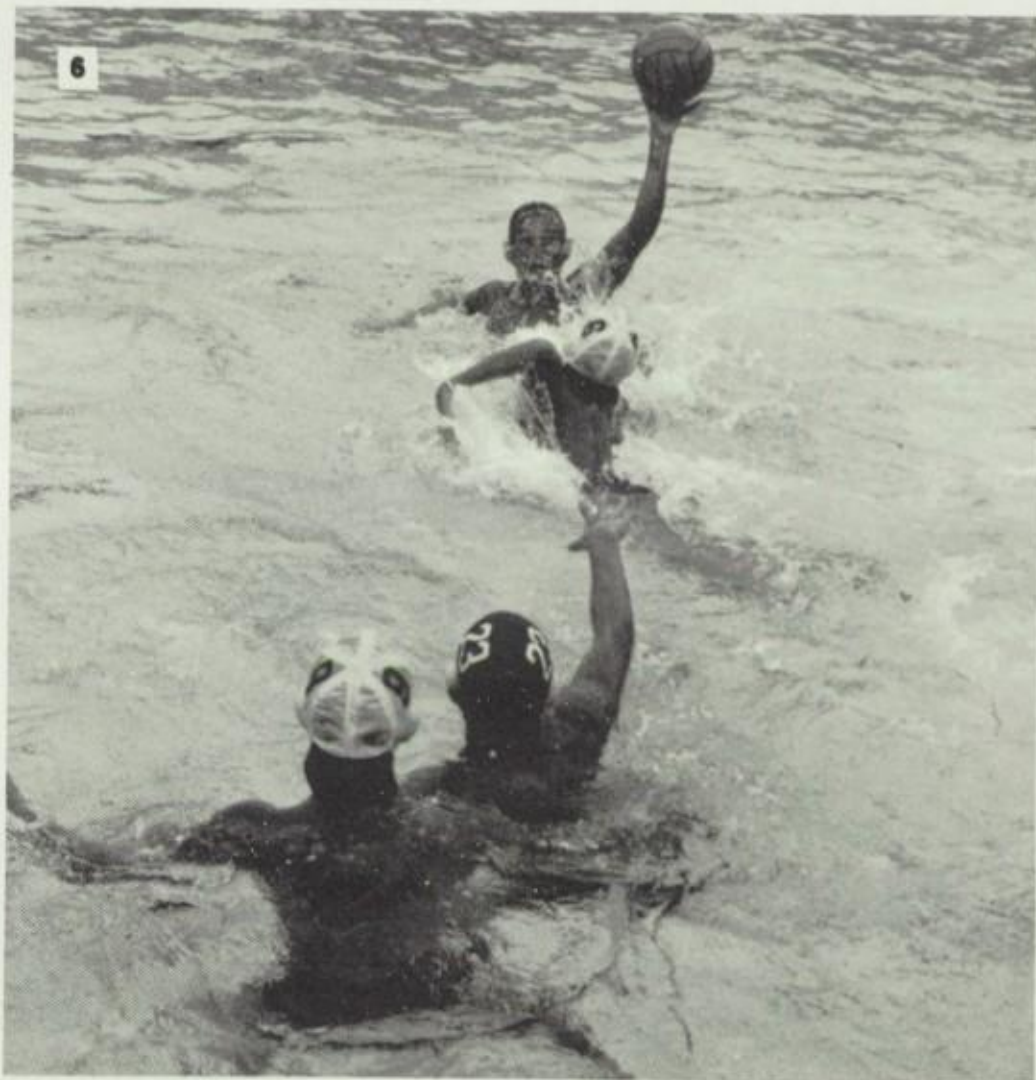

The highlight of the year was the game with Tokay which proved to be a close one that ended in Flame defeat. "It was too close, too close for us to lose, it was almost known that we would lose but when we scored the first point of the game it raised everybody's spirit and we thought we could win," said Scheideman.

Kickers win five in 'tough' season

The beginning of the season started in hope for the Junior Varsity Soccer team, but ended in defeat as the team won only five games out of 13, three of which were by forfeit.

The highlight of the season was defeating St. Mary's 2-0 after a four-game losing streak. The team's high scorers were Pat Moso and Scott Reimche. According to captain Perry Praskevas, "If there were more players we could have rested more and had more energy to put in." Their toughest opponent was Franklin who was speedy and experienced against Lodi's inexperienced team. "Off the green there was a lot of team dissension," said Coach Merlin Hubin, "there was also a lot of competition which resulted in resentment." Goalie Tom Leisek was their strongest player and according to Coach Hubin, "this was a rebuilding year."

Flames take 3rd; win over Franklin

Heading the reins for this year's Sophomore Basketball team was Coach Dan Salisbury. With an overall record of 15-9, the Flames took third place in the SJAA.

Being the only team in the league to beat Franklin, and also having one of the best defensive teams in the league made it an exciting year. "It was a very exciting season, we did a lot better than was expected of us, we surprised a lot of people."

Individual performances evolved from and around co-captains Walt Harris and Mike Mutch. Steve Jeffrey was the only freshman on the team and was a definite advantage. Shawn Hayes completed his second year on the sophomore team by being the best ball handler. Quay Richerson and Todd Reiswig were also starters most of the season.

Coach Salisbury spoke of this year's team as being "the best group of athletes that I've been associated with. They worked hard all the time and always gave their best." Salisbury also said, "We had a lot of fun this year and they made this a really enjoyable season."

St. Marys proves tough for Frosh

Go Flames! This familiar chant could be heard throughout the gym on Frosh game nights. The team played very well together putting their personal differences aside when they got on the court.

Freshman Jeff Williams said, "This year was fun. We were an ordinary team to most people, but the people who came regularly and watched us, they thought we were very special."

The team played with great respect for their opponents. They compiled a 12-4 seasonal slate. First year coach John Freeman said, "We were a pretty good team, but not great." St. Marys proved to be the young team's hardest opponent, but even with the stiff competition the Flames had their best performance against the team. The team was large, and though it lacked in height, it made up for it in speed and quickness. The boys enjoyed playing and most of the guys are looking forward to their future years on the courts.

New coach came to sophomores

The Sophomore Baseball season started with the coaching positions up for grabs. Rueben Petron started the season as coach and then got a job in another city, leaving the position open. While a replacement was sought, Delmar Petzold took over the job. John Nilmeyer was announced as the new coach and held the position throughout the year, starting his job on the day before the first game of the season.

The team looked strong in its' first two games by beating Turlock 4-2, and shutting out a strong Christian Brothers team 5-0.

"The boys showed a great desire to play and practice and didn't let the setbacks bother them. I really enjoyed coaching them," said Nilmeyer.

The team was led by pitching aces, Tim Singer and Mike Mutch. The desire to play never died throughout the long season and the sophomores proved to be a strong team in the SJAA.

Freshmen team uses experience

The Freshmen Baseball team started the season with high hopes for the season to follow.

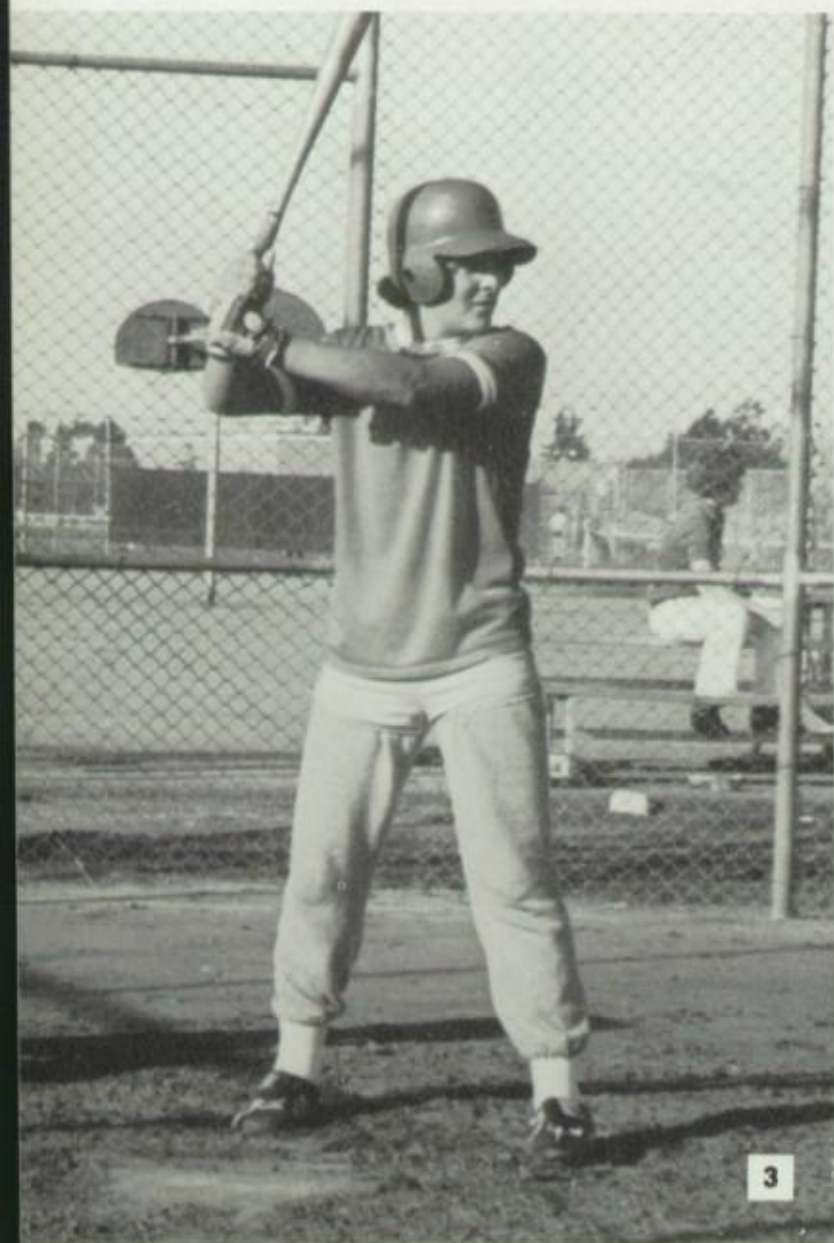

Second baseman Greg Evans said, "We have a good team. There are a lot of guys out here that play Babe Ruth."

The selection of the team did not come easy for first-year coach, Dave Majetti. Twenty-six ballplayers tried out for the team and the squad was cut to 20.

The team was led by outfielder Troy Reimche and southpaw pitcher John Curlee.

Outfielder John O'Conner said, "We had a good coach. He knew a lot about baseball. We had fun at practice and over all it was a good year."

With all their desire, high hopes and determination, the 1980 Freshmen team was able to keep in the running for the SJAA league championship throughout the long season.

Frosh-soph team full of potential

Lodi's Frosh-soph Track team looked as though they would be "potentially the strongest" Coach Joe Neff has coached in the seven years he has been here.

Coach Neff predicted that his team and individual members would go far this season. Neff pointed out such members as Issac Delarosa, pole-vaulting; Dennis Sasaki, Brian Gibson, and Perry Paraskevas, sprints; and long distance runner Dave Miller as the standouts on the team.

With Coach Neff's hard work and efforts, the team can look forward to a year of winning meets.

Girls win SJAA; take 2nd in subs

The girls did a great job this year, and really worked hard," said Girls' Cross Country Coach Joe Neff.

The team came in first place in SJAA league play this year. "Hard work and inspiration was the key to our success," said sophomore runner Shelly Smith. Carolyn Goin said, "The year was a lot of fun and a great experience." The team came in second in the sub-sections and finished eighth in the sections. "The year for me was highlighted by qualifying for the sections," said sophomore Debbie Defenbaugh.

The outstanding cross country members who aided most to the perfect 7-0 record were, Shelly Smith, Debbie Defenbaugh, Carole Schleicher, and Sara Talbot. With three of the four top runners being sophomores the girls team should be in league contention for a long time.

Spikers win 12; take third place

Varsity Volleyball Coach Toni Miller said of her team that they "worked well together as a team...no-one was a standout, everyone put forth a team effort."

The Flames played an outstanding game against Tokay but suffered a disappointing loss in the annual rivalry. Lodi finished with a seasonal record of 12-5, finishing in third place in league standings. The varsity team was held back from going to the sections by only one game. This would have been the second year in a row for the team to accomplish this feat.

Losing four starting seniors, Patty Rosen, Gigi Sivers, Tammy Ciboch, and Laura Easter, will be a great loss but the team will be strong also with returning juniors. Gigi Sievers said, "My senior year on the volleyball team was fulfilling except for the fact we lost to Tokay, and we were held back from going to the sections by one game." The Flames traveled to many out-of-town tournaments, always finishing strong. "We had a good season except for our mental blocks which we had against a few teams, which otherwise we could have beaten them," said senior Patty Rosen.

Second in SJAA for Lodi spikers

The Junior Varsity Volleyball team with a new coach this year finished with a strong record of 12-4 taking second place in the league.

The new coach, Timo Mao, had never coached volleyball before coming to Lodi High School, but did play several years at U.C. Irvine. Coach Mao said that it was "quite a new experience to coach high school girls." He felt his team did very well for being a young team and having someone for a coach who had never coached before.

Beating Tokay twice was one of the highlights of the season. Sophomore Denise Buttell said, "This year was fun because we had a great coach who made playing as well as practicing fun." Captain of the team, Traci Spiekerman, thought their team did better than expected and surprised a few of the teams by badly beating them. The team also captured the Lincoln tournament, winning four straight games. The sophomores were anxious to play on the varsity team next year, but were still sorry to see the season end.

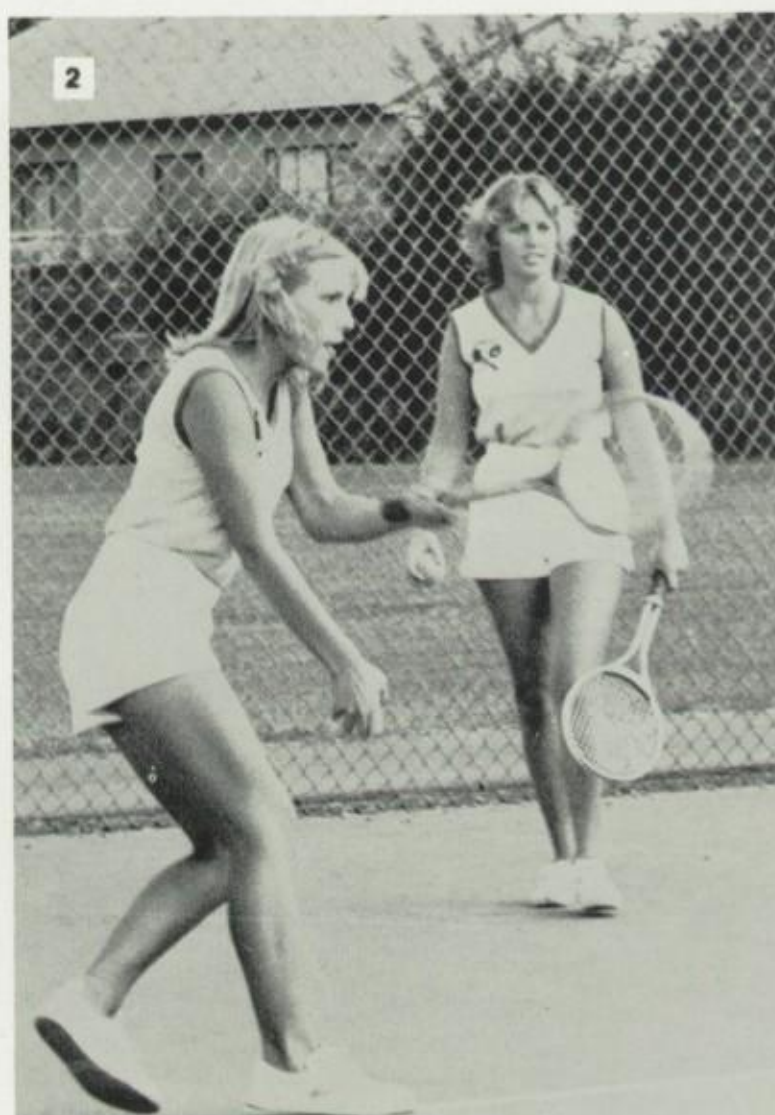

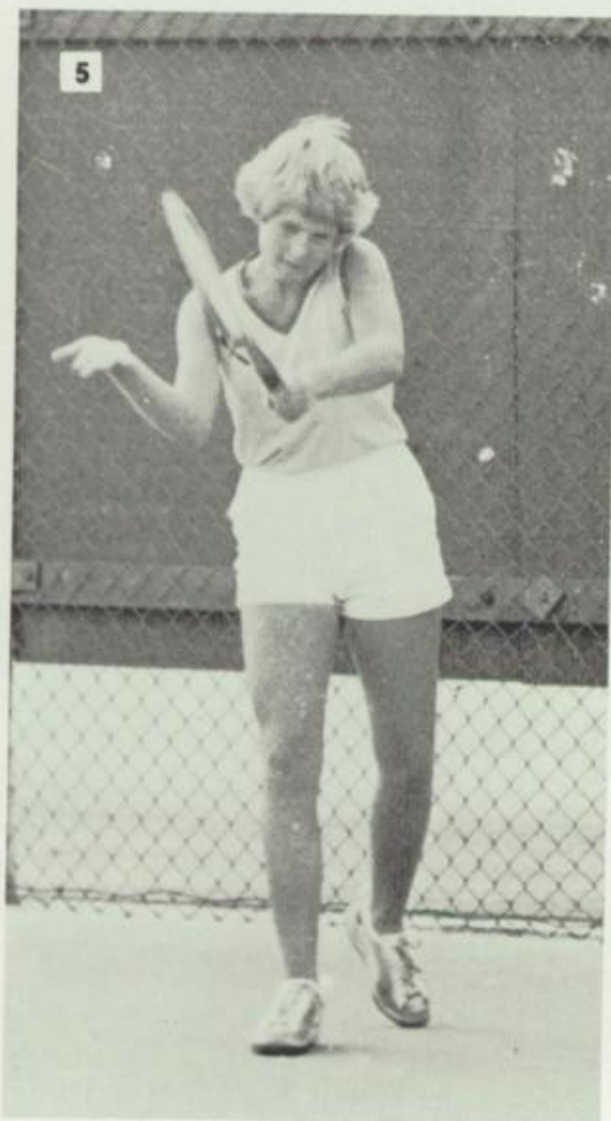

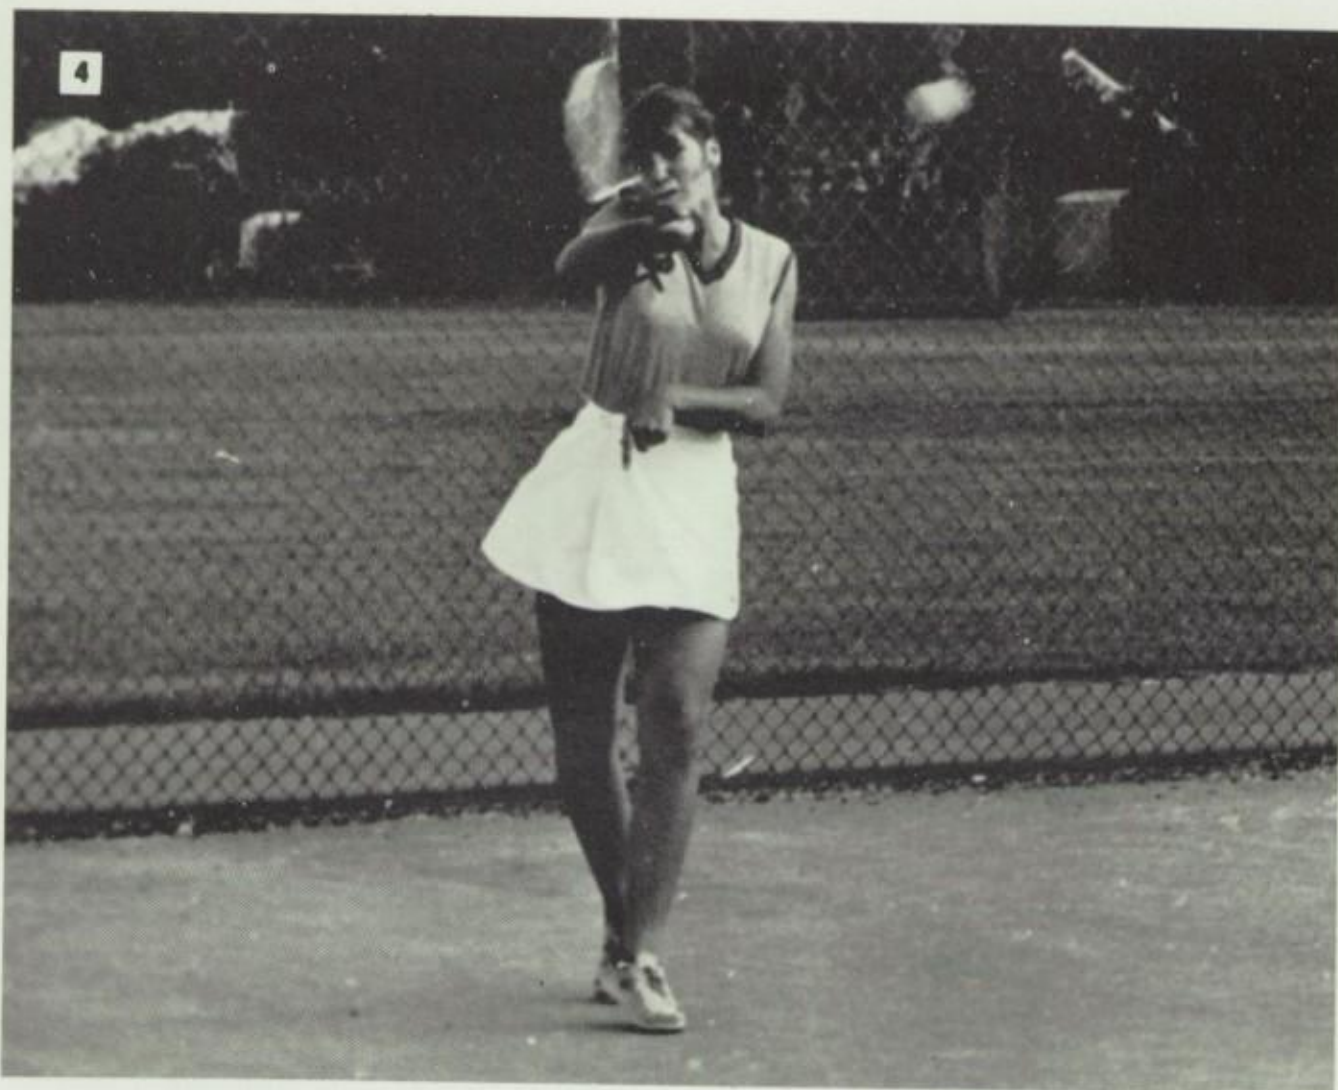

Second in SJAA; four to sections

A vigorous training schedule, including the demand to run a nine-minute mile, contributed to the success of the Girls Tennis team. With all the team members getting to play, the team came in second in the SJAA. Losing only two games, both to Lincoln, came as a surprise because of the team's record in previous years.

The Flames were represented at the sections by Stacy Markel, Dina Neal, Jill George, and Janis George, an outstanding number of players to reach this level. Coach Knackstedt summed up the year by saying, "I am really proud of the Girls' Tennis team. Looking towards the future the team looks promising."

Lodi beats Tokay, play in sections

The Girls' Varsity Basketball team had a super year with victories over both Lincoln and Tokay, with the victory over Tokay being the first in three years.

These victories enabled the Flames to finish the season with a 10-4 record. With three other teams in the league also having a 10-4 seasonal slate, it was decided that the Flames should go to the sections representing the SJAA as the number one team because they were the only team to have beat all the other league teams at least once.

Upon reaching the sections, Lodi easily won their first game against Atwater, but found complications in the next game and ended up losing to Davis by just two points.

Janis George was named to the first team all-league team, with Gigi Sievers being named the the second team and Cindy McFarlane and Lorrie Olson received honorable mentions.

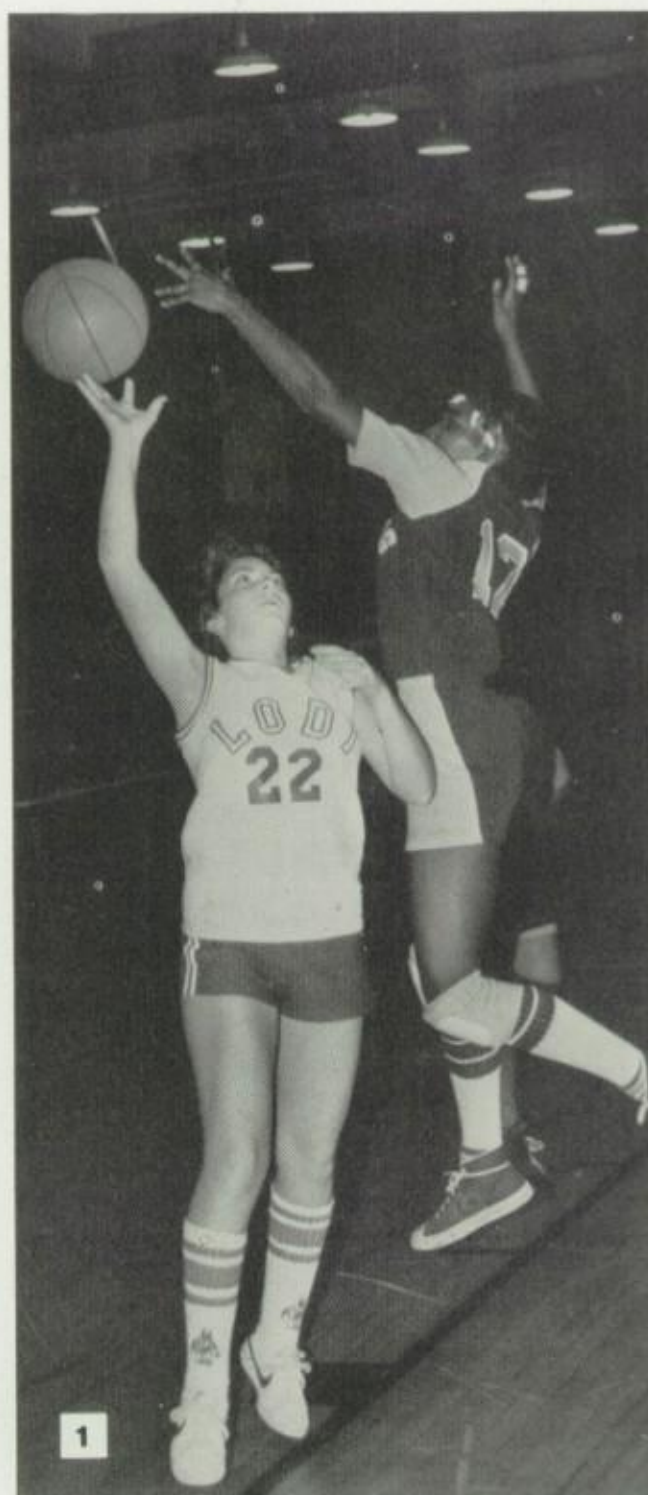

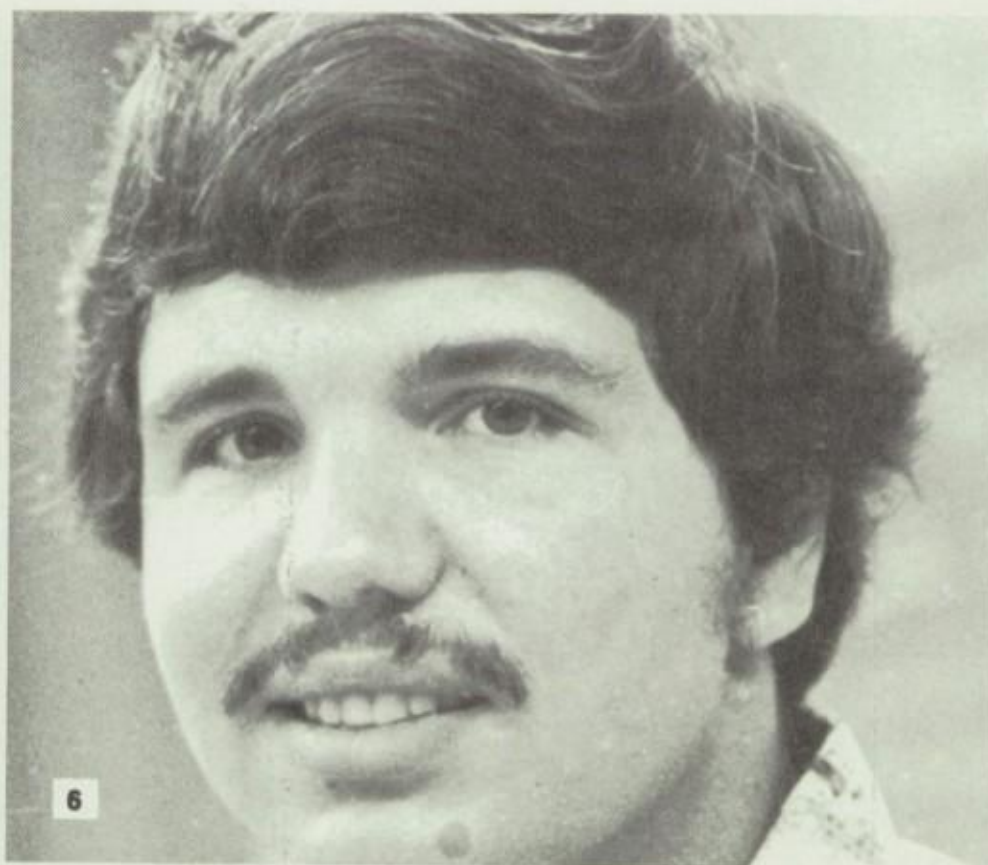

Flames kill Tokay in league game

A successful season helped Richard Marks to enjoy his second year of coaching the Girls' J.V. Basketball team.

"This years' frosh/soph girls' team has improved a lot since last year. All the teams in the league were pretty evenly matched in talent. Everyone on the team this year seemed to enjoy playing and we all got along well. I think our best feature was our defense," said Tracey Ciboch, a sophomore on the team.

With four returning players leading the way, the Flames took third place in the league tournament by beating Tracy. Another highlight of the year was totally killing Tokay in a home game. The strong J.V. team will definately prove to be an advantage for the varsity team next year.

(4) J.V. team members are l-r; Michele Todd, Sharl Roberts, Robin Spoor, Gayelynn McDaniel, Tracey Clboch, Noel Heskett, Michele Spanos, Elsa Tsutaoka, Tammi Tyrell, Michele Blasl, Jill George, Cecella Hazard, Stacy Markel and Nitsa Lewis. (5) Guard Jill George drives through the key. (6) Mr. Richard Marks, J.V. coach, watches the team practice.

(1) After warming up, Jane Melvin and Harriet Anagnos take to the track. (2) In a more tense moment, Harriet Anagnos hands off the baton to Jane Melvin. (3) Colleen Lanchester and Corry Hebacker wait until they can use the track. (4) Sara Coldani does a warm-up exercise before going out to run.

Girls find Track a 'Friendly' affair

"Being on the track team was a lot of fun, you meet a bunch of new people and it helps you get in shape," said runner Harriet Anagnos, "besides its a lot better when you get to run with friends." The girls' track team got along well with each other and enjoyed playing pranks on Asst. Coach Jim Westgate. During a practice the team got a little mad with him and stuck his hat on the goal post in the middle of the track.

Returning members of the team included Brenda West, Jane Melvin, Shelly Smith, and Sara Coldani, who were also the most respected members because of their experience. The girls got along well together with Coach Joe Neff and considered him a good friend.

Softball teams had new coaches

The Varsity Softball team started their season off with a new coach, Richard Spiekerman. Spiekerman has been around softball all his life, and was very happy when he got the chance to coach the team.

The team was strong this year with returning players Gigi Sievers, Janis George, Micki Martin, Tracy Spiekerman, and Shelly Almendinger. Lodi was chosen to be one of the top teams in a very close league.

"This years team got off to a very slow start because of rain and practicing in the gym didn't seem quite right," said Cindy McFarlane. Despite the setbacks, once the season started the team looked for a very prosperous season.

The J.V. Softball team started the season with a new coach, Richard Marks. Debbie Defenbaugh, a returning player on the team, said, "Our team looked pretty good this year. We have a lot of returning players which will give us quite a bit of experience. One of our main goals is to be a top contender in the Stagg tournament. With the league being very close the Flames gave it their all until the very end of the season.

Members of the J.V. Softball team are front; Tr; Marcy McCarvan, Michele Spanos, Marsha Bull, Robin Spoor, Tammy Tyrell, middle; Tracey Oiboch, Jill George, Michele Blasl, Gayelyn McDaniel, Kassy Blanke, back; Debbie Defenbaugh, Lori Liebelt, Shelly Gox, and Noel Heskett.

Badminton team not for 'sissies'

"Everyone thinks that badminton is a sissy sport, but once you start training and playing, it really is a tough sport," said first-year player JayDee Reeves. Coach Karen Jensen poured on the conditioning, training five days a week. "Suicidal" was used by some of the players to describe their training. Conditioning was important to the team because during the beginning of the season they got to use the gym only twice a week.

Returning players were Leigh Mitchell, Linda Namba, Stephanie Virrey, and Carolyn Goin. It was hoped that all the team members would play to their potential to assure a successful season. Some former players practiced with the team to assist the coach. Sheri Senft, asst. coach, said, "When you're playing net it's better to keep your mouth shut because you might get a bird slammed down your throat."

LHS offers many P.E. alternatives

Lodi High's P.E. classes always seem to keep the students' faces smiling. The teachers never have the kids just sitting around doing nothing, even when it's raining.

The free dress for every student worked out much better than the uniform that was enforced a few years ago. Lodi High also offers many different P.E. class to fit the needs and interests of the student body. Classes offered included gymnastics, independent study, swimming, and adaptive P.E.

Couched Affection

I think you're pretty but I think you're mean.

Have you ever loved one anymore than "me?"

I'd like to leave you but you just look me stay.

*If you have another
I'll just turn away.*

And you think you've got me just where you want.

But things can happen in time of thought.

*Am I losing?
I think not.*

Because I've got you just where I want.

You see, I think you're pretty but I know you're mean.

Beasts creeping; birds trying to fly.
Darkly clad he trudges home,
Asking why, though we're better off dead,
We choose not to die.*

*As Hamlet ponders "To be or not to be,"
As Nietzsche writes his own theory,
"Suicide is painless" echoes the rented T.V.
The house is cold, the air is stale.
He steps inside and closes his eyes.*

*On the roof the rain pounds sorrows.
The backs on the dusty shelf echo there's no tomorrow
He lies awake in bed at night,
Reading Brave New World and 1984
Questioning, shaking his grayed head,
Staring at the patterns, the unending maze.
As some unknown intruder slams the door shut.
He hurries preparations for the final cut.
He screams and curses that "life sucks."
Yet years come not as heartbeat stops.
And neighbors check to see what's up.

Sleeping Sacrifice

*For some it was nothing, for others the worst
To venture beyond the lands which were cursed.
For many did try and many more fell
To conquer the depths in which the beasts dwell.
And none were so gallant, so noble, so bright,
As the shining black snowman who rode through the night.
And there met his death in the darkness beneath
His mind filled with honor, his heart without grief.
The curse was defeated and turmoil released
Until the world ended, and all things did cease.*

*I watched a movie
tonight.
There was no theme,
There was no plot.
only you,
close to my heart.*

*I watched as the moon rose,
in an orange gown
meeting the stars above.
There was no one near,
only you,
close to my heart.*

*I watched the cars go by as I sat thinking on the hard curb,
All those times,
Me, next to you.*

*I need you,
to watch movies
with me.
To see the moon rise near me.*

"Being a senior in high school has been the most rewarding experience in my life. Looking back at the beginning of the year until now I can see that I have done a lot of growing up. I can look at my friends and see that they have done a lot of growing up also. We have had to make some pretty important decisions as seniors and as adults about our lives now and in the future. At 17 or 18 that is a pretty dramatic experience. Especially when all your decisions earlier in life had been made for you and now you're in control of what's going to happen to you."

Daniel Lerma

"I hope that the 80's are in some ways, a continuation of the peace in the 70's. I also hope that the 80's see an end to the 'me first' type of thinking which was prevalent in the 70's."

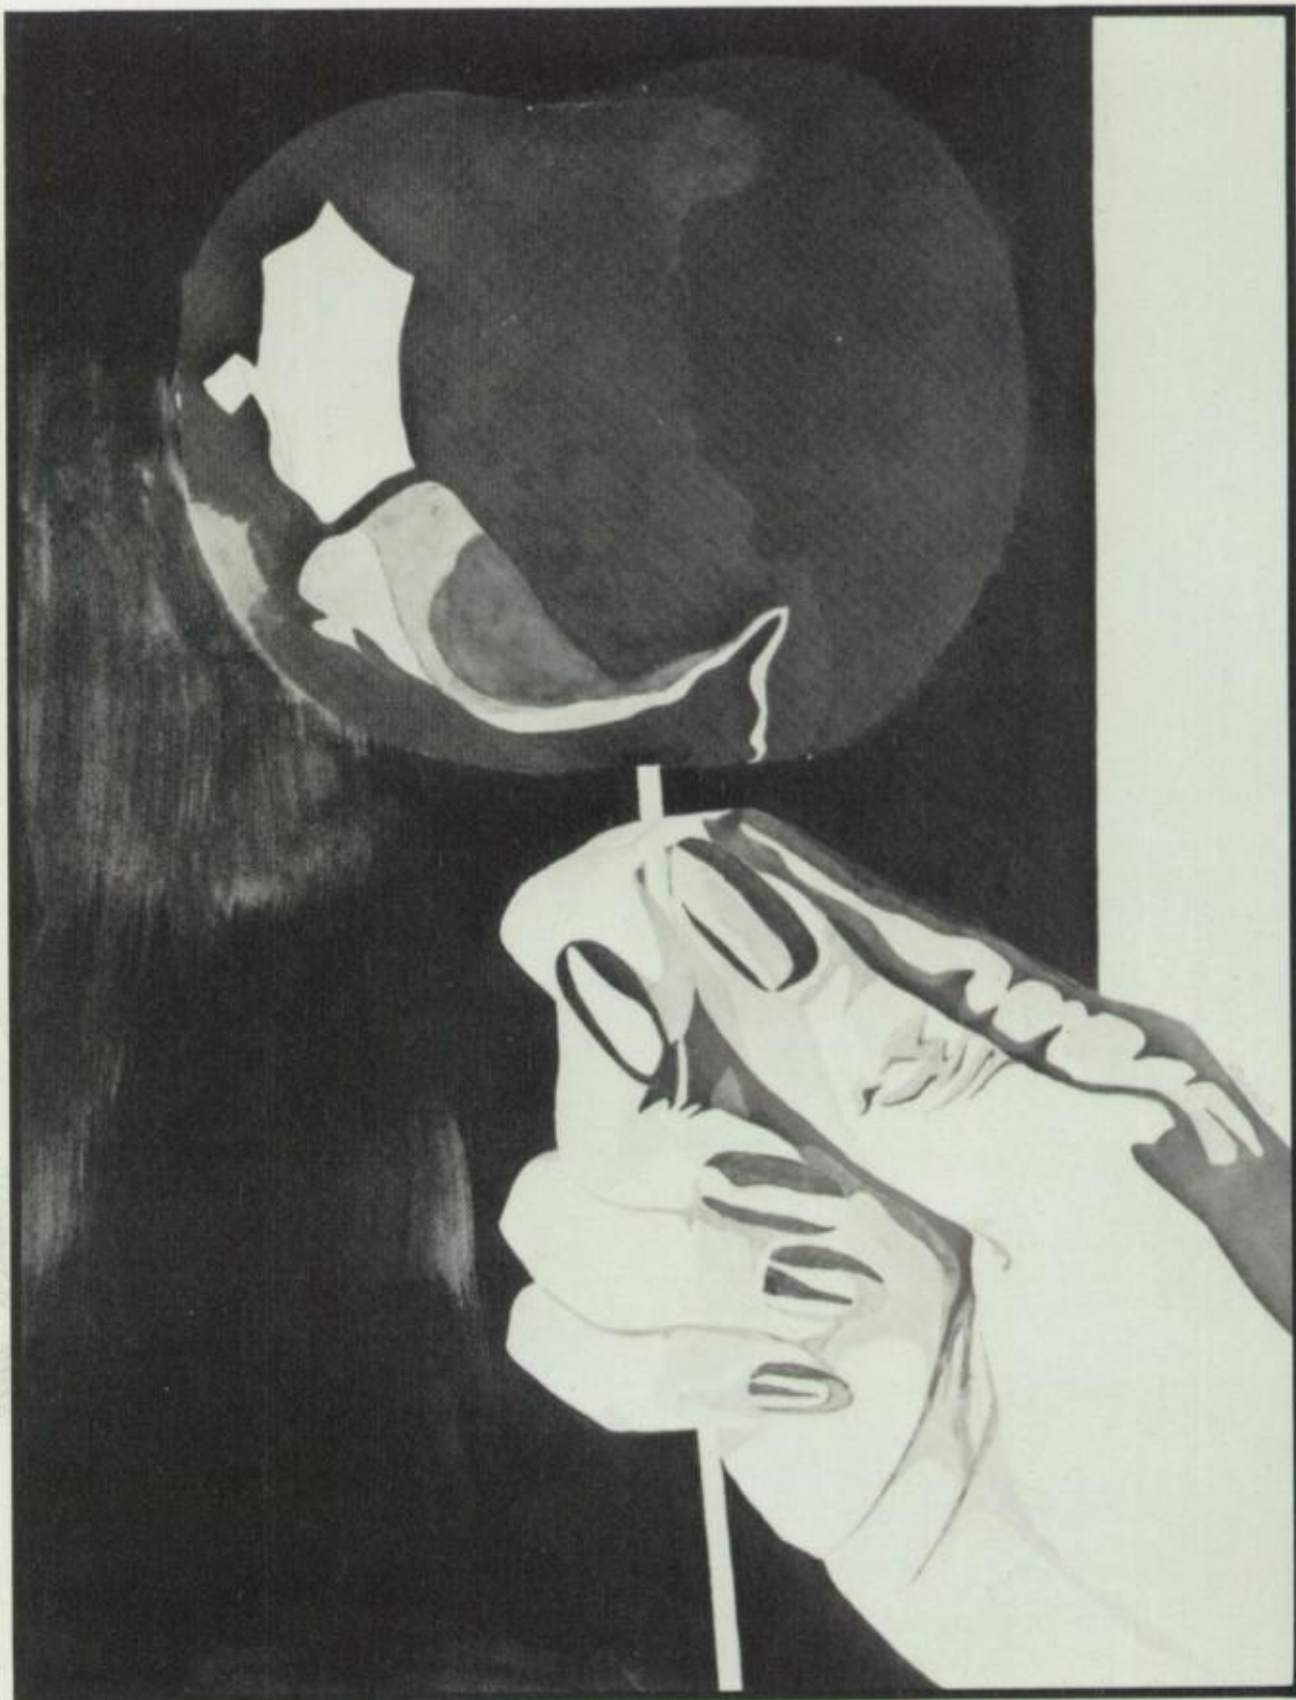

Susan Reed

"The present is so safe, so warm. There is much more joy, ever, than tears. The future, however, is so frightening. But, the light draws me towards it with anticipation and excitement. Tomorrow's gonna be a great day."

Karen Minnick

"To enjoy the most out of life you cannot allow others to alter your dreams. As Bach said, 'Find out what you love to do the best and do your darndest to make it happen.'"

Loretta Patubo

By Colleen Lanchester

"We have worked hard and long for three years and this year leads us to the climax of one life and the beginning of something far greater. The knowledge we have gathered and thought to be of no use to us will be brought forth to light our paths to a prominent future."

Vince Andres

"I plan to be a veterinarian in the future. I love animals and feel that caring for them will be a very fulfilling career. I think I will have to get the majority of my learning at college because Lodi High doesn't have the classes required for my chosen profession."

(3) Robert Whittaker hands Bruce Mangerich documents to try to get the Lodi-Tokay basketball game back at Lodi. (4) Ralph Whitmore thinks hard about a problems that has arose at one of the schools.

SCHOOL BOARD

Laurel Wisenor

Laurel Wisenor was elected this year as president of the Lodi Unified School District Board of Trustees, with George Abrahamson elected as vice-president and Nancy Engelson as clerk.

Ann Johnston, John Vatsula, Bonnie Meyer, and Engelson were all elected for seats on the board. Engelson, former board president said that it had been, "an honor and privilege to serve as president of the governing board of the LUSD."

The board meet regularly to discuss and solve the problems of the district, including developing alternate plans of school housing and problems within the educational process.

ADMINISTRATION

Floyd E. Williams served as Principal for the third year with Bev Lacy and Eugene Jackson serving as Asst. Principals. A new attendance system was devised to try to curtail unexcused absences. Ideas were constantly discussed for ways to improve classes to meet students' needs as best they could.

Delmar Petzold, head counselor, led a group of six counselors in scheduling classes, planning activities and advising students to help them achieve their goals. The Resource Center was used by many college and career bound students who wanted to learn more about a certain school or job.

(1) Counseling center receptionist, Sophia Galvan, manages to keep a smile on her face despite her hectic job. (2) Miss Marilyn Hughes advises Dana Paul on her schedule. (3) Roland Roth and Jeff Navarra socialize while waiting to see their counselors. (4) Todd Mallory, Annette Groen, and Russ Machado amuse themselves while working in the resource center. (5) As Steve Horn checks out the bulletin board, Mrs. Fran Currie, counselor, returns to her office.

(1) Cheri Hoff takes a telephone message. (2) Mrs. Brazil assists a student nurse. (3) ROP students concentrate on their drawings. (4) A student waits patiently for her x-rays.

ROP/WORK EXPERIENCE

The benefits of ROP classes were received by many students whose interests lie in one of the many course areas offered. Auto drafting, nursing, photography and fashion merchandising were just a few of the many diverse fields of study offered. Students received training in the specific areas they had chosen and the classes were directed to really let the student know about the profession. ROP students had the opportunity to join VICA, the Vocational Industrial Club of America.

Many students who had part-time jobs used them to earn high school credits. Students who met the quota of hours needed and filled out the proper forms received credits and so enjoyed the luxury of earning money and credits at the same time.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

The Foreign Language Department offered students a chance to learn about the cultures and traditions of the country they were learning the language of.

The department offers a 4 year program in both French and German and hopes to be able to offer a fourth year of Spanish in the future.

Plans for the future could also include a conversational German course and sponsoring a trip to Europe for a small group of students. A field trip to visit the German consulate in San Francisco provided an opportunity for students to learn about German ways.

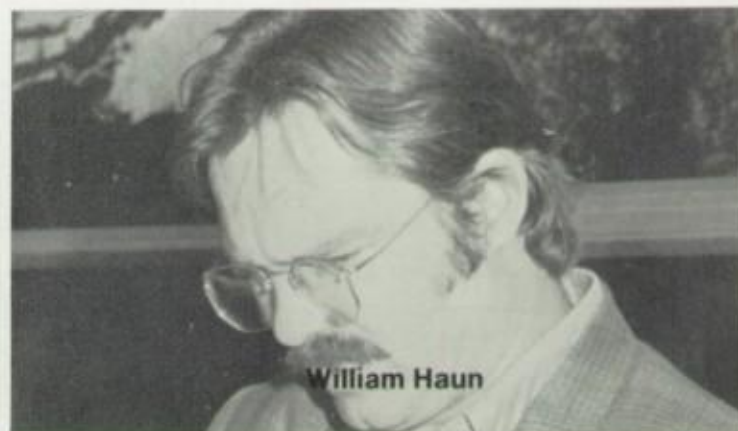

"Language study is the key to universal understanding," said Otto Linberger, department chairman. Linberger also added that he felt that the Foreign Language Department, "sets world trends, is bilingual and sets a self satisfaction aspect for one's self."

(1) Mr. Jim MacIse focuses his attention on a student. (2) Mr. John Falrgrieve happily answers a student's question. (3) Mrs. Julie Baumgartner helps Steve Magana with his English assignment. (4) Kevin King looks over his assignment while John Goehring watches from behind. (5) Mrs. Joanne Gavin instructs one of her English classes.

Carol Buechler

"The English Department's first main concern was to rework the programs of students to help those who failed the Competency Test, which was required by the Hart Bill for graduation. Teachers endlessly searched for new materials to aid them in this," said Carol Buechler, English Department Chairman.

The department also looked into a divided sophomore program to see if the students' needs could be better met by the English classes 201 and 202. In addition they looked into the possibility of offering students who were interested in a fourth year of English additional classes. However, lack of money hampered this effort.

The accomplishments of these items made it a very busy and successful year. The English department re-evaluated and revised their curriculum to meet the ever-changing needs of the student body.

BUSINESS

The Business Department had an active year planning a new class to begin next year. This class will have sixteen different competency tests that a student will have to pass before going on in the class. These tests will include proper use of the telephone, spelling, mathematics, basic skills, and many others to help a student in furthering their business skills.

"Our advanced classes like shorthand and accounting II are not full, but our accounting I and typing I classes are always full," said Mrs. Judy Rushing. She also added that the new class to be offered next year will help students pass the Proficiency Test. The department offered an excellent course of study for students whose interests lay in the business field.

(4) Calvin Grunelch explains to Harold Schmidt what his completed project will look like. (5) Bobby Von Esson concentrates on his welding.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

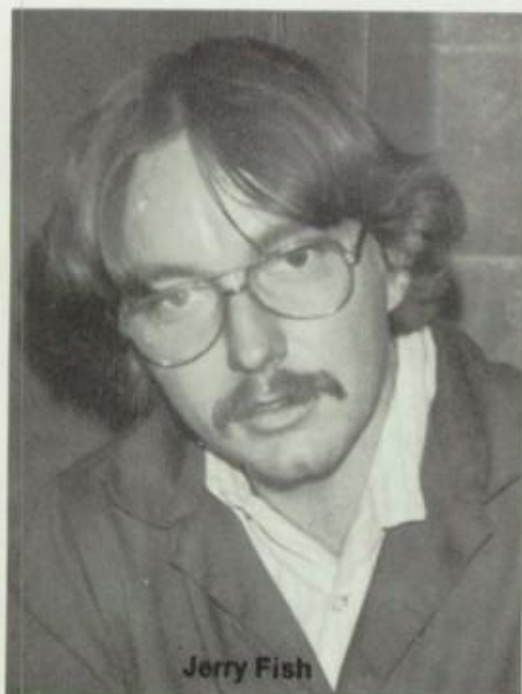

Arvel Smith

Consisting of five areas, drafting, electricity, auto mechanics, metals and woodworking, the Industrial Arts Department gave students experience in vocational and avocational skills.

Students test equipment and build and repair various projects. Through the use of drafting skills, students are able to design their own projects.

Industrial Arts students learned many skills through the departments excellent staff of instructors-skills that they could possibly use in their jobs in later life. The department offered students a full curriculum with 35 periods of Industrial Art being taught.

HOME EC/ AG

The Home Economics Department offered courses which will help students to become more aware in the marketplace and more qualified in the role of homemaker.

In September, a national and state affiliated FHA—HERO chapter was started with an orientation meeting. The purpose of this chapter is to have students learn more about leadership skills and community service involvement.

The Agriculture Department and the Future Farmers of America are organizations for students interested in learning more about California's number one industry.

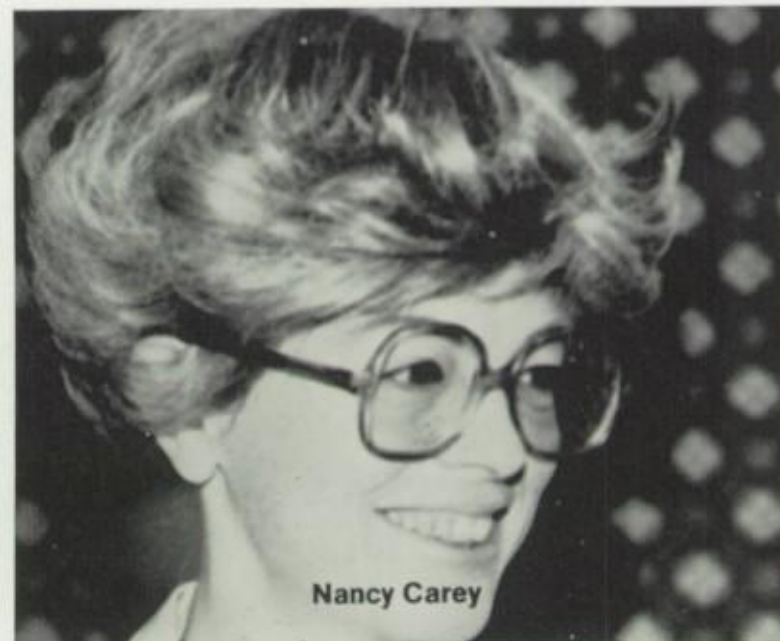

Future Farmers of America, under the guidance of Bob Phelps and Jeff Thompson, gave students the opportunity for many leadership activities such as judging and officers training.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Les Bosch

The Physical Education Department continued to offer students a chance to participate in many activities to further their physical development.

Providing a core program for freshmen and an elective program for sophomores, juniors, and seniors, is still the goal of the department. Once again many seniors opted not to take the optional fourth year of P.E., but this did not adversely affect the already overcrowded department.

Mr. Bob Whittaker was named Athletic Director for the year, taking the place of E. Greg Clark, adding his own special touch to the department.

The department retained its' same personality with Mr. Les Bosch saying, "There was nothing different about this year."

MATH

The Math Department gained two new mathematics teachers this year, Donella Chan and Polly Kung. The two new additions brought some "long-awaited sexual equality to the department," said Math Department Chairman Mac Goodell, referring to the basically all-male staff the department has had in the past.

"Our computer programming class is still fully operational, with students attempting to teach faculty and other students that computers are friendly and useful," said Goodell.

The Life Math class, which was coordinated by Mr. Joe Neff, expanded to eight sections this year. Taught by Mrs. Watt, Miss Kung, Mr. Seely, and Mr. Neff, it offered students a chance to learn valuable information to be used in their future.

Jud Hamilton

The Science Department started out the new year with one new teacher who proved to be a plus to the department. The department worked on a new curriculum division but nothing was changed.

New equipment was purchased for physics and biology classes to further their studies, but funds were still desperately needed for many more supplies. The biggest need the department had was to buy the large pieces of equipment for labs, but unfortunately funds were lacking.

"The science classes always seem to have a good enrollment, even the classes that are not required like physics and advanced biology," said department chairman Jud Hamilton. Hamilton also added that there is always a good turnout for photography 1 and 2.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Robert Clemons

The Social Science Department used the school's accreditation year as an opportunity to review their academic program and suggest improvements.

The department continued their campaign to re-establish a western civilization class for sophomores and also for funds to be used on field trips. The California Club, a department supported group, gathered members and experienced many historical and monumental sites throughout California. Also this year CPR instruction was added to the freshman program offering students the chance to learn "life saving" techniques.

"The loss of E. Greg Clark was regretted by the department, but Richard Marks stepped in to ably fill his shoes," said Social Studies Department Chairman Robert Clemons.

CREATIVE ARTS

Delores Levy

The changing of the Advanced Art Class to a Service Art Class at the semester was an exciting change for the Art Department. Under the direction of Mrs. Delores Levy, the Advanced Art Class painted panels for the teacher's dining room. The success of this venture prompted Mr. Williams to change the class to a Service Art Class and now students are involved in making signs for the Athletic Department and helping the SAB in their projects.

The Art Department would like to be able to offer a jewelry sculpting class and an art history and appreciation class in the future, but no firm plans have been made. An expanded Independent Study Program allows art students who participate in an art project outside of class to receive credit for it.

INDIVIDUAL EDUCATION

The Individualized Education Program was a valuable asset to the school this year, helping many students to reach their full potential.

"In general I was pleased with the results I could see where our efforts and the pupil's efforts were successful," said Kathleen Baldrige.

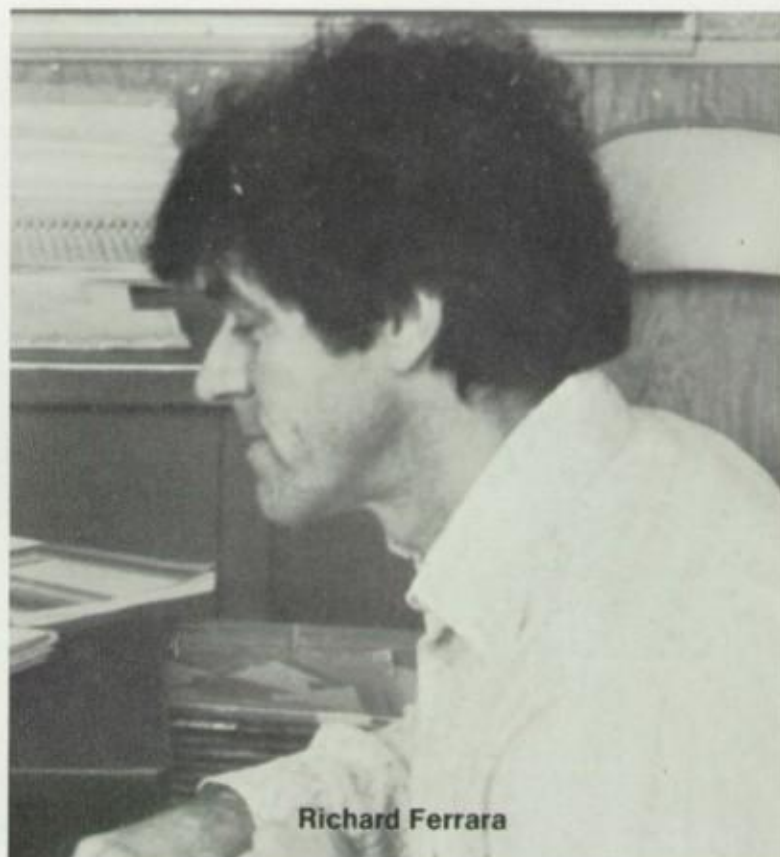

With students receiving individualized attention and being placed in small classes, the program was thought to be extremely effective by those involved.

The program was established at both Lodi and Tokay and was a "step between continuation and high school, a chance to turn around and get back in there," said Richard Ferrara.

With up to 15 students in a class, different subjects could be taught in the same period. Parent contacts were made frequently and according to Ferrara, the object of the program was to, "get students back into a regular school program."

Eclipse

*All that you touch
All that you see
All that you taste
All you feel
All that you love
All that you hate
All you distrust
All that you save
All that you give
All that you deal
All that you buy
beg, borrow, or steal
All you create
All you destroy
All that you do
All that you say
All that you eat
everyone you meet
All that you slight
everyone you fight
All that is now
All that is gone
All that's to come* and everything under the sun is in tune but the sun is eclipsed by the moon

*there is no dark side of the moon
it's all dark*

—Eclipse
